3 SUBSTITUTES FOR SALES TAX ARE SUBMITTED

Heavy Levy on Luxuries Proposed to House by LaGuardia.

OTHER PLANS BACKED BY AMLIE AND KVALE

Liberal Group Is Expected to Rally to Support of New Yorker.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Assault on the sales tax provision of the new $1,096,000,000 tax bill continued in the House yesterday, with party leaders giving the opposition its head, but predicting passage of the measure carrying the sales tax.

The day saw three substitutes proposed for the sales tax section. One of these, proposed by Representative Fiorella H. LaGuardia (Republican), of New York, turned to heavy taxes on luxuries. He estimated his substitute would raise $518,000,000 revenue, as against $595,000000 the ways and means committee estimated the sales taxes would produce.

Representative Thomas A. Amlie (Republican), of Wisconsin; Paul Kvale (Farmer-Labor), of Minnesota, joined in offering another substitute imposing heavy luxury taxes and increasing the surtaxes from the 40 per cent limit carried in the committee measure to 60 per cent.

North Carolina's Plan.

Representative R. L. Doughton (Democrat), of North Carolina, offered a triple-barrelled substitute. He estimated his plan would produce $168,000,000 from excess profits taxes, $125,000,000 from luxury taxes and $125,000,000 from increased postal rates.

Representative LaGuardia decried the sales taxes proposed by the ways and means committee as unfair and unjust and predicted that it would be stricken out. He said under it a family which spent only $1,000 a year for the necessities of life would have to pay $22.50 in taxes, which, he said, was out of all proportion compared with the gentleman who dines on caviar and pate de foie gras.

It is the LaGuardia substitute about which the liberal opponents of the sales tax are expected to rally. Though there are not a large number of votes in the group Representative LaGuardia is a determined battler and has the knack of gathering support.

Agree on Balancing Need.

Authors of the three substitute plans mentioned were in agreement with party leaders that the Federal budget should be brought into balance but the weight of the taxes proposed in the measure prompted the feeling among some members that the total should be reduced.

Representative Ralph Lozier (Democrat), of Missouri, referred to the oversubscription of the $900,000,000 Government bond issue and said that bankers would supply plenty of money to run the Government. He opposed the sales tax saying that he was not willing to put his nose in a ring and let William Randolph Hearst lead him to Republican pastures.

But, Representative Charles R. Crisp (Democrat), of Georgia, acting chairman of the ways and means committee and in charge of the bill, objected to such a manner of continuing the Government business and warned that if the budget were not balanced the Government would be required to pay increasing rates of interest on its borrowings and the taxpayers would lose in the end. He pointed out that the bond issue to which Mr. Lozier referred carried 3½ and 3¾ per cent increase as compared

Los Angeles Opponents Of Mayor Gain Point

Los Angeles, March 11 (A.P.).—A petition seeking to force a recall election against Mayor John C. Porter was found sufficient today by Robert Dominguez, city clerk. The report was laid before the city council, where an ordinance will be drafted ordering the election, probably for May 3, in connection with the presidential primaries.

The mayor is accused of inefficiency, demoralization of the police department, waste of public money, and conduct which has brought ridicule and insult upon the city.

Smith Candidate Quits New York Delegate Race

Glens Falls, N. Y., March 11 (A.P.).—There will be no Smith-Roosevelt test of presidential strength in the Twenty-ninth Congressional District of New York. D. J. Fitzgerald, the only out-and-out Smith supporter, withdrew tonight as a candidate for delegate to the national convention in the interest of "peace and harmony."

Renewal of Fighting In China Is Reported

Rebellion Reported Against New Rule In Manchuria.

Moscow, March 11 (U.P.).—A rebellion against the new, pro-Japanese government of Manchuria, headed by the former boy emperor, Henry Pu-Yi, was reported tonight in Soviet dispatches from Blagoveshchensk.

An attempt to raise the new Manchurian flag in the Chinese garrison at the city of Sakhalien, which is not far from Blagoveshchensk on the Manchurian border, was said to have started the rebellion.

The outbreak began Thursday morning and was still raging late Thursday night, the dispatches said. Ten officers and two civilians, both Numerous Casualties to Foes' Forces Claimed by Japanese.

Shanghai, Saturday, March 12 (A.P.).—Chinese cavalry and Japanese troops occupying the front line 5 miles northwest of Kating clashed in a brisk skirmish shortly before midnight, Gen. Yoshinori Shirakawa's headquarters announced this morning.

The Japanese communique said fighting lasted for an hour and the Chinese apparently suffered numerous casualties, while the Japanese got off unscathed.

It was the Chinese who attacked, the communique said, adding that the attack "disclosed the Chinese insin-

HOOVER'S AID ASKED FOR REPEAL PLANK

Senators Kean and Barbour Submit Jersey's Views; President Silent.

(Associated Press.)

Speculation over a possible wet plank in the Republican national platform was revived yesterday among Eastern Republicans while Democrats centered their attention on the Smith-Roosevelt embroglio in Massachusetts.

The wet talk started again after Senators Kean and Barbour had laid before President Hoover the recommendation of New Jersey Republicans for a repeal plank. Mr. Hoover made no comment. Both senators said afterward it was time the party took some stand for a change.

The recommendation was contained in a formal letter outlining the recent action of the New Jersey Republican State committee in urging a wet plank and indorsing the President for renomination. Senator Barbour said it was presented at the request of the Republican State chairman.

Asked what Mr. Hoover's reaction had been to the antiprohibition section of the letter, Senator Kean smiled and said:

"He made no comment at all. I don't think he had a chance to read the entire letter before we left."

Later at the Capitol, Senator Kean called attention to a recent poll showing a sentiment of 5 to 1 for repeal in New Jersey, and added:

"This indicates that serious consideration should be given by the Republican national convention to the

Brilliant Woman Spy Is Slain in Finland

Helsingfors, Finland, March 11 (A.P.).—The body of Mina Kraucher, a brilliant woman, described by police as an international spy, was discovered today crumpled over a desk in her home. A soft-nosed bullet was imbedded at the base of the brain.

Authorities revealed that she apparently was killed last Tuesday, doubtless by an agent of some Lapua (Fascist) organization with which she had been closely allied, and some of whose secrets she had betrayed. A Fascist attempt to seize the government recently failed.

G. O. P. COMMITTEE CUTS WORKERS' PAY

Salary of Director Lucas is Trimmed $3,000; Ranks Lose 10 Per Cent.

(United Press.)

The economy drive has struck the ranks of the Republican national committee and resulted in pay reductions all along the line, it was learned yesterday.

Although this action was in line with President Hoover's request for strictest governmental economies it was said at the White House, no pressure was brought to bear on the national committee to force pay cuts.

Robert Lucas, executive director of the national committee, took a reduction of $3,000, his salary now being $12,000 a year. Mrs. Ellis A. Yost, head of the women's activities, had her salary reduced $1,000, to $6,000 a year.

In some cases of lesser employes the reductions were on a 10 per cent general scale. The publicity director, James L. West, however, who gets $12,000 a year, was left unscathed. He is under contract at this figure.

Mr. West and Director Lucas now earn the same salary—except that Mr. Lucas gets $10,000 a year expenses, which is expected also to cover entertainment which he has to give as director of the committee.

J. Gordon Bennett, committee statistician, who receives $9,000 a year, and Ben Davis, former Negro political boss in Georgia, on the Republican pay roll for $300 a month, were among the few who escaped wage slashes.

The pay reductions were explained by Mr. Lucas as "just a readjustment" along the lines of general economy.

At the Democratic national committee headquarters concern among the employes was manifest. However, there was no definite indication that the committee leaders there would follow suit.

The Antisaloon League, however, was reliably reported to be planning general wage reductions.

Three Aged Brothers And Sister Die in Fire

Scranton, Pa., March 11 (A.P.).—Four persons lost their lives and another was seriously injured late tonight as fire destroyed their home at Springville, Susquehanna County.

The dead were Warren, Newman, Jacob and Mary Fike, all between 75 and 80 years of age. They were three brothers and a sister.

Entrants in Essay Contest Will Attend Theater Today

Gala Party at Rialto for Boys and Girls in Post's Washington Competition; Isaac Gans Commends Plan to Honor Nation's Hero.

This is a day that will live long in the memories of nearly 2,000 boys and girls who have received their tickets and will attend the great theater party to be given in honor of the contestants in The Washington Post George Washington Essay Contest, at the Rialto Theater, 713 Ninth street, at 9:45 this morning.

The Elks' Boys Band, playing "The Washington Post March," composed for The Washington Post by the late John Philip Sousa, will welcome the boys and girls to the theater, after which they will be given a word of greeting by Representative Sol Bloom, George Washington Bicentennial commissioner. The band will then swing into the stirring strains of the official Bicentennial song, "Father of the Land We Love."

Next, through the courtesy of the Warner Brothers Film Exchange, the great Bicentennial film, "Washington, Man and Capital," will be shown, followed by the Rialto Theater's feature picture for the current week, "Racing Youth," starring Slim Summerville and Louise Fazenda.

Other treats are in store for the youngsters, to contribute to an occasion that will be one of the most enjoyable in their entire experience, but which must await the opening of the theater doors this morning.

Members of The Post Washington Essay Contest and The Junior Post clubs should be on hand bright and early this morning if they have tickets for the motion picture entertainment at the Rialto.

Some of the applications for tickets arrived too late to mail so those children can get their tickets this morning at the door of the theater.

Capt. Holmes, of the First Police Precinct, will send an extra detail of police to aid the children in crossing the streets and controlling traffic generally near the theater.

The editors in charge of the contest have been very busy these last few days handling the flood of essays sent in and distributing the tickets for the show. It is hoped that every essay will be in by midnight on

LEAGUE AGREES ON PLAN TO END FAR EAST'S ROW

Agreements Reached by Force Will Not Be Recognized.

JAPANESE SOLDIERS' EVACUATION SLATED

Program Opposed by Tokyo; U. S. and Other Powers Are Pleased.

Geneva, March 11 (A.P.).—The League of Nations charted its course toward peaceful settlement of the Sino-Japanese quarrel today by voting approval of a 3-point program of action. It provided tersely:

1. Condemnation of military aggression by declaring that agreements reached through military pressure will not be recognized.

2. Acceptance of China's thesis that the assembly is competent to deal with the entire Far Eastern question.

3. Evacuation of Japanese forces in the Shanghai area through machinery of the assembly.

The Japanese and Chinese delegates abstained from voting on the resolution which embodied the league assembly's peace plan. Japan explained she approved the principles, but could not accept the idea that the assembly must deal with the whole problem, including Manchuria. China simply failed to instruct her delegate, but was understood to be highly pleased with the program.

U. S. Quarters Pleased.

In fact, satisfaction appeared to be fairly general throughout the league and in American quarters. It was indicated that international leaders felt the assembly had done much to restore the prestige and authority of the league which admittedly suffered during the handling of the dispute by the council.

The smaller states, which led the drive for condemnation of armed intervention and insisted upon Japanese evacuation from Shanghai, were rejoicing that the league had "demonstrated its moral vigor."

American representatives here were pleased that the assembly had linked the Kellogg pact with point No. 1. In this point the members agreed not to recognize any situation, treaty or agreement contrary to the covenant or the Kellogg pact.

The assembly adjourned subject to the call of the pacification committee, which later decided to meet early next week. Activities will be suspended here tomorrow since most of the leading statesmen will attend the funeral of Aristide Briand in Paris.

Plan Opposed by Japan.

Tokyo, March 11 (A.P.).—Japan instructed her delegation at Geneva today not to vote on the three-point program for solution of Far Eastern difficulties as worked out by the League of Nations.

Her principal objection, it appeared, was inclusion of the Manchurian question with the Shanghai problem which has been consistently and vigorously opposed by Japan.

A spokesman intimated that the Tokyo government considers the whole Manchurian situation as independent and so vitally changed that it might be necessary for Japan to maintain troops in the South Manchurian Railway zone indefinitely.

A Mukden dispatch in the newspaper, Asahi, today said one of the first acts of the new Manchurian cabinet was a decision to ask Japan for a loan of $6,300,000.

Missing Time Compared In 25 Noted Kidnapings

New York, March 11 (A.P.).—Some time between 8 and 10 o'clock tonight, the tenth full day elapsed since kidnapers stole away from Hopewell, N. J., with the 20-month-old son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

In only 4 of 25 other well-known American child kidnapings has the stolen child been returned in less than that time. In 12 other cases, the kidnaped child was missing from 10 days to more than a year. Five children were found dead. Four were never found.

Irish Republican Army Again Patrols in Dublin

Dublin, Irish Free State, March 11 (A.P.).—For the first time in many months men of the Irish Republican army, which the recent Cosgrave administration declared illegal, patrolled the streets of Dublin today and were not interfered with by the police.

The army remains a prohibited body until the new administration of President Eamon de Valera has repealed the public safety act, but nevertheless a recruiting bureau has opened and many volunteers have presented themselves.

PARTY CHARGES FLY AS SENATE DEBATES FUNDS

Interior Department Bill Is Vehicle for Attacks on Economy.

MERGER OF BUREAUS DECLARED UNLIKELY

Pay Raise and Promotion Ban Stricken; McKellar Plans Cuts.

Proposals and counterproposals for more direct methods in curtailing cost of Government forced Federal salary issues into the background yesterday, as the Senate attempted to write economy into the Interior Department appropriations bill.

In the space of an hour the Senate voted down an amendment to reduce expenditures by directing the President to consolidate Government bureaus, then prepared to consider another to slash 10 per cent below budget estimates on every appropriations measure.

The last suggestion was made by Senator Kenneth McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee. He will attempt today to attach the "rider" to the Senate's version of the Interior Department supply bill.

Following the debate, the Senate observed the precedent set in the agriculture appropriation bill and struck from the interior supply measure sections prohibiting increases in Federal pay, promotions, and filling of vacancies without executive order.

Political Animus Flares.

The economy debate, during which political animus flared, and recriminations were passed from party to party and from Congress to the White House, was precipitated by Senator Artnur H. Vandenberg (Republican) Michigan.

He offered to substitute for committee amendments striking pay increase and promotion restrictions from the Interior bill, the language of the George bill, authorizing the President to abolish, transfer or consolidate Government bureaus.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson (Democrat), of Arkansas, objected. He said the amendment was not "germane," and Vice President Curtis put it to a vote. The amendment was lost, 34 to 32. A tie vote was averted when Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, before the result was announced, shifted his vote to no.

There followed a partisan debate, during which Senator J. Hamilton Lewis (Democrat), Illinois, accused the White House of "arrant hypocrisy" and "political misrepresentation" in urging governmental reorganization. He charged the President has "no real desire" to eliminate any Government bureau, and that administration officials blocked efforts of the House in this direction.

Bingham Accuses Democrats.

His speech was countered by Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), Connecticut. He declared Democrats

Chicago Police Wounded In Battle With Mob

Chicago, March 11 (A.P.).—Several policemen were beaten and a score of demonstrators were arrested late today when a mob of several hundred persons parading through northwest side streets attacked a police squad and were dispersed after several riot calls had been sounded. None of the policemen's injuries was reported as serious.

The demonstrators had gathered in Humbolt Park for a mass meeting advertised as sponsored by Communists. A police squad tried to prevent the throng from leaving the park and parading without a permit, but was attacked. The injured policemen said their assailants wielded clubs and other blunt instruments. More than 100 policemen were rushed to the scene and scattered the crowd after a brief tussle.

Woodward Withdraws From Senatorial Race

Philadelphia, March 11 (A.P.).—State Senator George Woodward, of Philadelphia, today announced his withdrawal as a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator. This leaves the field to Senator James J. Davis, on the wet platform; Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, running as a dry, and William S. Adams, Harrisburg, running on antiprohibition platform.

In withdrawing, Woodward said Pennsylvania will now be put to a decisive test as to whether "it is a wet or dry State." "This will accomplish in effect," he said, "what I sought in the last regular session of the Legislature by introducing a bill calling for a referendum on prohibition."

POLICE REQUEST HELP FROM ANY SOURCE ON LINDBERGH KIDNAPING

Story of Kidnaping's Discovery Is Altered

Mrs. Lindbergh Was on Same Floor as Nursery at Time of Abduction and at First Thought Flier Had Taken Baby From Crib.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Hopewell, N. J., March 11 (A.P.).—Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh was on the same floor as the nursery when the kidnaping or her baby was discovered a week ago last Tuesday, it was learned today, and the mother and nurse were not immediately alarmed, both thinking Col. Lindbergh must have taken the child downstairs.

All previous reports have indicated that Mrs. Lindbergh was downstairs with her husband and that Betty Gow, the nurse, found the crib empty and rushed down to the parents with the announcement of the kidnaping.

But it was authoritatively determined today that at 10 o'clock of that night Mrs. Lindbergh was in a bathroom on the second floor, where the nursery is situated, preparing to take a bath.

When Miss Gow, who had only been called to the Lindbergh estate that afternoon, despite previous announcements that she spent the week-end with the baby, found the crib empty. She went to the bathroom and asked if Mrs. Lindbergh had the child there with her.

The mother said she did not have the baby, but, even then, no feeling of consternation was experienced by the two women, though Mrs. Lindbergh did immediately begin to dress.

"I guess the colonel must have taken him downstairs," Miss Gow is reported to have said, in effect, and she went down to ask the father.

When Miss Gow learned that the colonel did not have the baby, however, she suddenly realized the seriousness of the situation and screamed that the baby had been stolen.

By that time Mrs. Lindbergh was in the nursery and Col. Lindbergh joined her there. After a hasty search of house and grounds the police were notified and the hunt began which

BRUENING CHEERED IN HINDENBURG PLEA

President's Name Hailed by 15,000; Nazis Scored in Campaign Speech.

Berlin, March 11 (U.P.).—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening swung the presidential election campaign into the home stretch tonight amid the greatest excitement and tension ever engendered by a political drive in Germany.

"President von Hindenburg must be reelected because Germany must live," Bruening shouted amid the cheers of 15,000 persons gathered at the Berlin sports palace. Thousands more stood in the cold outside, listening to the speech through amplifiers and other thousands heard it broadcast throughout the Nation.

Cheers greeted Bruening as the crowd responded wildly to mention of the name of the soldier-president.

Bruening attacked the Fascist party, headed by Adolph Hitler, chief opponent of Hindenburg in the election, and said: "If the Nazis (Fascists) live up to all of their promises then Germany would be in the throes of inflation within two weeks after they came into power."

The chancellor demanded that the Fascists reveal their program, specifically whether they would stand for a stable currency or for inflation. He was loudly cheered when he made the demand.

He accused the Hitlerites of demagoguery, of promising everything for everybody merely for the purpose of getting into power. Their ascent to power would plunge Germany into conditions "which might be irremediable," he declared.

The ominous words "civil war," uttered by President Paul von Hindenberg in his radio appeal last night, continued to ring out at every mass meeting in the cities and villages where Chancellor Bruening's government is waging a desperate battle against the militant Fascists.

Its representatives spoke to record-breaking crowds, but so did the Nationalistic Hitler when he addressed a meeting at Dortmund, declaring that after Sunday's vote the nation

ANTIHOARDING DRIVE PROGRESS REPORTED

2,395 Communities Reached; Hoover Thanks Press for Assistance.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover announced yesterday the antihoarding campaign now was active in 2,395 communities and had shown positive and useful results in bringing money back into circulation, increasing bank deposits and swelling the sale of Government bonds.

Speaking at his biweekly press conference, the President said he was announcing progress in the drive on behalf of Col. Frank Knox, chairman of the Citizens Reconstruction Organization.

He reported that in addition to the 2,395 communities organized in the antihoarding campaign, new organizations were being formed constantly.

He praised the Nation's press for contributing what he said was millions of dollars' worth of advertising without cost.

The President's statement said:

The campaign of the Citizens' Reconstruction Organization, under the chairmanship of Col. Frank Knox, has now been extended by the organization of 2,395 communities.

Additional communities are being organized each day under the leadership of eminent men and women. The press of the country has patriotically contributed literally millions of dollars in advertising and reading space, materially aiding the effort.

The campaign has already produced positive and useful results, as re-

New York Votes to End 'Lame Duck' Sessions

Albany, N. Y., March 11 (U.P.).—New York State's Legislature tonight ratified Congress' abolishment of "lame duck" sessions. Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt had urged ratification in a special message. Thirty-six States must ratify the constitutional amendment before it becomes a law. Virginia has already done so.

The Legislature adjourned tonight.

Storm Toll Heavy on Land And Sea; Du Pont Party Safe

(Associated Press.)

Out of reach of raging seas, scores of seafaring men yesterday were bound for safe ports as icy winds warmed and a belated winter abated.

It left on land, however, the coldest weather the Rocky Mountain region had experienced in two years. A temperature of 31 below zero was recorded at Laramie, Wyo. Denver's subzero readings were the most prolonged for this late season in 52 years.

Richard du Pont and a party of friends cruising down the Atlantic Coast were taken aboard an Army transport from the yacht Nahama. Friends had expressed fear for their safety.

Twelve men aboard the patrol boat CG-218 and the barge Deepwater were still being sought. The CG-218 has been missing since Monday and the Deepwater since Sunday and a half-dozen cutters have been sent to search for them.

Another hundred of the 700 fishermen marooned on an ice floe in the Gulf of Finland were rescued, leaving some 300 men still in danger. The 100 horses marooned with them were reported suffering badly from the cold.

The 34 members of the crew of the collier H. F. de Bardeleben were aboard the freighter Laganbank bound for Boston. They risked a long chance Activity of Underworld Increases as Plea Is Broadcast.

NEW YORK SUSPECT TAKEN TO HOPEWELL

Man Viewed in Manhattan Tombs by Rosner, Reputed Envoy of Colonel.

Hopewell, N. J., March 11 (A.P.).—A police appeal for information "regardless of the source," to be treated with strict confidence, was broadcast tonight coincident with widespread underworld activity in the search for the kidnaped Lindbergh baby and a mysterious incident in Tombs Prison, New York.

The wholesale bid for cooperation from all sources was the first of its kind made by State police officials since the famous flier's son was stolen from his sick bed a week ago last Tuesday night.

"In our earnest desire to accomplish the recovery of the baby," it said, "the police will welcome information of any kind leading to its return, regardless of the source.

"The identity of all people disclosing information leading to the recovery of the baby, whether the information be valuable or not, will be treated with confidence."

Circulars Printed Here.

Circulars making this plea are being distributed to all police departments in the United States, officials said. They are being printed in Washington, Lieut. Walter J. Coughlin, of the State police, said, but it was not known whether they had been prepared by some Federal Government agency.

A man described as a possible suspect in the case was viewed in Tombs Prison last night by Morris Rosner, acting as a personal representative of Col. Lindbergh and then, according to reliable information, was brought to Hopewell early today.

Rosner has been a mysterious figure in the case. He has been described by newspapers as a man with widespread underworld connections, who has been frequently at the Lindbergh home since kidnaping, but beyond this little is known about him.

Underworld Motive Mystifies.

Officials of the department of correction said any further statement about the Tombs angle of the case might kill the effectiveness of their work.

The department commissioner, Richard C. Patterson, jr., said the department "would release 50 prisoners if it would get that baby back, but remember, I'm not admitting that we did take out a prisoner."

The activity of underworld characters, who usually shun the public eye, in a case commanding international attention was subect to a variety of interpretations—an attempt to win public gratitude, possible reward or a sincere eagerness to help effect a return of the kidnaped child.

Illicit Activities Hampered.

In this connection it was even pointed out that liquor smuggling and other illicit activities have faced new obstacles as a consequence of the intensive manhunt that began a week ago last Tuesday night when the baby stealers made off with the famous flier's son.

Suspicious trucks and automobiles by the hundreds have been stopped. Main highways and country roads from Canada to the Mexican border have been watched day and night.

MARINES WILL QUIT NICARAGUA IN 1932

U. S. Not Expected to Keep Soldiers There After November Election.

(Associated Press.)

It was clearly indicated yesterday in Government quarters that the United States is not disposed to keep American Marines in Nicaragua after this year.

State Department officials have before them for consideration a program presented by two Nicaraguans sent to discuss constitutional reforms. Although the department was silent on the Nicaraguan memoranda, presented last week and Thursday, it was understood the Nicaraguans—Dr. Carlos Morales and Dr. Horacio Arguello Bolanos—have broached the question of keeping Marines, or at least Marine officers, in Nicaragua after December, when they are scheduled to be withdrawn.

Previously, department officials have said the Marines would be withdrawn after the presidential election in November. The announcement recently that more Marines were to be sent down to supervise the voting was followed by assurances that all would come out afterward.

Cuba Arrests Newspaperman.

Havana, Cuba, March 11 (A.P.).—Police revealed today that Emilio N. Robaina, former New York correspondent of a Havana newspaper who was detained several times in the United States for participating in the activities of Cuban revolutionaries there, was arrested last night in his Havana hotel. Robaina, who has admitted that he was a member of the junta that planned the unsuccessful rebellion last August, was taken to Castillo Prison where he was held at the disposition of President Machado.

Argentine Promises Interest.

New York, March 11 (A.P.).—In a statement issued through the Argentine Bureau of Information tpday, Minister of Finance Alberto Hueyo assured creditor nations that his country would meet all interest service on foreign debts. Minister Hueyo pointed out that the Argentine government intended to enforce the operation of a balanced budget and reduce expenditures to meet the falling revenues expected during the fiscal year.

Brazilian Restlessness Reported.

Montevideo, Uruguay, March 11 (A.P.).—Restlessness in several towns of Rio Grande do Sul, southernmost state of Brazil, is reported from border sources as a result of the resignation of most of the members from that state in President Getulio Vargar's cabinet. Several members of the cabinet resigned last week and in some circles it was said they were forced out.

Plague Reported in Sao Paulo.

Santos, Brazil, March 11 (A.P.).—A campaign to eliminate rats from the Santos waterfront was started today after reports of several cases of bubonic plague had been received from Sao Paulo, Brazil. The precaution was taken despite the fact that no cases have been reported here.

Alicia Rodgers Elopes With Italian Marquis

Rome, March 11 (U.P.).—Police were searching throughout Italy tonight for Miss Alicia Rodgers, 18-year-old daughter of Capt. Christopher R. P. Rodgers, U. S. N., retired, who eloped last Wednesday with the Marquis Lorenzo Solari, 22, son of the Marquis Luigi Solari, general manager of the Italian Marconi Co.

The bride is a member of an old Boston family. She had been living with her grandmother, who is now a resident of Rome. Her grandfather was the late George Von L. Meyer, former Secretary of the Navy in the United States and former Ambassador to Italy.

STORY OF KIDNAPING DISCOVERY CHANGED

was still in full swing today without any palpable results.

It has been repeatedly stated that Miss Gow did not leave the Lindbergh house on the day of the kidnaping or during the previous week-end. This was literally true, but it was only learned today that it was also misleading. Miss Gow did not leave the Lindbergh home during that period for the very simple reason that she was not there.

The Lindberghs had been accustomed to leave Miss Gow at the Morrow home in Englewood when they made their week-end trips to their estate here, and they followed this custom on this occasion. On Tuesday, however, they decided to remain here instead of returning to Englewood as they had planned, because of the baby's cold.

And so they telephoned to the Morrow home and had Miss Gow come out. She arrived late in the afternoon.

Col. Lindbergh got home at 8:30, half an hour after the baby had been put to bed, and he and Mrs. Lindbergh at once had dinner. After dinner they sat in the living room for a little while and then Col. Lindbergh moved to his desk in the room beneath the nursery and Mrs. Lindbergh went upstairs to take a bath before going to bed.

Provides That Licenses Be Refused Small Boats Transporting Persons to Gambling and Drinking Craft Anchored Outside 3-Mile Limit.

(Associated Press.)

Gambling and drinking resorts on ships anchored beyond the 3-mile limit were the target of a bill passed by the Senate yesterday intended to keep their patrons ashore.

Without debate, it approved a measure by Senator Johnson (Republican), California, directing the Secretary of Commerce to refuse permits to small vessels engaged in carrying passengers to ships on the high seas "engaged in any business or occupation prohibited by law." The measure now goes to the House.

Meanwhile a bill was pending before a Senate commerce committee to break up the practice of "cruises to nowhere," another method which has been used to evade liquor and other prohibitory laws.

Senator Johnson said his measure was primarily aimed at ships used for gambling purposes off Long Beach, Calif., but its terms were general in nature.

In recommending the legislation, the Bureau of Navigation said it was aimed at conditions off the California and Florida coasts, particularly.

Regulation of the practice, the bureau said, has proved difficult because the barges anchored outside the 3-mile limit do not come within the provisions of the navigation laws and the small transport vessels claim to carry passengers without compensation.

The bureau said its reports show "that gambling and other practices are extensively indulged in on these vessels," and added that enactment of the law would provide the Government with effective means of "preventing a practice growing up along our coasts which is meeting with the condemnation of citizens generally."

POLICE REQUEST AID OF ALL IN SOLVING KIDNAPING CASE

The search has even spread to the waters of the Atlantic, while every city, county, State and Federal officer has been unusually alert.

Salvatore (Salvy) Spitale and Irving Bitz, the "go-betweens" named by the anxious parents, went on trial in a Brooklyn Federal court on a prohibition conspiracy charge.

As a jury was being chosen their counsel announced Spitale had received hundreds of tips on the kidnaping case; that one of them "looks pretty good," and that as soon as the trial is over Spitale will "leave for the West" to investigate the lead.

Ransom Demand Increase.

This statement was followed by a dispatch from Detroit quoting a lawyer identified as Spitale's regular attorney as saying the Lindbergh baby is safe.

The Detroit News also quoted the lawyer as stating the ransom would be higher than the $50,000 generally mentioned as the sum demanded in the note left pinned to the window sill of the child's room.

In the Cook County (Chicago, Ill.) Jail "Scarface Al" Capone, Illinois gang leader, was awaiting some response to his offer to post a $200,000 bond if he were granted liberty so he could use his underworld influence in getting the baby back. In Washington, Attorney General Mitchell said the proposition had not been put before the Justice Department.

Max Silverman, bondsman, said in Newark tonight he had been commissioned to take to Chicago tomorrow "more than $200,000" in bonds to be posted for the release of Capone. He said he would go by plane. Silverman described himself as the bondsman who posted $100,000 bail for Capone when the Chicago gang leader was arrested in 1929 on an income tax charge.

Wife's Uncle Outlines Plan.

The New York Sun said Owney Madden, reputed racketeer, who is fighting a move to return him to prison, had been giving his time and attention to the child hunt since last Thursday.

While the colonel's own movements were wrapped in even more secrecy than they have been in the last ten days, because of the police refusal to send any more questions to the hill-top home to be answered, his wife's uncle outlined a plan the flier had been urged by members of his family to adopt.

The scheme, as explained by Brig. Gen. Jay Morrow, of Englewood, was for Col. Lindbergh to get in touch with a lawyer known to have widespread contacts with members of the underworld, who might be in a position to reach the kidnapers or their representatives.

Would Send Money Abroad.

The attorney would be authorized to promise the abductors the ransom demanded and safety. They would place the child with some family in no way connected with the case and then notify the lawyer of his whereabouts.

As soon as the child were recovered, the Lindberghs would send the ransom to some designated country, withholding any information from police unless they were to be taken to court and forced to tell.

By that time the kidnapers would have had an opportunity to reach the country decided upon, obtain their money, and disappear.

There were indications the plan, at least in some modified form, had been taken into consideration by Col. Lindbergh in his private efforts, independent of police actions, to secure the return of his son.

100 Workmen Questioned.

Police disclosed today, in the first of two daily bulletins they will issue henceforth, that 100 men who worked on the Lindbergh home had been questioned and exonerated of any possible connection with the kidnaping. Others who have left the vicinity are still being sought for questioning.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf explained police had discontinued the system of answering questions sent to the Lindbergh home because "it was taken a great deal of our time which really belongs to the advancement of the work" of the investigation. He added an expression of regret that an attempt had been made "to dictate to police."

The first bulletin also disclosed that employes of the State forestry and fish and game departments had been ordered to report any "suspicious circumstances" they might have noticed, or strangers they might have encountered, or new residents they might have seen in the Hopewell area before the kidnaping.

Col. Schwarzkopf said the possibility of connecting the kidnapers' ladder with construction work done at Skillman State Home for Epileptics "seems to be exhausted."

Capone Offer Discussed At Meeting of Cabinet

(United Press.)

President Hoover's Cabinet yesterday discussed Al Capone, jailed Chicago gangster, who has offered to aid in the search for the kidnaped Lindbergh baby if released from prison, it was learned yesterday.

Although it was reliably reported the nature of the discussion of Capone centered about the famous kidnaping case, the details could not be learned.

Authorities here, however, do not appear to be taking Capone's offer seriously. One high official of the Justice Department pointed out that Attorney General William D. Mitchell had not been asked to intervene.

Mitchell, it was said, has no authority to grant Capone his freedom. This rests with the Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago, which has denied Capone's petition for bail and which would hear an appeal for a rehearing.

No such appeal has as yet been made, it was learned. The only other method through which Capone could be released is by presidential pardon and this was believed by high officials here to be extremely unlikely.

Tax Deduction Claimed In Ransom of Banker

Granite City, Ill., March 11 (A.P.). Now that kidnapings are of such vital interest to the American people, the question arises whether ransom money paid to abductors is deductible from Federal income tax.

Internal Revenue Collector O. G. Addleman says the answer is "no." Charles W. Pershall, Granite City banker, says it is "yes." He claims he paid $10,000 to kidnapers for his release last February and asks if he can deduct the amount from his tax.

Collector Addleman is asking the Revenue Department at Washington to give the answer.

Suspect Held in Miami Is Cleared in Kidnaping

Miami, Fla., March 11 (U.P.).—John Norman Brett, described as a racetrack follower, has satisfied authorities he has no knowledge of the Lindbergh kidnaping case and has been released, H. McCaffery, of the United States District Attorney's office here announced late today.

Brett has been in the Miami area all winter at various race tracks and intensive questioning failed to produce any worthwhile information, McCaffery said. Brett surrended voluntarily to a special Federal agent and was photographed and fingerprinted at the Miami Detective Bureau, it was said.

Go-Betweens Plan Detroit Negotiation

Col. Lindbergh's Mother Named as Possible Participant.

Detroit, March 11 (U.P.).—A visit here by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's underworld go-betweens in the kidnaping of his son can mean only a meeting with Eastern gangsters or a deal with Mrs. Evangeline Lodge Lindbergh, the colonel's mother, Detroit police said tonight.

Salvatore Spitale and Irving Bitz, the New York racketeers named by Lindbergh to represent him in any gangster plans necessary for the return of the baby, said today in New York that they would come to Detroit soon.

"It's sure they aren't coming out here to see any of our kidnapers and extortionists, because we haven't any good ones left," Lieut. William Hoffman said. "We've put most of them in prison."

That the baby might be returned to its parents through the elder Mrs. Lindbergh has been rumored here, but there apparently has been no foundation for the report. Mrs. Lindbergh has taught her classes at Cass Technical High School daily.

28 Babies Investigated On Liner Bergensfjord

Bergen, Norway, March 11 (A.P.).—Twenty-eight babies of various ages were aboard the liner Bergensfjord when she arrived here today, but none of them was the kidnaped Lindbergh boy.

The master of the vessel said he was stupefied yesterday when he received a bombardment of wireless messages from various newspapers asking whether the Lindbergh child was aboard. He immediately began an investigation, requiring passengers to show birth certificates for their children or submit other data equally convincing.

Attempt to Abduct Girl, Child of Banker, Foiled

Poplar Bluff, Mo., March 11 (A.P.). Two Negroes attempted to kidnap Molly Horton, 12-year-old granddaughter of M. C. Horton, president of the Bank of Poplar Bluff, last night. The child was found an hour later in a semiconscious condition with her feet tied, in the yard behind her home.

The kidnapers presumably were frightened away by passing motorists. The child said she went to the back yard after some fuel when two Negroes jumped over a concrete wall at the side of the yard and struck her on the head, rendering her unconscious.

RADIO BILL TERMED MONOPOLY GESTURE

Senator White Says Measure Passed by House Would Hurt U. S. Firms.

(Associated Press.)

Senator White (Republican), Maine, told the Senate interstate commerce committee yesterday provisions of a House-approved radio bill prohibiting licenses to companies in which foreign interests are represented "would be a far-reaching step toward monopoly."

It would "affect most directly and disastrously a single American company, the International Telephone & Telegraph Co.," Senator White said, adding that the competition in the international field lay between the I. T. T. and the Radio Corporation of America.

He said the International Telephone & Telegraph was formed of subsidiary companies with virtually all of the stock held by United States citizens, but that 5 of its 23 directors were aliens. He said so far as he knew none of the directors of the Radio Corporation of America nor its officers were aliens.

To include the prohibition, Senator White said, "would be doing grievous harm to an American communication company and would be closely verging on monopolistic control of international facilities."

"I am afraid it would wreck the entire communication system of the company," Senator White said.

He said the Radio Commission had recommended the provision, but that he objected to it most vigorously.

Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, expressed the opinion "an attempt to move those directors (of the I. T. T.) would be disastrous in countries in which it operates.

"The Radio Corporation of America has exclusive contracts with some 44 countries," Senator Dill said, "which the I. T. T. can not get into, but it has got into some and is providing some competition."

Col. Lindbergh's Mail Totals 50,000 Letters

Newark, N. J., March 11 (A.P.).—In the ten days since kidnapers stole his 20-month-old son, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has received 50,000 letters from "cranks" and well-wishers offering suggestions as to how he might recover the child.

The figure was given today by Gov. A. Harry Moore in an address at the Newark Athletic Club. He himself has received about 10,000 communications about the case, he said.

Lindbergh Fund Racket Brings Term in Prison

New York, March 11 (A.P.).—The "racket" Harry L. Davis conceived from the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby brought him an indeterminate term of from one to three years in the penitentiary today.

He pleaded guilty to attempted petty larceny as the result of a plan whereby he attempted, by use of stationery on which names of prominent men appeared, to raise a fund to engage detectives to search for the stolen child.

Letter Threatens Dry Agent's Child

Blackmailers Promise to Harm Girl If $1,500 Is Not Paid Them.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., March 11.—Ralph Tagg, prohibition enforcement officer stationed here, has been warned by letter that unless he produced $1,500 his small daughter would be harmed. The police revealed the contents of the letter today.

The money was to have been placed at an old mill at Funkstown, 3 miles from here. The time was fixed in the note last Monday night, but it was impossible to reach there because the snow had the road closed.

"This letter is of some importance to you and you had better keep your ——— mouth shut. For the sum of $1,500 you can be safe. If you do not do as told your children will fall into our trap. You have two boys and one girl. The girl is ours. Place the money in the old mill that burned down in Funkstown Monday night at 10 p. m. You had better not tell the police as they will make it worse for you."

Boxing Fans Hear Prayer for Baby

Joe Humphries Pleads for Return of Boy as 15,000 Listen.

New York, March 11 (U.P.).—The bellowing voice of old Joe Humphries, which has brought thousands of fight fans to a frenzy of cheering in Madison Square Garden, tonight stilled a crowd of 15,000 while he prayed for the safe return of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr.

Standing beneath the glare of spotlights in the center of the canvas ring, Humphries lowered his voice: "Oh Lord," he said, "we beseech you in this moment of prayer to return Baby Lindbergh to his heart-broken mother and grief-stricken father. If it is Thy will, Thy will be done. Amen." Tonight's prayer was offered just before Humphries announced the Battalino-Ran fight.

Five years ago Humphries silenced a similar crowd with a prayer for the safe arrival in France of little Charles Augustus' father. On that night Lindbergh was making history's first solo nonstop airplane flight across the Atlantic Ocean.

British Airplanes Again Bomb Turangjai Troops

Peshawar, India, March 11 (A.P.).—Bombs from British army airplanes fell today in the nearby border village where the hostile Haji of Turangjai preaches a holy war against Great Britain. It was the third time this week that bombs were dropped in the hostile areas of the northwest territory.

The Haji apparently has ignored the warning recently served upon him and threatens to march his men across the Indian border.

Gibraltar Ship Search Ends Rumor About Baby

Gibraltar, March 11 (A.P.).—A report that the kidnaped Lindbergh boy was aboard the liner Roma, which spent a few minutes in the harbor today on the way from New York to Naples, caused a sensation.

United States Consul Sprague spoke to ship's officers about the report and Italian authorities were informed, but search revealed nothing to substantiate the rumor.

End of Pupils' Homework Held Relief for Parents

By JOHN J. DALY

SCHOOL children of America may soon be rid of all home work, lessons confined solely to the classroom, and no questions asked in the old homestead. 'Tis a consummation devoutly wished by all the fellows and girls who go home afternoons with textbooks under their arms, and by their parents who stand solidly in back of the new movement.

Along with other racketeering, home work should have been ruled out years ago. Home is no place for work of any kind, except, perhaps, what is generally known as housework, by mother and the maids, and a little extra puttering about by father and the boys. They may be pardoned for doing a paint job, now and then, the fixing of a gadget, the repairing of a fence. As a rule, even this should be discouraged. Every time one of these makeshift jobs is done, or half done, some good man and true is, ipso facto, ruled out of a job.

NO, there should be no home work for anybody. Home is where the heart is, and not the hatchet or the hammer. Anyway, who ever put his heart in home work? This business of bringing classroom studies into the sanctity of the home has gone just a little bit too far. It begins to look as if the teachers in primary and elementary schools, and even the junior high, were shirking their duty.

Home work may have been all right so long as children put their little noses in books, and kept them there; but when they begin asking embarrassing questions, getting the old folks all hot and bothered, that is carrying a joke too far.

Many a game of bridge, or a radio program, has been ruined by Junior asking his father how to do a quadratic equation—when the old gentleman, even if he has not forgotten all he ever knew about the unknown quantities of algebra never knew half as much as Junior himself. The consequence is a disrupted home, with father passing the buck, sending the boy to his mother, who at that moment is just getting rid of little sister and her elementary Latin oy sending them both over to Father.

IF home work goes, most of the drudgery of housework goes with it; for it is infinitely easier for fathers and mothers to do any one of a number of things around a house than it is for them to recall the laborious lessons they studied at school.

Why continue the rigamarole? Unless a stop is put to home work, these same children of today will be having the same sort of trouble all over again, in the years to come, with their own children running to them for help on problems that ought to oe solved once and for all in the classroom.

Arise, fathers and mothers, kill off home work, and be called blessed!

DETROIT RED CROWD URGES FORD'S TRIAL

Throng of 5,000 Present as His Conviction Is Asked for Riot Deaths.

Detroit, March 11 (A.P.).—Five thousand persons packed the Arena Gardens tonight for a meeting avowedly sponsored by Communists and heard speakers demand "the trial and conviction of Henry Hord for countenancing the murder of our comrades."

Other speakers, none of whom were identified, urged the "immediate ejection" of Frank Murphy as Mayor of Detroit, and establishment of a Soviet government in the United States.

The meeting, in a building on the edge of the business district, was called after Monday's riot in front of the Ford Motor Co.'s plant in Dearborn, in which four unemployment marchers were killed.

Most of the 5,000 spectators within the hall and the 1,000 who gathered outside, unable to gain admittance, apparently were curiosity seekers, hundreds of them boys and girls. Young girls circulated through the crowd distributing red and black badges. Many inflammatory banners were displayed and Communistic publications were distributed.

One hundred policemen in plain clothes were on hand and others were held in reserve against trouble, which had not developed several hours after the meeting started.

Earlier in the day Roger N. Baldwin, director of the American Civil Liberties Union, had announced he intends to try to take Henry Ford into court in connection with damage suits to be based on the riot casualties.

The legal proceedings, Mr. Baldwin said, will be based on an attack on the constitutionality of the Michigan law which provides for charges against persons who kill officers during riots, but does not contain a ground for action against officers who may kill rioters.

Florida Jury Frees Man Accused of Killing Wife

Arcadia, Fla., March 11 (A.P.).—William Raymond Carver, formerly of Philadelphia, was acquited by a circuit court jury here this afternoon of charges he murdered his wife with a hatchet in 1930 at their home in Sebring, Fla. The jury deliberated about an hour and five minutes.

Carver profusely thanked the jury His and his wife's relatives crowded about him with congratulations. At his first trial in 1930 at Sebring, Carver was convicted and given a life sentence. The supreme court granted him a new trial.

U. S. DREDGE FREED FROM MUD BY TUGS

Five Men Taken Off Taylor by Coast Guard; Capital Man Aboard Ship.

Sandusky, Ohio, March 11 (A.P.).—Two tugboats steamed their way 40 miles through the ice floes of Lake Erie today to free the Government dredge Taylor, aground on Starve Reef Island since Wednesday night.

The tugs, the Indiana and Florida, in command of Capt. Ralph Miller, put out from Toledo before dawn and arrived at the island, 3 miles from Put-in-Bay, after an eight-hour battle with the ice. They pulled the dredge, a 193-foot all-steel boat, off a mud bank with little trouble.

This morning Coast Guardsmen from the Marblehead Station, making their way to the dredge, after two failures yesterday, took five men off. They were engineers en route eastward and impatient at the delay.

The Taylor ran into a storm Wednesday night and became caught in the ice near the island. High winds swept the water away and the boat settled down on the reef. However, she had plenty of provisions and her position was not considered dangerous. She was carrying 40 men.

The dredge was making a test run from Toledo to Cleveland. It was reported the Taylor would return to Toledo.

Those taken off today in order to catch a train to Washington included United States Inspector James Walders, of Oswego, N. Y., and H. H. Haas, of Washington, and Frank M. Lewis, of New York.

3 SUBSTITUTES ARE OFFERED FOR SALES TAX PROPOSAL

with interest rates of 1⅜ and 1½ on similar issues a year ago.

Both Republican and Democratic leaders admitted there was wide and strong opposition to the sales tax and their frank admission was supplemented by a promise by the ways and means committee to give consideration to an amendment exempting canned goods from the tax. Canners throughout the country have protested against the tax on their products.

President Hoover will accept the sales tax and other provisions of the bill, the House was told by Representative Allen Treadway (Republican), of Massachusetts.

Representative Treadway told the House that this "is the time for us to show our true colors and real interest in the welfare of the country" and declared that "this is no time for partisanship or for seeking personal gain. It is a time when we must meet a crisis irrespective of any personal, political or sectional feeling."

The one aim of every Government official from the President down, he said, was to balance the national budget in 1933.

Distinction Between Plans.

He drew a distinction between the manufacturers' "excise tax" incorporated in the bill and a sales tax as the latter ordinarily is understood. The excise taxes proposed by the Treasury Department, he said, had been found by the committee to be more burdensome than the tax incorporated in the bill which represented the committee's choice of the lesser of two evils.

In addition to the hearty cooperation of the President in pushing the measure to enactment, he said that Secretary of the Treasury Mills also would help the bill in the Senate. He opposed proposals to raise the income tax above the committee 40 per cent maximum because to do so would mean a loss rather than a gain in revenue.

Representative Henry T. Rainey (Democrat), of Illinois, Democratic floor leader, repeated his previous prediction that the manufacturers' sales tax would be accepted. He said he was opposed to a sales tax, but that the committee had been confronted with an almost desperate situation which required raising of the additional revenue and the proposed sales tax was the least burdensome and objectionable of any of the various substitutes which had been proposed.

Black Outlook Painted.

Representative John W. McCormack (Democrat), of Massachusetts, said that before the bankers had agreed to take the recent $900,000,000 issue of Government bonds they had been assured by Secretary Mills that the Government would enact a tax bill designed to balance the outgo and income of the Government.

Unless the budget is balanced, Mr. McCormack said, the Nation would see scenes similar to those which occurred in 1873, when persons knelt in the streets to pray.

He attacked the provision taxing oil and gasoline imports as having no place in the bill. Representative Carroll Beedy (Republican), of Maine, also attacked the oil taxes, urging this was a tariff matter.

Though the oil tax is strongly opposed by Eastern members of the House it is strongly supported by those from oil producing regions and, it may, incidentally, prove to be one of the important factors in adopting of the sales tax. The oil tax advocates are expected to support the committee recommendations on the sales tax in return for their tax on oil imports.

Details of LaGuardia Plan.

Representative LaGuardia's estimate of $518,500,000 which would be raised through his substitute for the sales tax was set forth in detail in a statement made public by the New Yorker. His substitute program follows:

Increase of 1 cent in first-class postage, $135,000,000; stamp taxes on checks and drafts of 1 cent for each check or draft under $100 and 2 cents over $100, $95,000,000; 10 per cent of the annual rental of safe deposit boxes and vaults, $5,000,000; stamp tax of 5 cents each on contracts, covenants, conveyances, deeds, mortgages, and other written agreements, $10,000,000; stamp tax (1 cent under $100 and 2 cents above $100) on receipts, acquittances or other evidence of payment of moneys, $25,000,000; increase of 2 to 4 cents tax on stock transfers and sales and 6 cents on loans of stock, $40,000,000; 10 cents per $100 face value tax on bond issues and transfers, $10,000,000.

Levies on Automobiles.

A 5 per cent tax on the retail price of radios and phonographs was estimated to yield $30,000,000; 5 per cent tax on gross receipts of radio advertising, $5,000,000; 5 per cent tax on retail price of cosmetics and perfumes, $15,000,000.

Two and one-half per cent tax on passenger automobiles would yield $45,000,000; 1½ per cent tax on trucks, $3,500,000; and 2 per cent on accessories, $20,000,000, a total of $68,500,000 from the automobile taxes.

Increased incomes taxes would raise the rates proposed by the committee on incomes from $100,000 up. The tax would be graduated from 40 per cent to 49 per cent on incomes over $1,000,000. The estimated increased revenue was $10,000,000.

A 5 per cent tax on jewelry, works of art and similar articles would yield $20,000,000.

A graduated charge for corporation registration was proposed as follows: Up to $10,000 capitalization, $5; from $10,000 to $150,000, $10; from $150,000 to $250,000, $20; from $250,000 to $500,000, $40; from $500,000 to $1,000,000, $50; from $1,000,000 to $5,000,000, $100; and over $5,000,000, $500; estimated to yield $50,000,000.

Snow Hides Fate of Local Man in Blue Ridge Camp

Snowdrifts 10 and 15 feet deep reported in the vicinity of Luray, Va., are thought to have cut off George F. Pollock, of 5501 Thirty-ninth street northwest, who is at his camp at Skyland, in Blue Ridge, from communication with his Washington home. Mrs. Pollock has attempted without success to get in touch with him.

Mr. Pollock left for his camp on Thursday of last week, intending to return the following Monday, and no message has been received explaining his absence. Phone lines leading from Luray to Skyland are shattered.

Hundreds of people living in the Blue Ridge and Massanutten Mountains are suffering from the intense cold. In Corbin Hollow, Madison County, the shortage of food has become serious, and many families are barely subsisting on a diet of corn bread. Their isolation has practically blotted them out from civilization.

STORM TOLL HEAVY ON LAND AND SEA

to reach the rescuing vessel through the raging seas just a few hours before the De Bardeleber sank, a victim to four days of incessant pounding.

Rescues on Lake Erie.

Five Government engineers, anxious to proceed eastward, were taken from the Government dredge Taylor, aground off Put-In Bay, in Lake Erie, only a few hours before the tugs Florida and Indiana, from Toledo, released the Taylor, which had 40 men aboard.

The freighter Fellowcraft drifted in ice floes 9 miles out from Windsor, Ontario. An airplane which dropped food and provisions to the 20 members of the crew received a signal that all were well aboard.

Two tugs were on their way to assist the German freighter Harburg, 300 miles southeast of Halifax. The Harburg has a damaged steering gear.

Villagers Destitute.

A Coast Guard cutter took a Red Cross representative with provisions and medical supplies to Rodanthe, a small fishing village in South Carolina, where 20 families were reported destitute. Five houses had been destroyed, six badly damage and nine swept from their foundations.

Heavy snow in northern Mexico disturbed railroad traffic somewhat. Snow fell in Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas, New Orleans seeing the white flakes for the first time in two years.

Three men were frozen to death in a city park at Clarksburg, W. Va.

A man identified as Sidney S. Rubinson, of Boone, Iowa, was found dead from injuries and freezing beside the Texas & Pacific Railroad near Abilene, Tex. The coroner decided the cold caused him to fall from a train. The temperature there last night ranged around 21 degrees above zero.

Crop Damage Extensive.

Fears of extensive crop damage in the South from the freeze were borne out by the Department of Agriculture in Washington, which expressed the belief the loss would mount into hundreds of thousands of dollars, with early crops killed in much of the Carolinas, Georgia, Florida, Mississippi, Alabama and Texas. The department gave out the following report:

"Freeze to coast in Carolinas and Georgia killed all tender crops up at present time • • • 100 per cent fruit and bloom killed, delaying crop six weeks.

"Mississippi and Alabama strawberry shipments will practcially cease for next 30 days. Reduction in final yields will depend upon extent of injury to plants which can not be determined but probably 30 to 40 per cent reduction in yields. Probably heavy damage to pears and early peaches in Mississippi."

Snow in New Orleans.

Destructive frosts extended into Florida, with potato growers at Hastings reporting a 15 per cent loss. Considerable damage was done by frost north of there, but overcast skies protected most of Florida. Florida berries were damaged, but growers said they were not as badly hurt as those in Louisiana.

A light blizzard Thursday night laid a thin blanket of snow in New Orleans. Other points reporting snow were Corpus Christi, Houston, Port Arthur and Austin, Tex., southwestern Louisiana cities and Little Rock.

Hardships of refugees from the flooded Atchafalaya River, which has driven hundreds of families into camps in St. Martin's Parish, La., were increased by the cold.

DEATH OF ARLINGTON MAN BLAMED ON CAR

Coroner's Verdict Declares Norris Victim of Auto; Driver Sought.

After a day of investigation into the death of Earl Thomas Norris, of Bon Air, Arlington County, whose body was found lying in the middle of Arlington avenue, within two blocks of his home Thursday night at 11 o'clock, the theory of murder was discarded following the verdict given by the coroner, Dr. B. H. Swain, late yesterday afternoon.

It reads:

"Death possibly was caused by being struck by an automobile, the skid chains of which passed over head, crushing face and frontal bone over the left eye."

The examination by Dr. Swain; who was assisted by Dr. W. C. Welburn, disclosed bruises about the left shoulder.

Sheriff Howard B. Fields, who had contended that the man had been murdered at about the spot where found, stated last night that following the verdict of the coroner and after viewing the body he was satisfied that he had been struck by an automobile.

Deputy Sheriff Harry Woodyard, with all county officers, was at work during the entire day in an effort to learn who was responsible for Norris' death.

While Dr. Swain would not say that he was certain that the man had met his death at the hands of some operator of an automobile, there was every indication from the careful examination made that death was caused by an automobile. The left shoe worn by Norris showed the heel partly torn loose.

Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas stated last night following the announced verdict of Dr. Swain that he would continue a determined effort to apprehend the person or persons responsible for the death of Norris.

Mr. Douglas declared that it was a most horrible crime and that every effort will be made to bring the persons responsible to court.

According to police investigation, Norris, who was employed as a shipping clerk for the Yale Laundry, has for some time been in the habit of returning to his home in Bon Air at a late hour.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

The body was removed to the undertaking parlors of C. J. Ives, in Clarendon, yesterday afternoon.

She wore a crown of patience,
All through the years she struggled on;
Those hands that rest forever
Are the hands that made our home.
You suffered much, you murmured not;
We watched you day by day,
Until a guardian angel came
And softly stole you away.
Before our eyes she faded,
Growing weaker day by day,
Patiently bearing her suffering,
Until God took her away.
You are resting in peace, dear mother;
You are gone, but not forgotten,
As we think of you each day.
BY HER CHILDREN.

Swedish Prince Gives Up Title to Marry Commoner

Prince Lennert of Sweden and Karin Nissvandt, daughter of a Stockholm business man, photographed in England, where they were married.

Lennart, of Royal Blood, Weds Fair Daughter of Business Man.

London, March 11 (A.P.).—An unsmiling young prince of the blood, Lennart of Sweden, today sacrificed his royal privileges, quarreled with his mother and married a commoner.

A colorless British civil ceremony in Prince's Row register office united the grandson of the King of Sweden and Miss Karin Nissvandt, a beautiful girl with corn-colored hair, the daughter of a wealthy Stockholm business man.

No sooner had the ceremony ended than a representative of the Swedish Legation stepped up and handed an envelope to the prince, and in it was a new passport which certified that he was plain "Mr. Bernadotte."

This was the bespectacled young man's symbol of sacrifice—an exchange of titles and royal highness for the girl he loved.

No member of the prince's family was present, and the small wedding party included only the bride's mother, aunt and uncle. The young man's mother, the Grand Duchess Marie Paviona, who made an eleventh-hour protest against a civil ceremony and refused to attend, later sent a telegram of best wishes, however.

Lennart and his bride left late in the afternoon for a continental honeymoon, after which they will settle down on the bridegroom's estate on Lake Constance.

The refusal of the prince's immediate family to attend was based on King Gustav's refusal to approve the union and the Grand Duchess' insistence on a church ceremony.

Lennart's father, who was playing tennis on the Riviera, simply remarked: "I will have nothing to do with that wedding."

Outside the register's office where the simple ceremony was said this afternoon, a Cockney crowd of a thousand or so sent up a cheer when the tweed-clad prince-who-was and the pretty bride, attired in a green traveling suit, appeared.

Inside, the register official in whose presence they had repeated the words of the marriage ceremony had just wished them a happy married life. Lennart took Karin in his arms and kissed her ardently.

NEW FIGHTING IS REPORTED BY FOES ON FAR EAST FRONT

cerity toward the cessation of hostilities and the disunion of the Chinese forces."

While Japanese diplomats continued yesterday to "hope for the best" out of Sino-Japanese peace discussions, the Japanese army went grimly and unhaltingly about its business of "preparing for the worst."

In a trip along the entire length of the 30-mile Japanese front around Shanghai, the Associated Press correspondent found the rain-drenched highways alive with marching men, all headed in one direction—to the front.

The countryside fairly bristled with armaments as the Japanese soldiers continued to establish an elaborate line of defense works from Nanziang to Yangtze road.

Japanese operations were being slowed up by the torrential rainstorms which swept the area and turned military roads into rivers of mud converting trenches and dugouts into mere catch basins.

This was the downpour that the Chinese had banked upon as their ally—the first of the spring rains. And it had arrived perhaps too late.

Nanziang, the southwest corner of the zone of Japanese occupation, was virtually cut off from highway communication with the rear as a result of the storm. The dirt road to Chenu was impassable for trucks.

The Shanghai-Nanking Railroad was being put to use in the emergency. Freight cars were being loaded with supplies at Chenju and in the absence of locomotive power were pulled to Nanziang by manpower.

The Associated Press correspondent arrived at Chenju to see a strange caravan leaving the bomb-wrecker depot. Three heavily loaded cars were moving westward, each in tow of 120 Japanese soldiers, who plodded along the tracks lugging at steel cables. It might have been a scene from Gulliver's Travels.

Five U. S. War Vessels Ordered From Shanghai

(Associated Press.)

Silent guns on the Shanghai front, leaving American lives and property in a less precarious state, yesterday led to withdrawal of five United States vessels from the big Chinese port.

Under orders of Admiral M. M. Taylor, commander in chief of the Asiatic Fleet and senior naval officer of the powers at Shanghai, the destroyers Borie, John D. Ford and Peary were sent to Manila. The destroyers Pope and Truxton have departed for Swatow, 700 miles south, and Chingkiang, 130 miles up the Yangtze River, respectively. The destroyer Pillsbury has sailed for Manila from Amoy, 500 miles down the coast from Shanghai.

The gunboat Asheville, formerly of the Special Service Squadron, will join the Asiatic fleet at Shanghai March 18. It will be followed shortly thereafter by the gunboat Sacramento and the cruiser Rochester. The cruiser Houston may be withdrawn upon the arrival of the Rochester.

The Japanese consul general at Shanghai has apologized to the American consul general, Edward S. Cunningham, for the attack made upon Harold D. Robinson, American trade commissioner at Shanghai by Japanese on March 5.

In a letter to Cunningham the consul general expressed his regret and said the offender's wages had been reduced by one-third for three months as a penalty. He also said Japanese naval authorities are ready to compensate damage done to Robinson's car.

'STIMSON DOCTRINE' NEW PEACE WEAPON

Policy of Not Recognizing Forced Gains Adopted by League Assembly.

(United Press.)

A new and powerful weapon of diplomacy against a recalcitrant state was forged yesterday in the heat of the Chinese-Japanese conflict.

The great nations of the world, save Russia, Japan and China, united at Geneva in support of the doctrine that they would not recognize the legality of any gains in territory or privilege made through force, in defiance of the Kellogg pact.

Secretary of State Stimson recognized the importance of the league's action as an instrument for peace last night in the following formal statement:

"The nations of the league at Geneva have united in a common attitude and purpose toward the perilous disturbance in the Far East. The action of the assembly expresses the purpose for peace which is found both in the pact of Paris and the covenant of the League of Nations.

Praises Peace Benefits.

"In this expression all nations of the world can speak with the same voice. This action will go far toward developing into terms of international law the principle of order and justice which underlie those treaties, and the Government of the United States has been glad to cooperate earnestly in this effort."

This thesis, which may go down in history as the "Stimson Doctrine," was first laid down by Secretary Stimson on January 7. Then, in notes addressed to Japan and China, he said:

"* * * The American Government deems it to be its duty to notify both the governments of the Chinese Republic and the Imperial Japanese government * * * that it does not intend to recognize any situation, treaty or arrangement which may be brought about by means contrary to the covenants and obligations of the pact of Paris * * *."

This committment, if interpreted strictly, is understood by informed observers here to mean:

1. That none of the league powers nor the United States will recognize the new Manchurian government of Henry Pu-Yi, allegedly set up by Japan after the Chinese provincial government in Manchuria had been destroyed.

Precedent Established.

2. That none of the powers subscribing to the "Stimson Doctrine" will recognize any new treaty rights which Japan may obtain from China under the pressure of military occupation.

But when the League of Nations indorsed the Stimson policy, it did more than adopt a principle to be followed in the present Far Eastern trouble. It apparently laid down a precedent which may be resurrected in future disputes. In the judgment of informed observers here, the league and Stimson gave diplomacy a new weapon of peace.

In the past there have been two methods of applying force in world affairs: war and economic blockade. In the opinion of some statesmen notably Chairman Borah of the Senate foreign relations committee, these two instruments are almost identical in that a blockade may lead to war.

Third Weapon.

Now, however, the family of nations may say to an erring member that its actions, adjudged in violation of the League Covenant or the Kellogg Pact, will be futile in that their validity will not be recognized. While the efficacy of this method has not been fully tested, American officials believe it will prove an effective but peaceful check on any state whose ambitions violate international decorum.

While the league's acceptance of the "Stimson Doctrine" aroused the most enthusiasm here, the State Department looked favorably on the other two sections of the assembly's resolution.

The second section calls for restoration of the status quo at Shanghai with neutral aid. The State department previously had assented to American cooperation in this measure.

The third section sets up a continuing committee to watch the Chinese-Japanese situation and report on the carrying out of previous league resolutions. While the United States has no direct interest in these measures, it regards them as conducive to peace in the Far East.

German Flowers Put on Briand Bier

National Funeral Will Be Conducted for French Statesman Today.

Paris, March 11 (A.P.).—An imposing wreath bearing the colors of Germany and inscribed "Die Deutsche Regierung" (the German government) was laid tonight before the coffin of Aristide Briand, who will be accorded a national funeral tomorrow.

A floral offering from the widow of Dr. Gustav Stresemann, the German statesman with whom M. Briand worked to bring about Franco-German accord, was given a place of honor in the famous clock room of the foreign office, in which the bier rested.

Alongside Frau Stresemann's offering were flowers from President Hoover, Secretary of State Stimson and Ambassador Walter E. Edge, which were taken to the foreign office by Mr. Edge. To this display of international mourning were added hundreds of modest bouquets of violets deposited by humble folk of Briand's homeland. A crowd representing every class filed silently past the catafalque until 9 p. m.

Democrats in Delaware Reported for Roosevelt

New York, March 11 (A.P.).—John Biggs, jr., chairman of the Democratic State committee of Delaware, said today that sentiment among Delaware Democrats was "at least 90 per cent" in favor of the nomination of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt for the Presidency.

He predicted in a conversation with Chairman James A. Farley of the New York State committee that Roosevelt would be nominated at the Chicago convention and "triumphantly elected" in November.

Lingle Slayer at Joliet.

Chicago, March 11 (A.P.).—Leo V. Brothers, convicted slayer of Alfred J. Lingle, Tribune police reporter, was taken today to the State penitentiary at Joliet, to serve a sentence of 14 years.

Hoover Congratulates Town as Bank Opens

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday publicly congratulated the little Pennsylvania town of Curwensville for its "stamina" in reopening its bank and drawing hoarded money back into circulation.

Earlier White House officials made public a letter from the Curwensville Chamber of Commerce reporting that it had "rallied everybody in the community," and succeeded in pulling out "thousands of dollars of hoarded money." The letter said the reopening of the town's National Bank constituted the first such reopening in Pennsylvania "during this period of hoarding." The President's letter of reply follows:

"I have your encouraging letter of March 9. As an indication of my feeling toward a community that shows the stamina which Curwensville has displayed, I have today given copies of it to the press."

The letter was addressed to J. Thomas Dale, secretary of the chamber.

$52,000 BABY BONDS SOLD IN DRIVE HERE

Noyes Says Hoarding Little Practiced in City in Announcing Total.

Slightly more than $52,000 worth of the Treasury's "baby bonds" were purchased by Washingtonians during the last week's antihoarding campaign, Newbold Noyes, chairman for this area of the President's Citizens Reconstruction Organization, announced last night after a preliminary check-up on sales from local banks.

"According to banks," Mr. Noyes said, "there is little hoarding in Washington, compared to the extent that hoarding has been practiced in some other less fortunate communities. Washingtonians were not expected to exchange money drawing higher interest for the 2 per cent baby bonds. The bonds that were purchased represented, in nearly every case, money that had heretofore been placed out of circulation. Practically none of that money was withdrawn from savings or checking accounts for the purchase of the bonds.

"The campaign has been a success. The formal campaign in Washington against hoarding closes today, but it will, of course, be continued indefinitely. We must always have a campaign here against hoarding—a campaign, in other words, for confidence and faith in our future and a campaign to restore the economic balance by the wise use of our money."

H. L. Rust, jr., speaking on this topic over Station WOL last night, said: "All the world is watching America's gallant fight to overcome depression and lead civilization back to a normal, prosperous, and happy life. Other countries will follow our example when we give them proof that we can win this fight."

Farm Board Pay Slash Plan to Have Rehearing

(Associated Press.)

The Senate yesterday sent the bill to reduce the salaries of members of the Farm Board and its subsidiaries back to the Senate agriculture committee for further hearings.

The bill, introduced by Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, had been favorably reported by the civil service committee. It would cut the salaries of Farm Board members from $12,000 a year to $9,600.

Walker Collapses At Physical Test

New York Mayor Warned by Doctors He Must Slacken Pace.

New York, March 11 (A.P.).—Mayor James J. Walker, after collapsing while being examined at Rockefeller Institute, was warned by his personal physician today that he must slacken the pace or risk serious danger to his health.

Dr. William Schroeder, jr., revealed in a statement that the mayor had suffered a collapse in the presence of three physicians yesterday and had lost consciousness for five or ten minutes. He was not able to leave the institute for an hour.

"We found no definite pathology of the heart," Dr. Schroeder said, "but the mayor's present run-down condition is a warning that unless he conserves his physical and nervous energy something definite in the way of a permanent affection of the heart is likely to develop."

None the less, Mayor Walker presided over a meeting of the board of estimates for several hours when he learned that Aldermanic President Joseph V. McKee was ill with a cold and later went to his office to greet a group of visiting Olympic athletes.

MANCHURIA IS HELD IN GRIP OF UPRISING

Japanese, were reported killed and rebels were said to have captured the military commander, Ze-Yui.

Soldiers were reported to have begun looting the city.

The rebels bombarded the offices of new government officials with rifles and stray bullets, the reports said. Some of the bullest were fired wildly and hit houses across the Amur River at Blagoveshchensk.

The refugees included the Japanese consul; the manager of customs, a British subject named Crossman; the manager of the Chinese Bank, and their families.

Soldiers looted four Chinese banks and attacked the English customs office as well as a branch of the Soviet trading organization. The rebels were entrenched at strategic points, the reports said.

The new Manchurian government was installed at Changchun with the aid of Japanese military on Wednesday and Thursday.

5-BILLION PUBLIC WORKS BILL URGED

Farmers Union Head Scores Congress for Inactivity at Committee Hearing.

(Associated Press.)

A $5,500,000,000 program of public works, as proposed by Senator La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin, was indorsed before a Senate labor subcommittee yesterday by the National Farmers Union.

In the Senate chamber itself work was begun on the $152,500,000 emergency highway construction bill passed by the Democratic House. It was forced back to the calendar, however, after brief debate.

John A. Simpson, president of the Farmers Union, sharply arraigned Congress on the ground it has been in session for months and has failed to alleviate the unemployment situation.

Congress Is Censured.

"A million more men are out of employment than when you convened," he asserted. "What you have done here in this session of Congress is just as foolish as for a doctor to pour oil on the head of a man who has sore feet."

Mr. Simpson urged that the emergency bond issue be noninterest bearing.

Other witnesses, all of whom favored the public works plan in general, were New Yorkers—F. E. Schmitt, editor of the Engineering News-Record; John Sloan, architect; Malcolm Piernie, consulting civil engineer; Willard Chevalier, of the McGraw-Hill Publishing Co., and Arthur E. Gayer, lecturer on economics at Columbia University.

Democratic Bill Held Up.

The Democratic highway construction plan failed of action in the Senate because of a rule stopping consideration at 2 p. m., but before that time several Senate roads committee amendments adding $3,500,000 to it were approved.

Its passage was urged by Senator Oddie, of Nevada, chairman of the roads committee, who said it would provide work, directly or indirectly, for 690,000 men.

Offering an amendment to provide for allocation of the funds to States on the basis of population rather than area and roadway needs, Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, contended that otherwise the unemployment relief would not be provided where it is needed most.

flected in the increase of currency returned to circulation, the increase of bank deposits and the purchase of Government certificates from money which has hitherto been in hoarding.

In fact, hoarded money is being returned to circulation in all sections of the country. Our people are realizing the moral responsibility involved and the patriotic service which they may render. The whole effort is definitely contributing to the dissipation of fear and apprehension and to the restoration of confidence.

The campaign is only beginning. I hope that the committees already set up will continue until the last dollar that has been hoarded in their respective communities is returned to work and that Col. Knox and his organization will be supported by the extension of their work into every community not organized at present where hoarding has taken place.

PARTY CHARGES FLY IN ECONOMY DEBATE

demonstrated their insincerity by defeating the Vandenberg amendment on a "technicality."

In debate on the amendment, Senator William E. Borah (Republican), Idaho, said Congress was trying "to pass the buck to the President," who, he declared, already has the power to reorganize Government bureaus if he wishes to do it. He said the economy program was Congress' own responsibility.

In defense of his amendment, Senator Vandenberg declared it "perfectly obvious" from experience on two appropriation bills that the Senate can not reduce expenditures through legislation.

"We confront an intrenched bureaucracy, which can not be reached by amendments from the floor of the House or Senate," he said. "The attack must be made on the bureaucracy itself."

Urges Business Methods.

He urged the Senate to follow "business methods" and cloak the President with authority to make necessary cuts.

Senator Robinson agreed the Government has "become too large and should be restored to its proper relationship," but contended an appropriation bill is not the proper place to sanction reorganization.

Senator Walter F. George (Democrat), Georgia, whose reorganization bill was incorporated in the Vandenberg amendment, rallied to the defense of Federal employes whose salaries are threatened in the ensuing argument.

Declaring in favor of reducing congressional salaries and income of the higher-paid officials, he said on the other hand he "had no great enthusiasm for efforts to reduce the pay of Government employes who draw wages rather than salaries." He predicted this Congress will pass no pay reduction legislation.

Economy Held Congress' Duty.

Senator McKellar said Congress must take the problem of effecting economy upon its own shoulders. He said a bill similar to the George-Vandenberg proposal passed Congress in 1917, but that neither Presidents Wilson, Harding nor Coolidge had done anything to bring about the desired result.

Criticized by Senator Bingham for changing his vote on the Vandenberg amendment, Senator Barrison replied he was not opposed to the George bill, and would vote for it when it came before the Senate as a bill and not an appropriation rider.

Senator Edward P. Costigan (Democrat), Colorado, today will wage a fight to restore Howard University appropriations, cut to $675,000 in the Senate bill, to the original Budget Bureau figure of $1,610,000. He advised the Senate he will ask a recorded vote on the amendments he has to offer.

Mary Nolan and Mate Given 30-Day Terms

Los Angeles, March 11 (A.P.).—Mary Nolan, screen actress, and her husband, Wallace Macrery, were sentenced to serve 30 days each in the county jail by Municipal Judge Clement Nye today on charges of violating the State labor laws.

Sentences of 630 days for Miss Nolan and 720 for Macrery involving similar offenses were suspended. The two were convicted Wednesday on eight counts of failure to pay wages in the actress' fashionable Hollywood gown shop. Their bonds were set at $200 each, which they were expected to make. They announced they would appeal.

DEMOCRATIC FUNDS HAVE LARGE DEFICIT

Report to House Shows Sum in Treasury $140,489; $786,116 Owed.

(Associated Press.)

The Democratic national committee yesterday reported to the House clerk it had $140,489 in its Treasury on February 29, but that its outstanding obligations totaled $786,116.

James W. Gerard, of New York, treasurer, showed in the report contributions received in January and February totaled $219,058. Expenditures amounted to $87,818. The committee began the year with $8,247 in its treasury.

Of the contributions $125,000 was from Edward W. Hurley, chairman of the Chicago citizens committee, which procured the national convention in June for Chicago.

Outstanding obligations included $433,766 to the County Trust Co., New York; $345,250 to John J. Raskob, national chairman, and $7,100 to John Price Jones Corporation of New York for professional services.

Large Individual Donors.

Among the larger contributors were Pierre S. du Pont, $12,500; James W. Gerard, $2,478; T. Bruce, $2,000; John W. Davis, 1924 presidential nominee, $500, all of New York; Edward A. Filene, Boston, $1,000; P. S. du Pont, Wilmington, Del., $500; P. A. Nash, $500, and F. H. Rawson, $5,000, both of Chicago; Gilbert M. Hitchcock, Omaha, $500; Mrs. Scott A. Smith, Providence, R. I., $500; M. H. Cheeger, Brooklyn, N. Y., $1,000; Potter Palmer, $5,000; Cyrus H. McCormick, $2,000; Robert J. Dunham, $5,000, all of Chicago; W. A. Julian, Cincinnati, $2,000; Newton D. Baker, Cleveland, $1,000; Mrs. Nell Donnelly and F. C. Niles, both of Kansas City, $500 each; R. Sturgiss Ingersoll, $2,000, and John H. W. Ingersoll, $1,000, both of Philadelphia.

State Committee Gifts.

Thomas D. Taggart, French Lick, Ind., chairman of the Indiana State victory committee, turned in $11,000 in contributions; John E. AMBASSADOR KATSUJI DEBUCHI.

WAR'S alarms are muted to the pianissimo of peace after Katsuji Debuchi has persuasively explained the latest Japanese military advance in the Shanghai sector. Throughout the difficult period of the Chinese-Japanese warring activities, the Ambassador has remained imperturbable and good humored.

None of the modern school of Japanese diplomats know the American mind the way Ambassador Debuchi does. This is accountable in part for his long stay in the United States, where he has been for almost eight years at various times. His first official post here was immediately after the war, when he was first secretary. He was promoted at that time to be counselor and was later transferred to Germany.

His rise in the Japanese diplomatic service was steady and uninterrupted, from an attache to the one-time Korean court back in 1903, soon after his graduation from the University of Commerce, to the high office he now holds.

In the present crisis his knowledge of China, gained during his four years' stay in Peking as secretary back in 1914, is of inestimable advantage to his government. Before coming to Washington he was delegated to the League of Nations and then went back to Tokyo to become director of the Asiatic bureau of the foreign office. He was promoted to become vice minister of foreign relations, a post which corresponds to the Undersecretary of State.

At the present time he is probably the busiest diplomat in the Capital, but you would never know from his manner a war was on. His disarming good humor and irrepressible optimism make him the most valuable exportation Japan has sent to these shores. He plays golf and tennis and is an inimitable story teller.

HOUSE NAVAL GROUP SAYS AKRON WORTHY

Sabotage and Bad Materials Charges Scouted After Long Investigation.

(Associated Press.)

So far as the House naval committee is concerned, the airship Akron is quite all right and well worthy of her title, "Queen of the Skys."

After months of debate as to whether the airship was a monument to American genius or inefficiency, the committee yesterday ended its share in the controversy by finding: "If there was any poor workmanship or faulty material used in the construction of the Akron, the same was corrected before the ship was completed."

Lengthy Hearing.

This statement was based on testimony obtained in a lengthy hearing on charges that, besides carrying underpar workmanship and material, the world's largest airship had been a victim of sabotage and was overweight.

The full committee reached its conclusion by adopting unanimously a report by the sub-group that studied the charges. This report also said that "no direct testimony was presented by any person who had first-hand information relative to the charges of sabotage * * * other than by representatives of the United States Navy."

But, basing its conclusions on that testimony, the committee called attention to a statement by Dr. Hugo Eckener, of Graf Zeppelin fame, praising "this masterpiece of American engineering and craftsmanship." That assertion, the committee found, was supported by available testimony.

Critical of Overweight.

The committee was critical of the Akron's overweight, but drew no conclusions other than to say:

"It was admitted by representatives of the Navy that the ship was overweight to the extent of 18,000 pounds or more and that the Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation had been penalized in the sum of $25,000, which is the amount called for in the contract."

Navy officials insist this overweight was caused by additional safety factors they ordered.

HOOVER IS ASKED TO SUPPORT PARTY PLANK URGING REPEAL

wishes of the voters of New Jersey."

Senator Barbour said:

"I feel very strongly that the time has come when the Republican party should take a clear-cut and courageous stand with respect to assisting in the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act."

The filing of a slate of candidates pledged to Alfred E. Smith in Massachusetts came as no surprise here in view of Smith's expressed determination to let his friends work for his nomination in the face of a plea by Mayor Curley, of Boston, a supporter of Franklin D. Roosevelt, that he withdraw in the interest of harmony.

The question now is, will Roosevelt enter the Bay State primary? He got New Hampshire's convention votes rather handily, but he was entered there early and had the additional advantage of State organization backing. In Massachusetts the situation is just the reverse. Smith has entered first and has most of the State party chieftains working for him.

Some of the New York Governor's friends here believe it would be wise for him to stay out of Massachusetts. Entering the State, they feel, would only antagonize the Smith adherents in a State strongly pro-Smith and may keep that State's 36 votes definitely away from Roosevelt in the national convention.

Other Roosevelt supporters, however, are openly urging him to go into Massachusetts. Among these is Senator Wheeler, of Montana, who predicted after the New Hampshire primary that the New York Governor could win in the Bay State if he made a "real fight" there.

President Hoover's consent to a delegate ticket pledged to him in Massachusetts brings his formal entrance to two States. He already had entered the Ohio primary and stands to pick up 89 delegates in the two States.

Other political developments of the day brought the interesting statement by Oliver Cabana, jr., former Erie County Democratic leader in New York, that Roosevelt and Smith apparently were in accord in seeking an uninstructed delegation from New York State.

Gov. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray of Oklahoma, runner-up to Roosevelt in delegate strength thus far, entered the Ohio presidential preferential primary and his campaign headquarters announced he would make a three-day speaking tour of the State. The Ohio delegation has been counted for Gov. George White, at least on the first ballot at Chicago.

Columbus, Ohio, March 11 (A.P.). President Hoover was assured of a large majority of Ohio's 55 delegates to the Republican National Convention tonight, when the time for entering candidates in the May primary closed at 6:30 p. m. The entire delegate-at-large vote was assured the President without opposition. In the 22 districts, only one sign of opposition appeared, and that was in the Sixteenth, where two filed for Mayor Jacob S. Coxey, of Massillon.

Gov. George White, Ohio's "favorite son" candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, did not fare so well, however, as a few opposition delegate candidates were placed in the field against the slate pledged to him. He was assured the eight delegate votes-at-large, nevertheless, as no opposition was entered there. The opposition was placed in some of the districts.

Three Republican candidates were entered for the Ohio presidential preference vote. But this does not carry with it any delegates. The entrants were former United States Senator Joseph I. France, of Maryland; Mayor Jacob S. Coxey, of Massillon, of "Coxey's Army" fame, and Olin J. Ross, a Columbus attorney, who vainly sought the State's preferential vote four years ago. President Hoover was not entered in the preferential contest.

William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, Governor of Oklahoma, is certain of winning the State's Democratic preferential vote for President. His was the only name entered on the Democratic ticket.

Six Al Smith delegates were entered in the three Cleveland districts by Peter Witt, to whom they pledged perfunctorily to satisfy the Ohio primary law. In reality, however, they are to support Smith as their first choice.

One delegate was entered in the Twelfth (Columbus) District, who, it is understood, will support former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker as first choice and Al Smith as second choice. The candidate is a woman.

Two delegates were entered in the Ninth (Toledo) District pledged to local persons for President. In reality they will be uninstructed, but it is understood they probably will be for Al Smith if elected.

United States Senator Robert J. Bulkley, Cleveland; former United States Senator Atlee Pomerene, Cleveland; National Committeeman W. A. Julian, Cincinnati, and State Executive Chairman Henry C. Brunner, Mansfield, comprise the "Big Four" delegate candidates-at-large, pledged to Gov. White. The eight other delegate candidates-at-large, with half a vote each, comprise Democratic leaders in various sections of the State.

Senator Bulkley is unopposed for renomination on the Democratic ticket, while five candidates entered for the Republican nomination. The Republicans are Attorney General Gilbert Bettman, Cincinnati; L. J. Taber, Barnesville, master of the National Grange; Mrs. Elizabeth C. T. Miller, Cleveland; Mayor Jacob S. Coxey, Massillon, and Charles A. Bracher, Dayton, member of the city commission.

Bandmasters Plan Tribute to Sousa

Music Composed by Him Will Be Played at Concert Here.

The concert that will be given in Constitution Hall the evening of April 17 as the closing event of the American Bandmasters Association convention will be in the nature of a tribute to the work of John Philip Sousa, it was announced by Edwin Franko Goldman, president of the association, who was in the city yesterday to meet members of the committee on arrangements. As a part of the concert program Victor J. Grabel, director of the Chicago Symphony Band, who was also in the city yesterday, will conduct Siegfried's Funeral March from the "Gotterdammerung," by Wagner. This number will be played by the United States Marine Band.

The massed service bands also will play "The Stars and Stripes Forever," by Sousa. Mr. Goldman brought with him to Washington the manuscript score of the new work of Ottorino Respighi, the Italian composer, which is to be produced for the first time at the concert. The title is "Ballata." Nathaniel Shilkret's production which he will conduct at the concert is dedicated to Commander Byrd and is descriptive in music of Byrd's landing on one of his trips to France.

The concert is being given under the sponsorship of the American Red Cross and the greater National Capital committee. Mr. Goldman and Mr. Grabel conferred at the Mayflower with Lieut. Charles Benter, chairman of the committee on arrangements; Curtis Hodges, secretary; Isaac Gans and others.

Tariff Board Sets Date For Sugar Cost Hearing

(Associated Press.)

The Tariff Commission yesterday fixed April 12 as the date for a hearing on refined sugar as part of its investigation into the production costs of that commodity.

Action looking to a hearing on raw sugar and related products has been deferred for the present, the commission said. The investigation, ordered by Congress, has been in progress since last September with field agents working in domestic and foreign-producing centers obtaining data on the production costs here and abroad.

CHURCH CONTINUES ANNIVERSARY RITE

"Luther Rice" Will Be Topic of Dr. Porter at Service Tomorrow.

Continuing the one hundred and thirtieth anniversary services at the First Baptist Church, which have been in progress since Sunday, February 21, the Rev. Samuel Judson Porter, pastor of the church, will speak tomorrow morning on "Luther Rice and His Influence on American Baptists." The Lord's Supper will be observed.

The afternoon service, at 3 o'clock, will be a special concourse of delegations from the Baptist Sunday schools of Washington, with a roll call of the schools by E. B. Shaver, president of the Baptist Sunday School Superintendents' Association. There will be addresses by the Rev. W. H. Main, of Philadelphia, executive secretary of the American Baptist Publication Society, on the work of that organization, and by Dr. John L. Hill, of Nashville, Tenn., book editor of the Sunday school board of the Southern Baptist convention, on the organization with which he is connected.

The program in connection with the anniversary services next Thursday will be "An Evening of Reminiscences," led by E. Hilton Jackson.

The White Cross Circle will meet at the church at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Message of Cross Topic of Sermon

Dr. Harmon Will Preach on the Significance of Crucifixion.

"The Message of the Cross" will be the subject of the morning sermon by Dr. H. H. Harmon at the National City Christian Church at 11 o'clock tomorrow. Dr. Harmon will deal with the significance of the Crucifixion of Christ to humanity through the centuries, with particular reference to its message for the modern day. Appropriate to the sermon thought will be the singing of "The Old Rugged Cross" by the mixed quartet of the church.

A special musical service will be held at 8 o'clock Sunday evening under the leadership of W. E. Braithwaite, director of music.

The church enters Monday upon a week of home visitation, looking toward the observance of membership day on Palm Sunday, March 20. The program is under the direction of the evangelistic committee of the church, of which Keith A. Brumback is chairman.

Pre-Easter Campaign Planned at Albright

Two unique services are on schedule at Albright Memorial Evangelical Church tomorrow. The morning service will be in charge of the lay members of the congregation, with E. Jester presiding. Representatives from each of the departments of church work will be on the program to speak and present the work of their respective groups in relation to the Pre-Easter Campaign of Evangelism.

Tomorrow evening the service at 8:00 o'clock will be sponsored by the Guild and Brotherhood of Albright Church, with Representative Harry Haines, of Red Lion, Pa., as speaker. Tomorrow being conference Sunday, the minister, Dr. George E. Schnabel, will be in attendance at the Central Pennsylvania Conference, which meets at Milton, Pa. J. Allen Clark is the lay delegate from Albright Church to the conference.

Rev. Miers to Address Volunteers of America

The Volunteers of America will have a guest preacher at their services tomorrow afternoon, when the Rev. James H. Miers, of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, will deliver a sermon in the mission at 471 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. This will be the first of a series of sermons to be given at the mission by local clergymen.

Capt. Arthur Wise, regional commander, will conduct the services and direct the musical program.

Choir Will Present Christ's Life in Song

The Rev. Walter M. Michael, pastor of Eldbrooke Methodist Church, will preach tomorrow morning on "Life Made Over." At the evening service the choir will present the "Life of Christ in Song." Mrs. Clara Young Brown will direct the choir and Miss Margaret Davis will preside at the organ.

An added feature will be a hymn pantomime of "Abide With Me." This will be presented by Miss Grace Gosnell, assisted by young people.

"The Transfiguration" Theme of Dr. Shelton

Dr. W. A. Shelton, pastor of Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, will preach tomorrow morning on "The Transfiguration." In the evening he will preach at the Clarendon Methodist Church.

The Rev. H. R. Deal, the assistant pastor, will preach at Mount Vernon Church in the evening on "The Ministry of Misfortune."

Will Address Covenant Class.

Dr. W. Sinclair Bowen, a consecrated layman of the Episcopal Church, is in continuing demand as a speaker before church organizations of this city. Tomorrow morning he will address the All Comers' Bible Class of the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church on "The Imitation of Christ."

"Noonday" Subject of Sermon.

The Rev. Hulbert A. Woolfall, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, will continue his Lenten sermons tomorrow on the general theme, "Christ's Life in the Light of Modern Problems." The special subject for the morning hour will be "Noonday."

Communion and Healing.

The Holy Communion will be celebrated by Dr. George P. Dudley at the service of Christian healing Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the Church of St. Stephen and the Incarnation, Sixteenth and Newton streets northwest.

Will Preach in Suitland Church.

The Rev. W. M. LaRoche, of Suitland Christian Church, will preach tomorrow morning on "The Joy of Self-Sacrifice."

STAINER'S CANTATA SUNG TOMORROW

"Crucifixion" Will Be Rendered in Afternoon at Bethlehem Chapel.

Rendition of Sir John Stainer's sacred cantata, "The Crucifixion," by the choir of Washington Cathedral will be the special program at the 4 o'clock service tomorrow afternoon in the Bethlehem Chapel of the Cathedral. Bishop James E. Freeman will deliver a brief address. The singing of Stainer's cantata and Bishop Freeman's address will be broadcast over the radio through Station WMAL.

The series of Lenten lectures following the 4 o'clock evensong service on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons will be continued next week. The Rev. Raymond L. Wolven, Cannon and Chaplain to the Bishop of Washington, will lecture on Tuesday afternoon in his series on "New Questions and Old Answers;" the Rev. Henry T. Cocke, rector of All Saints' Church, Chevy Chase, will give the Wednesday lecture; Canon Arthur B. Rudd will lecture on "The Active Duty of a Christian to Himself," on Thursday, and Canon Edward S. Dunlap will be the lecturer on Friday afternoon.

The three-hour Passion service, commemorating the Crucifixion, will be conducted in the Bethlehem Chapel of Washington Cathedral on Good Friday from 12 noon to 3 p. m., with Bishop Freeman delivering seven addresses or meditations on the seven last words of Christ on the Cross.

Musical elements of the service will include portions of Sir John Stainer's cantata, "The Crucifixion." There will also be hymns, appropriate to Good Friday.

Mark Twain's Kin, 90, Mount Pleasant Speaker

One of the most unique incidents in the long history of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church will occur next Wednesday morning at the semi-monthly meeting of the Women's Guild of that church, when Mrs. E. J. M. Clemens, the 90-year-old widow of a brother of Mark Twain, will speak in an informal talk on "Reminiscences of My 90 Years." Mrs. Clemens has been a resident of Washington for about a quarter of a century, but during her earlier life lived in the section of the Middle West made famous in the writings of her brother-in-law.

At the morning service in the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church tomorrow, the minister, the Rev. Russell J. Clinchy, will preach the second in a series of March Lenten sermons on "Religion and the Modern Mind." Mr. Clinchy's subject tomorrow is "The God of the Modern Universe."

When Christ Hid Self Topic at St. Andrew's

Dr. A. J. Wilder, rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, will preach tomorrow morning on the subject, "Christ Hid Himself. Why?"

The special service for children will be held Friday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, with a special address.

The Diocesan Sunday School Institute will be held at this church on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock, with a program of special interest to Sunday school workers and others.

Activities of Christ Theme at All Souls'

Dr. Ulysses G. B. Pierce, minister of All Souls' Unitarian Church, continuing his series of sermons on the life and activities of Jesus of Nazareth, will preach tomorrow morning on the subject, "Did Jesus Raise the Dead?"

In the afternoon, at 5 o'clock, Lewis Corning Atwater, organist, will give a program of music by Franz Liszt. He will be assisted by Anne Yago McCluffey, contralto.

Cowardice Is Theme Of Dr. Rasmussen

Dr. Carl C. Rasmussen, minister of Luther Place Memorial Church, will preach tomorrow morning on "Incredulity Confronts Christ."

In the evening he will deliver the fifth of a series of Lenten sermons on "Sins That Crucified Christ." The special theme will be "Cowardice."

Plans Devotional Talks.

The Rev. Edward O. Clark, pastor of Chevy Chase Baptist Church, will preach tomorrow morning on "God's Call to Men." During the last week of Lent, from Palm Sunday to Easter, Mr. Clark will give a series of devotional talks on the Twenty-third Psalm.

Representative Will Speak.

William Purnell Lambertson, member of Congress from Kansas, will be the speaker before the Harrison Bible Class of the Congress Street Methodist Church tomorrow morning. J. O. Curtis will teach the class.

Goodness of Jesus, Topic.

Grace Lutheran Church, at Sixteenth and Varnum streets northwest, will hear their pastor, the Rev. Gerhard E. Lenski, preach tomorrow morning on "The Goodness of Jesus."

BIBLE CONFERENCE WILL HEAR DR. GRAY

President of Moody Institute in Chicago at Fourth Presbyterian on March 20.

The Rev. James M. Gray, president of the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, and one of the world's outstanding Bible scholars and Bible authorities, will head the list of speakers to be heard at the Bible conference to be held in Washington at the Fourth Presbyterian Church, Thirteenth and Fairmont streets northwest, during the period of March 20-25.

Dr. Gray will open the conclave Sunday, March 20, and is scheduled to speak at both morning and evening gatherings. On Thursday and Friday evenings, and Friday afternoon, also, the famous theologian will deliver, by request, three important addresses on prophecy. The titles are "What is meant by the second coming of Christ," "Daniels interpretation of the dream of history" and "Christ's discourse on the last things."

The Rev. Henry Ostrom, member of the extension department staff of Moody Institute, and nationally known Bible conference leader, also will address the various sessions. Other speakers who will be heard at the Washington meetings are the Rev. Archibald R. Wright, of Moody Institute, and the Rev. Harold Paul Sloan, well-known author and pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, at Haddonfield, N. J.

Two daily meetings are scheduled, beginning at 3 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. Indications point to large throngs at most of the sessions, for Dr. Gray is especially well known in this part of the country.

Juvenile Violinists Will Play in Church

Dr. Mark Depp, minister of Calvary Methodist Church, on Columbia road, will preach tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock on "Frozen Assets."

Members of the Josef Kaspar Juvenile Violin Ensemble will be the guest artists of the evening. They will play a special selection and also accompany the Calvary Junior Choir in an anthem number. William B. Wells and W. W. Kellum, of the Men's Bible Class, will assist in the evening prayer and in the Scripture reading.

Beatitudes Discourse At Universalist Church

Dr. Frederick W. Perkins, minister of the Universalist National Memorial Church, will preach the third of a series of Lenten sermons based on the Beatitudes tomorrow morning. His special theme will be: "The Vision of the Pure Heart."

On Wednesday evening at 8:15 the choir of this church, under the direction of Dr. Albert W. Harned, will give its second musical recital.

Metropolitan Baptist Revivals Nearing End

The evangelistic meeting which has been in progress at the Metropolitan Baptist Church for the past three weeks closes tomorrow.

Miss Amy Lee Stockton, the evangelist, will preach at both services, and Miss Rita Gould, her associate, will sing. Large crowds have attended these services and a number have united with the church.

Two French Sermons By Rev. Dr. Vurpillot

The Rev. Dr. Florian Vurpillot, pastor of the French congregation which worships at St. John's Church, Lafayette square, will preach tomorrow at 4 p. m. on "Une scene de la chambre haute."

On Friday at 4:45 his topic is "L'Enfant prodigue."

Bishop Hamilton to Speak at McKendree

Bishop John W. Hamilton will preach in the McKendree Methodist Episcopal Church tomorrow morning.

In the evening the pastor, the Rev. William Pierpont, will use as his topic, "The True Light That Lighteth Every Man."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES.

"Substance" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The golden text is from Hebrews, 11:1: "Faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Is any among you afflicted? Let him pray. Is any merry? Let him sing psalms. And the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up; and if he have committed sins, they shall be forgiven him." (James, 5:13,15).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science text book, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "When we come to have more faith in the truth of being than we have in error, more faith in spirit than in matter, more faith in living than in dying, more faith in God than in man, then no material suppositions can prevent us from healing the sick and destroying error." (Page 368.)

Baptisms After Sermon.

Dr. E. Hez Swem, pastor of Centennial Baptist Church, Seventh and I streets northeast, has chosen as his theme for the night sermon tomorrow, "A Stick Was Surely Snaky." After the sermon there will be a number of baptisms.

At Ninth Street Christian.

The Rev. Clifford H. Jope, pastor of the Ninth Street Christian Church, has chosen for his evening subject tomorrow, "What Every Christian Should Know." There will be special music by Mr. Cady.

Will Address Central Union Mission.

Kenneth Hunter, of the Columbia Heights Christian Church, will be the speaker tomorrow night in the chapel of the Central Union Mission, at 613 C street northwest.

Deception Sermon Topic.

Dr. J. Hillman Hollister, minister of Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, will preach tomorrow morning on the theme, "And We Deceive Ourselves."

Sermon Theme by Dr. Smith.

Dr. Harvey Baker Smith, pastor of Columbia Heights Christian Church, preaches tomorrow morning on "How God Approaches the Soul."

Additional church news will be found today on page 7.

Cantata to Be Sung By Visiting Choir

Continuing his series of Lenten sermons, Dr. Henry W. Snyder, minister of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, will preach tomorrow morning on the subject, "Coming to Terms With Our Trials." In the evening the National Capital Choir will be the guests of St. Paul's and will render for them Maunder's cantata, "Olivet to Calvary." Dr. Albert W. Harned, director, will be at the organ. The soloists are Irene Koehl, soprano; Jessie Masters, contralto; Eugene Dahl, Lynn Gilichrest and Edward Singer, tenors, and Warren Adams, barytone.

In connection with his topic for Thursday night, "The Church Member's Profit From the Church," Dr. Snyder has asked for written statements from the members along this line and the discussion at the mid-week service will be based on the information thus received.

Dr. Sizoo Continues Soliloquy Sermons

Comment of the Captain Crucifier Discussed Tomorrow.

Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, minister of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, will continue his series of sermons on the theme, "Seven Soliloquies on Calvary," tomorrow evening. The special subject will be "The Captain, the Soliloquy of the Crucifier." At the morning hour he will preach on "To Those Defeated."

On Wednesday afternoon at 4:45 Dr. Sizoo will give a talk on the history and doctrine of the Presbyterian Church for those who are planning to unite with the church at the Easter communion service.

On Thursday morning at 11:30 Dr. Sizoo will deliver the fifth lecture in his Lenten series in the ballroom of the Mayflower Hotel. His subject for this lecture will be "The Cross"—how can the death of one affect others? What does Christ's death do? Does it affect God?

Tabernacle Revivals Will End on March 20

The national revival crusade at the Masonic Auditorium, being conducted under the auspices of the Full Gospel Tabernacle, of which the Rev. Harry L. Collier is pastor, will continue through the coming week, closing Sunday, March 20. Mr. Collier reports many converts during this week.

The Canadian evangelists, the Rev. Watson Argue and Hazel Argue, are conducting the services. Mr. Argue will preach tomorrow morning at the Full Gospel Tabernacle, when a number will be received into the church.

Tomorrow evening Mr. Argue will repeat his sermon on "Where Are the Dead?"

Conquering Religion Topic at St. Columba

"A Conquering and Confident Religion" is the subject of the sermon to be preached tomorrow morning at St. Columba's Church by the rector, the Rev. Mr. E. A. LeMoine.

Wednesday evening the guest preacher, at the weekly Lenten services, will be Canon Wolvern of the Cathedral. The zoning plan, introduced the first of the year, is proving very successful, the evening congregations having more than doubled. Sidney Cosgrave has charge of the Northwest zone tomorrow night.

Dr. Holsopple to Discuss Emerson, Longfellow

At the Washington City Church of the Brethren tomorrow evening the sermon of the pastor, Dr. F. F. Holsopple, will be illustrated with stereopticon slides and will be a continuation of the general theme, "Literary and Historic Shrines of America."

The particular section tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock is "Boston, Lexington and Concord." Special attention will be given Emerson and Longfellow as influencing American thought.

At Western Presbyterian.

Dr. W. L. Darby, of the Federation of Churches, will preach tomorrow morning in Western Presbyterian Church, his subject being "The Mastership of Jesus." The pastor, Dr. J. H. Dunham, is in Emergency Hospital recovering from an operation.

CATHOLIC ALUMNAE ARRANGE PROGRAM

Chapter of Federation Will Have Annual Conference on March 19.

The District of Columbia Chapter, International Federation of Catholic Alumnae, has arranged a splendid program for its eleventh annual conference which will be held March 19, at the Willard Hotel, beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning.

There will also be an afternoon session, convening about 2:15 o'clock. Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock.

Miss Elizabeth Dolan, the local governor, will give the speech of welcome, and will preside throughout the meeting.

The Right Rev. Mgr. Edward A. Pace, vice rector of the Catholic University; Representative Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey, and Mrs. Philip A. Brennan, of Brooklyn, president of the federation, and Dr. Margaret Nicholson, will address the assembly.

A special feature of the luncheon will be a speech by Dr. Arthur Deering, associate professor of English at the Catholic University.

Love Story of the Mass.

The Rev. George A. Keith will again present his "Sacred Love Story of the Mass" at St. Aloysius' Church, Washington, at 8 o'clock, tomorrow night. The doors will open at 7:30 and close at 7:55. It will mark his fourth presentation at that church in the last two months.

Catholic Radio Hour.

The Rev. Joseph V. Buckley, pastor of St. Francis Xavier Church, will preach on the Washington Catholic radio hour tomorrow from the Church of the Immaculate Conception through Station WOL. The music feature will be Miss Florence Yocum, soprano; Miss Ann Arlen, violinist, and the Boys' Sanctuary Choir.

Mass for Fathers.

A high mass for fathers will be celebrated on St. Joseph's Day, March 19, at 12:15 p. m. in the Immaculate Church, at which the Rev. Francis J. Hurney will be celebrant.

A specially blessed statuette of St. Joseph will be given to each father attending the service.

Novena at St. Dominic's.

An event of importance this coming week at St. Dominic's will be a novena in honor of St. Joseph, conducted by the Very Rev. Thomas F. Schwertner. This novena opened yesterday at 7:30 and will close on the feast of St. Joseph, Saturday, March 19, at 7:30 p. m. For centuries one of the most popular novenas of the entire year has been that to St. Joseph.

Rev. Niles to Preach on "The Supreme Motive"

The Rev. Frank S. Niles, minister of Georgetown Presbyterian Church, will preach tomorrow morning on the subject, "The Supreme Motive."

A communicants' class for those preparing to unite with the church at Easter will be held in the church auditorium at 10 o'clock.

Breakfast to Follow Communion.

Dr. Francis Yarnall, vicar of Epiphany Chapel, will preach tomorrow morning on "Christianity Without the Cross." The members of the Altar Guild will make their corporate communion at 7:30 o'clock. Breakfast will be served in the Chapel Hall after the early service.

HOW THE LAW HELPS CRIME.

Developments in the Lindbergh kidnaping case are such as to compel serious thought on the part of all law-enforcing authorities, Federal and State, for the purpose of devising better methods of coping with organized crime.

Sweeping aside the proposal of the convicted gangster Capone that he shall be admitted to bail for the purpose of recovering the child—a proposal that is abhorrent to all sense of decency—and the offensive activities of amateur sleuths, publicity-seekers, and bumptious reporters, the stark fact emerges that modern inventions are employed more expertly by criminals than by their pursuers. Crime has made great progress, while the prevention of crime is sought by methods that are completely out of date. The apprehension of criminals is also a backward art, lamentably behind the skill of the criminal.

Modern inventions are at the disposal of criminals, with as much freedom from restraint as if the criminals were engaged in honest business. The mails can be used for diabolically criminal purposes, such as the collection of ransom for kidnaped persons who are threatened with death. Automobiles can be injected into the legitimate flow of traffic with entire impunity by murderous criminals. The facilities and instrumentalities of interstate commerce are available to gangsters and gunmen.

As matters stand, inventors and the law itself have placed at the disposal of criminals every facility for committing crimes and escaping the consequences. The United States Government actually permits interstate commerce and the mails to be used for the perpetration of such crimes as the kidnaping of the Lindbergh child. At this moment the mails are available by the criminals for the purpose of terrorizing Col. Lindbergh and for extorting ransom from him, with no adequate penalty attached for this devilish misuse of the postal service.

The law-enforcement authorities are shown up in a very humiliating light by this case. They are impotent largely because they have failed to devise means of checkmating criminals in the use of modern inventions and the postal service. Whatever may be the outcome of the Lindbergh case, it is the urgent duty of Congress to apply crushing penalties for the use of the mails in blackmail and kidnaping crimes. Criminals utilizing interstate commerce instrumentalities should be subjected to severe punishment, so that they will shrink from incurring these penalties. If the penalty of death is inadvisable, on the theory that kidnapers would commit murder more readily after having violated such a Federal law, then let the penalty be a long term of years at hard labor. It is a reproach to the intelligence and diligence of the law-enforcement machinery of the United States that it has not long ago demanded penalties for the criminal use of the mails and the instrumentalities of interstate commerce.

SMUGGLING OF CHINESE.

The motion offered by Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, to strike out a section of the bill to provide for the deportation of certain alien seamen seems to take the heart out of the Chinese exclusion act. Chinese may be imported at present into the United States for the purpose of serving as seamen in the foreign trade. As a result of desertions by these seamen the Chinese population is rapidly growing.

Certain steamship companies operating in the foreign trade under the mail contract authorized by the shipping act of 1928 are steadily importing Chinese for the purpose of manning their ships. More than 11,000 Chinese are employed on American vessels sailing under mail contract. They can not be prevented from deserting and mingling with the population, because under decisions of the courts they can not be held on board of vessels. As a result of this the Chinese population of the country is rapidly increasing, not only in cities, but in towns and villages. The section of the bill to which Senator Reed objects would put an end to this violation of the Chinese exclusion act, because it provides for amending the Chinese exclusion act so that it will apply to seamen.

The motion to strike out this section should be voted down in the interest of the public, in order to keep smuggled Chinese out of this country. It should be done in order to prevent the employment of Chinese on American vessels in order that Americans may have an opportunity to go to sea, for the manning of the merchant marine, and to furnish naval or military auxiliaries for national defense.

Not only are Chinese smuggled into the United States in the disguise of seamen, but white aliens posing as sailors come in unlawfully and are then the subjects of police inquiry, as in the case of Henry Johnson, an alleged seaman who is said to be in this country unlawfully, and who has been under inquiry as to his relations with individuals connected with the Lindbergh family.

REPARATIONS AGAIN.

Reparations have almost dropped out of the economic picture during the last few months. Since Congress ratified the Hoover moratorium and gave emphatic notice to Europe that no further concessions could be expected the American people have turned their attention to subjects of more immediate interest. Even in Europe the controversy has been laid aside, or at least subordinated, to the more pressing issues of war in the Far East, disarmament at Geneva and domestic politics in several countries.

Interest in the reparations question is revived by the statement of the American committee of the International Chamber of Commerce and by preparations for the forthcoming conference of Germany's creditors at Lausanne. The American committee upholds the well-known policy of this country—that is, to leave reparations entirely in the hands of European governments. That policy is supported by both political parties and by public opinion generally. Certainly the European powers understand by now that every attempt to link war debts and reparations together, or to make Germany directly responsible in any way to the United States for the liquidation of the war debts, will fail.

The conference at Lausanne will meet in June with better prospects of reaching a solution of the reparations dilemma than any conference has had since the depression began. The financial position of Great Britain has undergone remarkable improvement. France maintains her position as the dominant financial power in Europe, but there are indications that Premier Tardieu will adopt a more conciliatory policy than that of M. Laval. The British and French governments are considerably nearer to an agreement on reparations than they were when the Lausanne conference was postponed a few months ago.

A settlement of this controversy is of the utmost importance to Europe and the rest of the world. Uncertainty and despair will hang like a cloud over Germany until the reparations burden is adjusted. Chancellor Bruening has declared that Germany can pay no more, and the radicals are making a desperate struggle to win the election next Sunday and repudiate reparations along with the Versailles treaty. But the world knows that Germany can and will continue to pay, if reparations are adjusted to her present condition.

Europe as well as the United States seems to have checked the forces of depression. If Great Britain, France and Germany can agree upon a reparations settlement, another long step toward the restoration of normal conditions will have been taken.

BRAZILIAN TRADE HANDICAP.

The difficulties encountered by commerce and travelers in effecting exchange of currencies in Europe have been acute for months, but this condition is not limited to the other side of the Atlantic. Traders in several Latin-American countries, whose economic and financial systems have been severely deranged, are finding great delay in effecting exchange.

The case of Brazil has been brought prominently to attention by the visit of Dr. Numa Olivera, former minister of finance, who has been in Washington and New York on a semiofficial mission for the Brazilian government, and who will report to Rio upon financial conditions and future trade prospects for his country. While here Dr. Olivera has made a study of the exchange question and has been in consultation with American interests having business relations with Brazil.

The scarcity of dollar exchange in Brazil at present is seriously affecting commercial relations. Very limited amounts of exchange have been coming from Brazil on commodity purchases in this country, although such accounts average over $10,000,000 monthly. American exporters are placed in the uncomfortable position of not being able to get exchange for current shipments, or to convert deposits held in Brazil.

The balances of American exporters have piled up in Brazil until they have reached a total of about $30,000,000, and this amount is steadily increasing, due to the stringent regulations in force. That the situation is a hazardous one for all engaged in commerce between the two countries is readily apparent. Dr. Olivera's study of conditions has convinced him of the necessity for prompt measures to relieve this paralysis of exchange facilities, and it is expected that his report to the Brazilian government will result in the removal of a serious handicap to business relations between the two countries.

THE OIL EMBARGO.

The attempt of independent oil producers to secure an embargo against petroleum imports through the tax bill now before the House is equaled only by the demand of the wets that prohibition be nullified by a tax on beer. It is absurd to consider the proposed tax on petroleum imports as a source of revenue. Department of Commerce experts are emphatic in their declaration that such a levy would produce no revenue, for all foreign oil would be excluded. A tax of 42 cents per barrel on oil that is selling for 60 cents is an embargo and has no place in a revenue bill.

Another phase of the oil tax question should be brought to the attention of Congress. Most of the crude oil shipped into the United States comes from Venezuela. A considerable portion of that oil comes to this country for refining and is then shipped back to South America in the form of gasoline, naphtha, fuel oil and kerosene. In other words, South American countries merely send their crude oil to the United States for refining. A considerable industry is maintained in this country because Venezuela and Colombia have not built extensive refineries of their own. What would happen to that industry if Congress should put a tax embargo on foreign oil?

The fundamental factor which is constantly ignored in this attempt to help a few independent operators in the Middle West is that the United States is an oil exporting country. Last year this country sold 110,000,000 barrels of oil and its products in export trade. Most of this was in the form of refined products. The United States imported about 85,000,000 barrels in 1931, most of it crude petroleum. In the circumstances the proposed oil tax is about as silly as an embargo on cotton.

In the recent report of the Tariff Commission on petroleum attention was called to the rapid development of refineries in the Netherland West Indies. These plants are drawing from Venezuela a large volume of crude that formerly came to the United States. Imports of Venezuelan crude to the United States fell off 50 per cent in the two years of 1930-1931. At the same time the exportation of refined oil products from this country has shown a substantial decrease in the last two years.

It is apparent that the West Indian refineries are encroaching upon the American export market for refined oil products. All that is now needed to complete the destruction of the American export market for oil products is a tariff on crude oil that is now coming to this country for refining.

HIGH COST OF SCHOOLS.

A group of New York engineers recently made a study of public school expenditures in fourteen large cities in the United States. As might be supposed, these gentlemen found that there has been a great increase.

In eleven cities in 1905 public school expense was about $4 per capita. In 1929 five of these cities showed a per capita expense of approximately $20. The City of Washington spent $18 per capita during the last-mentioned year for its schools.

Of course, much of the increase noted in the survey is due to the changing values of the dollar. In 1929 the dollar bought little. In 1905 it bought much.

But, in effect, the survey indicates that the people ought to be getting three or four times as much for their money now as they got 25 years ago. The school system ought to be three or four times as good now as it was then. Is it?

The answer doubtless is in the affirmative. However, it will do no harm to suggest that the little red schoolhouse of tradition produced some first-rate scholars. Boys and girls who now are parents were not exactly pampered in regard to arrangements for their education; they traveled long distances to and from lessons; they had little comfort and few conveniences in their school buildings; the curriculum was limited; their teachers were not invariably possessors of academic degrees.

Today children study in buildings conveniently located near their homes and equipped with every convenience; they are required to study everything under the sun, and their teachers are supposed to be paragons of learning.

Whether or not the schools are worth their present expense can not be known. But there is little or no protest against the cost.

FALLACIES OF POPULATION

By HENRY PRATT FAIRCHILD,
In the North American Review.

In the year 1800 there were about 700,000,000 people in the world. In the year 1900 there were about 1,700,000,000.

It took the human species a million or more years to pile up a net aggregate of less than three-quarters of a billion. Then, in the next 100 years, it added a billion more.

The nineteenth century accomplished nearly 50 per cent more in the way of accumulating population than the entire previous span of human existence.

And yet there are persons who are frightfully disturbed over any decline in the rate of population growth!

There is scarcely any aspect of applied social science so infused with emotion, tradition, prejudice, convention, fear and romantic mysticism as the question of population. In spite of the large and increasing amount of scientific study given to the question in recent years, there still remains a vast amount of misunderstanding and ill-informed and biased thinking on the subject.

The population of the world much more than doubled in the nineteenth century. The simplest arithmetical process is enough to demonstrate what utterly fantastic results would ensue if this rate were to be continued for even 1,000 years.

In the United States the situation is accentuated. When we took our first census, in 1790, there were about 4,000,000 people in the country. The census of 1930 enumerated nearly 123,000,000. The population had increased over thirty-fold in 140 years.

Imagine what this country would be like if we had thirty times the present population 140 years from now! That would be nearly twice as many people as there are in the whole world today.

If we were to continue increasing at the rate that prevailed even as late as the years just before the World War, by the end of this century—a date that many of us would live to see—the United States would be considerably more crowded than China is today.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE GRACES.

A blazing fire in winter, and a garden in the spring,
A bed of pansy blossoms and a tree
where robins sing,
Some trinkets in the corners of the little home we keep,
A few brave years of laughter and the tears that all must weep.
'Tis only these we gather through the time we have to live,
As soon as we shall discover these are all that life can give.

Though fame and wealth may lure us;
though both of them we gain,
The home must ring with laughter or all the rest is vain.
And love must bid us welcome when all the struggle's done
Or paltry are the prizes our strength and skill have won.
And peace of mind must shield us from pangs of sharp regret
Or an instrument of torture will be anything we get.

So let's give some thought to tulips and the garden in the spring,
Let's take the time to listen when the
robin redbreasts sing,
Let's plan the home for laughter, and let's not forget to keep
The faith we shall be needing when it's time for us to weep.
For if there be no friendship, and loved ones cease to smile,
Then neither fame nor fortune for long can be worth while.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY Dear Louise: One hot summer day, during my eighth or ninth year, I conceived the idea of escaping the penalty of sin by means of trickery.

East of town there was a pond, deep enough to be dangerous and dirty enough to be inviting. I had secret experience of its delights, but parents in those days were afraid of water and I had been warned to keep away from the place on penalty of a larruping.

But the heat of this particular day filled me with desire and guile. I asked for permission to go "down by the Baptist Church to play." Note the significance of that word "by." Permission was granted and I went "by" the church on my way to the pond.

When the hour of judgment came I argued lawyer-wise on the basis of my technicality, but it didn't work. I was too obviously guilty.

Tricking parents is universal, but it is kid stuff. It is a game for those who haven't yet learned the meaning of honor.

You are old enough to know that the spirit of obedience is what counts.

Because the best governed country is the least governed, I try to make as few rules as possible. I expect you to obey the rules, because I think them wise and right, but I don't want you ever to pretend to obey them unless you are willing to obey in fact.

To disobey is merely rebellion; to pretend obedience and not obey is dishonor. And that means rotten character—the character of a coward and a sneak.

"A certain man had two sons; and he came to the first, and said, son, go work today in my vineyard. He answered and said, I will not; but afterward he repented, and went. And he came to the second, and said likewise. And he answered and said, I go, sir; and went not."

You remember the parable, and its application.

It is more necessary to obey right than to obey me. Please keep your word untarnished. In business and in social life there is no place for the person whose word is worthless. A man's word is his pledged honor, and if his word is worthless his honor is worthless.

If you must refuse obedience, my dear, do it bravely and honestly. Don't pretend. The unpardonable sin is sneaking. Love, DAD.

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Snipers Helping Hoover.

New York Times.

One way to help a public man is by attacking him so unreasonably and maliciously as to relieve him from a part of his temporary unpopularity. This has begun to happen in the case of Mr. Hoover. Even Democratic correspondents at Washington are taking note of the fact that his prospects seem distinctly brighter than at the beginning of the year. One reason for this is that he has been made the subject of indiscriminate partisan abuse. More than one disinterested observer at Washington has asserted that the Republican outlook is improving partly because the Democrats have offered no consistent program of their own and are putting forward no inspiring leader. Quite the other way, they seem to be engaged in killing off the leaders they have and casting about for a mediocrity. The more shrill and violent they are in their outcries against President Hoover, the better do they make his chances appear, compared with their own indecision and bitter quarrels within their own household.

Prohibition Must Wait.

Sioux Falls (S. Dak.) Argus-Leader.

Prohibition will have to wait. The people are engrossed now in economic problems, and liquor is compelled to take a secondary position—all of which will make some straddling politicians happy.

New Hampshire's Dictum.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The supporters of Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt will probably make as much as possible of his victory in the New Hampshire primaries. But, aside from the fact that it is the first test of any kind, it cannot be conceded great importance. Mr. Alfred E. Smith, who lost even the vote of the First Congressional District, where he was believed to have great strength in the State, entered the fight too late to be really effective, and when he did enter it was in no emphatic fashion. Most of the New Hampshire Democrats had decided to support Roosevelt and they were not willing to switch at the last minute, particularly to a "half-way" candidate.

The next State primary, that in North Dakota next Tuesday, will be a somewhat better gauge of the Roosevelt strength. There he will be opposed by "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, one of the most aggressive Democrats in the race. Gov. Murray will have the advantage in North Dakota of being a rural radical, an inflationist and a strong bidder for farmer support. If the Roosevelt forces can withstand the assaults of such a candidate in that State, those who are out to stop the New York governor will have some real reason for worry.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Henry Johnson, in Lindbergh Case, an Example of Aliens Who Come Into the U. S. Unlawfully, Disguised as Seamen.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The news in your issue of today dealing with Henry Johnson, who is under inquiry in the Lindbergh case, is interesting.

It appears that there is some information from England that has to be investigated before Johnson can be turned over to the immigration authorities for deportation. It develops that he has been in the country unlawfully since 1927, and from the scant public information that is yet available, it appears that he came into the country as a seaman through that wide open side door through which more than 500,000 men have come in since 1921, in violation of law.

You are well acquainted with the efforts that have been made, especially since 1924, to close that side door by the passing of the King bill (S. 7), to provide for the deportation of certain alien seamen. Johnson may, of course, be vocationally a seaman. It is more than likely, however, that he is just one of the men who along with thousands of others have come into this country as seamen, when, in fact, they were either unable to get on the quota, or unable to get a visa. If the King bill had been passed in 1924, there could be no smuggling of aliens disguised as seamen. Since, for reasons above indicated, they are not able to get in here legally, they pay the price and are signed on the articles of vessels as seamen. They inform the immigration officials that they are going to stay with the ship and thereby obtain the landing privilege, whereupon they vanish in the population.

Tender care for the presumed interest of ship owners, foreign and American, has prevented the bill being passed, notwithstanding the fact of the testimony repeatedly given that racketeers of all descriptions upon investigation have been found to have come to the United States as seamen through that open side door which still stands open.

ANDREW FURUSETH.

Mr. Singer Protests Against French Ban on American Fruits.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Today the French government announced an embargo on fresh fruits from the United States which seriously affects the apple growers of Oregon, Washington and other apple-growing States who have depended on this lucrative market as an outlet for a substantial portion of their crop. Justification for this action is based on the flimsy excuse that a fruit pest was discovered in samples of the American apples recently shipped there.

Such action strikes particularly hard against growers of fruits, farm and allied products, because these particular industries have no alternative action to help them out of the difficulty of an eliminated market. A manufacturer does have a most significant "crutch" to fall back upon. It is possible for him to set up branch factories in countries which have ruled against the importation of his particular product, i. e., Ford branch factories in Europe; or he can, possibly, with some trouble, change his factory set-up and concentrate on a kindred product. But this is impossible for our fruit-growing and agricultural interests for the most part.

The question then arises, What can be done? It remains for our Government to bring all possible pressure to stop this obvious discrimination against our interests. The Departments of State and Commerce should bend every effort to eliminate such practices, not only of France but every other country pursuing a similar course.

Reader Quotes Bar Association on Dragon's Teeth of Lawlessness.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I note that Hon. A. Piatt Andrew thinks that prohibition is chiefly responsible for the prevalence of crime.

I believe that the basic reason is stated more exactly in the statement unanimously adopted some years ago by the judicial section (composed only of judges) of the American Bar Association:

"When, for the gratification of their appetites, or the promotion of their interests, lawyers, bankers, great merchants and manufacturers, and social leaders, both men and women, disobey and scoff at this law, or any other law, they are aiding the cause of anarchy and promoting mob violence, robbery and homicide; they are sowing dragon's teeth, and they need not be surprised when they find that no judicial or police authority can save our country or humanity from reaping the harvest."

Correspondent Answers Dr. Smith, Defending Gen. Glassford's Request for Additional Policemen.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The letter in The Post of March 2, from the pen of Rev. Dr. E. Ernest Smith, minimizing the importance of "keeping the city dry," though not magnifying the importance of keeping it safe, must give comfort to the "wets." Certainly if Gen. Glassford says he needs more police to "make the city dry," this does not mean that he would withdraw police from discovering other forms of lawlessness.

The writer has recently called attention to urgent needs in our traffic management, particularly reckless driving. But how many instances of killed and wounded persons are reported with the appended clause, "driver intoxicated?" Safety in auto-driving is too closely allied to sobriety of drivers to disconnect the two.

SOCIETY

Mrs. Hoover Receives Home Economic Group. Vice President Curtis Guest of Honor At Stimson Dinner at Woodley

MRS. HOOVER YESTERDAY received a group of members of the Home Economic Service of the Board of Vocational Education.

The Vice President, Mr. Charles Curtis, was the guest in whose honor the Secretary of State and Mrs. Henry L. Stimson entertained at dinner last evening at Woodley. The other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, the Chilean Ambassador, Senor Don Miguel Cruchaga Tocornal; the Minister of Finland, Mr. L. Astrom; the Minister of the Union of South Africa, Mr. Eric Louw; the Bolivian Minister and Senora de Abelli, the Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, the Chief of Naval Operations and Mrs. William V. Pratt, Countess Szechenyi, the Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. James Grafton Rogers, Mrs. Mahlon Pitney, Mrs. Truxtun Beale, Mrs. Vernon Kellogg, Mrs. Campbell Prichett and Capt. Eugene A. Regnier.

The Siamese Minister, Phya Subarn Sompati, left yesterday for Philadelphia to spend the week-end as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Goodman.

Senator and Mrs. Cameron Morrison will entertain at dinner tonight at the Mayflower for the members of the North Carolina delegation in Congress.

Mrs. Charles L. Abernethy, wife of Representative Abernethy, will entertain at luncheon today at the Raleigh Hotel in honor of Mrs. Cameron Morrison and Mrs. Josiah W. Bailey, wives of the senators from North Carolina.

Representative Black Guest Of Democratic Club.

Representative Loring Black, jr., was the guest of honor at a dinner which the Woman's National Democratic Club gave last evening. The dinner had been planned to compliment Gov. O. Max Gardner of North Carolina, who had to send regrets at the last minute because of the death of his brother.

Mrs. Samuel Herrick introduced Representative Black. Others at the speakers' table were Mr. and Mrs. H. E. C. Bryant, Mrs. H. W. Northcutt, Mrs. George M. Eckels, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Small and Mrs. Kate Arrington.

Some of the others at the dinner, many with guests, were Mrs. Edward Keating, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Graham Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver C. Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Cox, of Soochow, China; Representative and Mrs. Lynn Hornor, Mrs. G. G. Hess, Miss Bell Snyder, Miss Gertrude Snyder, Mrs. Miller, Miss Ella Hodgson, Mrs. Charles Hamlin, Miss Hamlin, Miss Jane Hamlin, Mrs. M. E. Buford, Miss Margaret Boyd, Mrs. Bolick Hurd, Miss Agnes Winn, Miss Marvin Breckenridge and Dr. and Mrs. Lewis J. Battle.

The United States Ambassador to Argentina and Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss, who have been in this country for several months, sailed last evening on the Majestic for Europe. They will go to England first to pass some time, and will sail for Buenos Aires some time in April.

While in Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Bliss did not open their home in Georgetown except for the wedding reception of Miss Victoria Tytus and Mrs. Lawrence Coolidge, but have divided their time while in the Capital between the Mayflower and the home of the Ambassador's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warren, on Eighteenth street.

The former British Ambassador, Sir Auckland Geddes, who has been in this country for some time, sailed yesterday on the Majestic to return to his home in England.

On the same ship were Winston Churchill, former chancellor of the exchequer, who has been on a lecture tour in this country, and his daughter, Miss Diana Churchill.

Canadian Secretary Departs for France.

The Second Secretary of the Canadian Legation, Mr. Thomas Archibald Stone, sailed last evening on the Majestic for Europe. He will go to Paris, where he will assume his duties at the Canadian Legation in the French capital.

Mr. Stone has been in Washington for several years and has many friends here who will regret his transfer. His marriage to the late Mrs. Stone, who was Miss Ellen Cox Ewing, of New York, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ewing, was one of the important events of several summers ago.

The retiring naval attache of the Italian Embassy, Capt. Luigi Notarbartolo dei Duchi di Villarosa, will sail on Thursday, March 24, aboard the Saturnia, for Italy, to assume new duties.

Princess Margaret Boncompagni, who has passed the winter in Europe instead of coming to Washington, as is her custom, has gone to Paris, where she will remain until April.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Sumner Welles, who have been in Europe for several weeks, arrived in New York on the Bremen last week and are now at their country home, Oxonhill Manor, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hay Whitney, who sailed for Europe several weeks ago, are in Paris for a short time before going to England to attend the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree in which Mr. Whitney will have two entries.

The winners in last night's weekly duplicate contract bridge game held at the Shoreham under the direction of Mr. A. Philip Stockvis were Mrs. L. H. Jackman, Mrs. A. E. Byrne, Mrs. M. R. West and Mrs. E. B. Swanson.

Mrs. Harry Gordon, formerly Mrs. Richard Marshall, of Washington and Nunda, N. Y., and Mrs. Audley Pierce, of Pittsburgh, who have been visiting Mrs. Enos Newman for a week, have returned to their homes. They came for the private view of the Washington portraits, and reception at the Corcoran Art Gallery last Saturday night.

The Congressional Club, 2001 New Hampshire avenue, entertained at tea yesterday afternoon when their guest of honor was Ettore Cadorin, Italian sculptor. His topic was "A Heritage of Sculpture."

Filipinos Arrange Farewell Dance.

The Filipinos in the city, under the auspices of the Visayan Circle, Inc., will honor Dr. Hilario Camino Moncado to a farewell dance to be given tonight at the Carlton Hotel.

Dr. Moncado, president and founder of the largest Filipino organization, Filipino Federation of America, Inc., and of the newly launched Philippine political organization, the Modernista Party, will leave shortly for Los Angeles, after spending almost two months in the city, during which time he has observed the independence movement in Congress.

The committee on arrangements of this gala affair is headed by Mr. Ruperto Flones, with Mrs. Leon Arbolieras, Balonon and Diosdado M. Yap, members.

Judge and Mrs. Samuel Jordan Graham have returned to Paris from Algeria.

Mrs. John Edie, who has been in Paris for the past several weeks visiting her son-in-law and daughter, the first Secretary of the United States Embassy and Mrs. Robert Scotten, sailed Wednesday on the Europa for this country. She will join Capt. Edie, who returned several weeks ago at their home in Washington.

Capt. and Mrs. William G. Gooch have arrived in Europe, where they will be in Paris for a short stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Wellington went to Atlantic City Thursday.

Mrs. Jacob Baur, of Chicago, is a guest at the Mayflower while in Washington for the meeting of the committee on arrangements of the Republican national committee. Mrs. Baur arrived yesterday from Palm Beach, where she had been the guest of Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, and will leave for Chicago the first of next week.

Miss Ornstein to Wed Dr. Matwell Cohen.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ornstein, 1417 Varnum street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Esther, to Dr. Maxwell Cohen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris A. Cohen, of Baltimore, Md. Miss Ornstein, the niece of Mr. Morris Cafritz, is completing her senior year for a bachelor of arts degree at George Washington University.

Mrs. Howard G. Kneessi entertained at luncheon at the Shoreham yesterday in honor of Mrs. Thomas Somerville's house guest, Mrs. H. A. Liggen, of Richmond, Va. Her other guests were Mrs. E. B. Semmes, Mrs. Cleveland Skinker, Mrs. M. B. Skinker, Mrs. David Lum, Mrs. Royal Corwin, Mrs. H. Addison Bowie, Mrs. R. Richardson, Mrs. Roscoe Powell, Mrs. E. Weise and Mrs. E. E. Muth.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Stenhouse, who have been in Paris for several weeks, have gone to Italy, where they will remain until after Easter, returning to Paris for the spring season.

Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Louis L. Pendleton, who make their home at the Shoreham, entertained at the dinner dance last night their guests, including Col. and Mrs. Osmun Latrobe, Col. and Mrs. Earl Biscoe, Maj. and Mrs. Richard D. Newman, Maj. and Mrs. William J. Calvert, Maj. and Mrs. Roy Hartley and Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Pendleton, of New York.

Mrs. William I. Ogus entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton, the company numbering eight.

The ushers for the illustrated lecture "Kashmir to Siam," which is to be given by Mrs. Charles Wood at the Wardman Park Theater on Tuesday, March 15, are Mrs. Harry B. Angus, Mrs. Bryan K. Ogden, Mrs. Charles Lamborn, Mrs. George Du Bois, Mrs. Emil E. Honsberg, Mrs. A. H. Bakshian, Mrs. Clyde Asher, Mrs. Margaret Blue, Mrs. William S. Brady, Mrs. Calhoun Sterling and Miss Marjorie Smith.

Mrs. Robert E. Henderson entertained at luncheon and bridge at the Shoreham yesterday. Her guests were Mrs. H. Chester Merwinn, Mrs. Wallace Stoever, Mrs. M. X. Sullivan, Mrs. Brooks W. Setzer, Mrs. A. E. Gude, Mrs. E. S. Koss and Mrs. E. C. Guy.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Rushton, of Birmingham, Ala., will arrive today in Washington to be guests of Mr and Mrs. David Hunt Blair at Wardman Park Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Hill, jr., of St. Paul, are in Washington for a few days and are at the Willard.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Jeffreys arrived in Washington from their home in Utica, N. Y., a day or two ago and have an apartment at Wardman Park Hotel.

The Beta Chapter of the Chi Sigma Sorority entertained at the dinner dance at the Shoreham last night, in honor of the eleventh anniversary of the chapter.

Members present were Mrs. Evelyn Bellman, Miss Ruth Schaefer, Miss Margaret Sullivan, Miss Flossie Baum, Miss Virginia Beall, Miss Florence Smith, Mrs. Rachel McKenney, Miss Catherine Austin, Miss Elinor Burch, Miss Helen Meenehan, Miss Marie Meenehan, Miss Dorothy Plitt, Miss Emma Moxley, Miss Ruth Thomas, Miss Augusta Kaish, Miss Mille Roach, Mrs. Kathryn McClay, Mrs. Mamie Keir, Mrs. Eleanor McMann, Mrs. Margaret Andrews.

Mrs. J. Ross Cannon left yesterday on a trip to Nashville, Tenn., and Savannah, Ga., where she will visit for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Smith, of Newton, Conn., are guests at the Dodge.

Mrs. Charles McLees, of East Orange, N. J., who has been spending a few days at the Shoreham, will be joined there by her son, Lieut. Frederick H. Warres, U. S. A., today. Mrs. McLees will accompany her son back to Charleston, W. Va., where he is stationed, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Williams, who have been spending some time in the South, are at the Carlton for a few days before returning to their home in Orange, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Stone, of New York, are at the Willard.

Mrs. Wilfred C. Murphy and her daughter, Miss Helena Murphy, of Providence, R. I., are guests at the Shoreham over the week-end, having returned from a motor trip through the South. They will attend the festivities at Chevy Chase College, from which Miss Murphy graduated last year. Miss Yoeh Wong, daughter of Mr. C. T. Wong, former Minister of Foreign Affairs in Nanking, China, will entertain at a Chinese dinner for them tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Brand have returned to their apartment at 1661 Crescent place after passing ten days at Miami Beach, Fla.

The Phi Sigma Kappa Fraternity, George Washington University Branch, will give a dance in the Cabinet room of the Willard this evening.

MISS ESTHER ORNSTEIN, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Ornstein, whose engagement to Dr. Maxwell Cohen, of Baltimore, is announced.

March 14, when the contest will be declared officially closed and no more essays will be entered. Remember there are only two days more, so have the last essays in the mail early, or better still, bring them to the office of The Post to avoid any chance of their being held up in the mail.

Isaac Gans, who is known throughout the city for his civic work, congratulated The Post yesterday on the success of its Washington Essay Contest.

"I heartily congratulate this enterprising newspaper, The Washington Post, for lending the powerful influence of the press to quicken this interest in George Washington among the young people of the National Capital," Mr. Gans said. "It is a splendid use of the best means we have of spreading a new patriotism, a new conception of service to country and a new sense of what it is to be the George Washington kind of American.

"I welcomed with enthusiasm the idea of celebrating in the most fitting way an event so important in our history as the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington," he continued. "It has made me proud to be an American to watch the growth of national interest in this enterprise. The celebration that began all over the United States on Washington's Birthday proved that the spirit of George Washington is with us still, and that we all realize that if the country is to go on building safely, we must return again and again to the teachings of the man who did more than any other to give it firm foundations.

Well to Honor Washington.

"It is well that we honor the man to whom we owe the great blessings we enjoy. May this sense of gratitude continue with our people throughout the year until a rededicated Nation closes this tribute to Washington on Thanksgiving Day, when we offer to the Providence that Washington himself so reverenced a new thankfulness for the gift of so great a man.

"But I venture to express a thought that occurs to me, as this celebration begins and progresses. It is that singing "The Star-Spangled Banner," marching in parades and witnessing exercises are not the only ways in which we can celebrate Washington. It seems to me that this tribute is an empty expression unless we take Washington into our very lives and keep his teachings daily in mind.

"Every true American will do this, but it is especially the youth of our land that we need to interest in Washington. It is they who are to be the citizens of tomorrow. Their influence is to be the guiding force in the future life of our country. And with this thought in mind I heartily approve such educational contests as this one originated by The Washington Post.

"George Washington himself, when young, as the histories tell us, was fond of tests and trials of prowess. All his life he was interested in the education of youth. And so such contests are fully in line with his views."

Forgiveness Text Of Phillips Sermon

Bishop Budlong of Connecticut, to Deliver Lenten Talks Next Week.

Dr. Z. B. Phillips, rector of the Church of the Epiphany, will continue his series of sermons on the Lord's Prayer at the morning worship hour tomorrow. His theme will be, "Forgive Us Our Trespasses as We Forgive Those Who Trespass Against Us."

The special subject for the lecture-sermon tomorrow night will be "The Doctrine of God and Immortality as Revealed in the Religion of Zoroaster," this subject having been postponed from last Sunday night.

The special noonday preacher at Epiphany during the coming week will be the Right Rev. Frederick G. Budlong, Bishop Coadjutor of the Diocese of Connecticut. The general theme of Bishop Budlong's addresses from Monday to Friday, inclusive, will be "Prevalent Perplexities."

Central Presbyterian Fund Assists Needy

Dr. James H. Taylor, pastor of Central Presbyterian Church, will preach tomorrow morning on "Some Divine Assurance." At the monthly congregational dinner on Thursday evening at 6:15 o'clock, Dr. W. Sinclair Bowen will speak on the subject, "Religion in the Home."

It is an interesting fact that a number of years ago Dr. Busey, an uncle of Dr. W. Sinclair Bowen, established in the Central Presbyterian Church a trust fund known as the Catherine A. M. Busey Fund, in memory of Mrs. Busey, the interest on this fund to be used in the congregation for the relief of the needy. For many years this fund has proven a great blessing to many in need.

Eastern Presbyterian Class Elects Officers

The men's Bible class of Eastern Presbyterian Church at their March business-fellowship meeting elected the following officers for the year beginning April 1:

Teacher, George H. Winslow; president, A. K. Williams; first vice president, T. J. McAdams; second vice president, Earl J. Bush; secretary, R. E. West; assistant secretary, Beverly M. Leache; treasurer, J. P. Hunnicutt; assistant treasurer, J. C. Kauffman; social secretary, D. J. Roberts.

On Wednesday the class, together with their ladies will be given a complimentary dinner and social evening by the ladies of the good will Bible class.

Pastor Will Preach on Zimmermann Painting

Continuing his series of sermons on famous Christian paintings, the Rev. Robert L. Wood, pastor of Petworth Methodist Church, will speak tomorrow evening on Zimmermann's painting, "Christ and the Fishermen."

The musical numbers are all suggested by the picture, and include the anthem, "Consider and Hear Me," by Pflueger, and the quartet, "Memories of Galilee." All the hymns used are related to the picture or suggested by it. Following the sermon every person present will receive a copy of the picture suitable for framing.

BishopMcDowell Lenten Chevy Chase Speaker

Bishop William Fraser McDowell, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, will be the Lenten speaker at the Chevy Chase community service on Thursday evening, March 17, at 8 o'clock. The service will be the last of a series of five meetings conducted cooperatively by Baptist, Presbyterian, Episcopal and Methodist churches. It will be held in the All Saints Episcopal Church.

Brightwood Park Group To Give Religious Sketch

Eighteen young people of Brightwood Park Methodist Church will present a religious sketch entitled "Sunday at Seth Parker's" in the Sunday school auditorium at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening. Mrs. S. Carroll Coale, wife of the pastor, is directing.

At the morning service the pastor will preach on "Life's Greatest Stimulant."

Gospel Meeting Series Planned in Takoma Park

The Rev. William E. LaRue, pastor of Takoma Park Baptist Church, will preach tomorrow morning on "The Mystery of the Cross."

Evangelist and Mrs. Adam L. Lutzweiler, of Philadelphia, gospel singers and musicians, will conduct a series of gospel meetings beginning Sunday, March 20, and continuing over Easter Sunday.

Gunton Congregation to Meet.

Dr. Barnard Braskamp, minister of Gunton-Temple Presbyterian Church, will preach tomorrow morning on "Christianity's Challenging Claims." On Thursday evening at 8 o'clock the church will hold the annual congregational meeting.

"Wake Up" Subject of Sermon.

"Wake Up" is the subject of the morning sermon which the Rev. C. B. Austin will preach at West Washington Baptist Church tomorrow.

Sermon Topic of Dr. Kester.

Dr. Hirl A. Kester, pastor of Congress Street Methodist Church, will preach tomorrow morning on the theme, "Christ, the Soul's Master."

Church Tomorrow Has Family Day

Dr. Stockdale Will Preach on "American Home Ideals."

Dr. Allen A. Stockdale, minister of First Congregational Church, Tenth and G streets northwest, will speak tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock on "American Home Ideals." Family day will be observed at the morning service and it is hoped that all parents will attend church with their children.

The Biblical drama, "James of Galilee," which was postponed from last Sunday night to tomorrow night, will be presented at 8 o'clock by the young people of First Church. The drama concerns the calling of James, son of Zebedee, by Christ, to become a fisher of men.

The players are: Tudor Whiton, William Taylor, Gail Whiton, Mary Jane Benson, John Homer Smith and Ray McAfee. The prologue and epilogue will be given by Viola Buhrow and the scenes announced by Dorothy Blaisdell. The drama is given under the direction of Nell M. Berghout, director of religious education at First Church.

Dr. Sizoo Is Lenten Speaker Next Week

Noonday Lenten services at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, under the auspices of the Washington Federation of Churches, have been attracting wide attention. During the present week the preaching has been done by Dr. W. Russell Bowie, rector of Grace Episcopal Church, of New York City.

Next week the preacher will be the pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, who will preach every day at 12:30 o'clock, except on Thursday, when Bishop W. F. McDowell will be the speaker. There will be no services in this series on Saturdays and Sundays.

Congregation Is Urged ToBringUnsavedFriends

Dr. B. P. Robertson, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Hyattsville, will preach tomorrow morning on "God's Call to Young People," and in the evening on "What Must I Do to Be Saved?"

He has asked his congregation to bring their unsaved friends to the evening service.

"The Hidden Christ" Beatty Sermon Topic

The Rev. Harold E. Beatty, minister of Georgetown Lutheran Church, has chosen for the theme of his sermon tomorrow morning, "The Hidden Christ."

This church will join with the other Lutheran churches in the union Lenten services to be held next week at Luther Place Church.

Woman ChoirOrganized In Beltsville Church

Zion Episcopal Church, of Beltsville, Md., has recently organized a choir of women and young girls and is planning a special service for Easter Sunday. The young girls will act as crucifer and flag bearers.

Zion Church is over 50 years old and is one of the most beautiful on the highway between Washington and Baltimore.

Choir at St. Andrew's To Sing Two Cantatas

The Choir of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church will sing two short cantatas tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. The first is "Hear My Prayer," by Mendelssohn, and the second is "Lead Kindly Light," by Cyril Jenkins.

All music lovers are invited to be present.

Origin of Life Sermon Topic.

Dr. J. J. Rives, pastor of Francis Asbury Methodist Church South, will preach tomorrow evening on "What Is Life and Where Did It Come From?"

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

IN BEING the time of the year when platform building is in order, political and otherwise, the National Committee on Education by Radio appears to be declaring war on providers of paid radio entertainment, by offering "the platform of the commercial broadcasters," in the following assertions, which, according to the committee, they have verified in the records of the Federal Radio Commission and elsewhere:

"We (the commercial broadcasters) demand the control and unlimited use of all of the Nation's broadcasting channels.

"We deny the right of the State or Federal Governments to use these channels, except with our permission and through our stations.

"We deny the right of the State or Federal Governments to grant the use of any broadcasting channel to any person or corporation not engaged in the advertising and amusement business.

"We deny the right of the State or Federal Governments to grant the use of broadcasting channels to State universities, State departments of public instruction, chartered educational institutions, or any institution or organization for any purpose except commercial advertising.

"We claim and exercise the right to grant or deny the use of the public broadcasting channels to any person or organization seeking to use our facilities.

"We claim and exercise the right to censor any statement of fact or opinion, or other material offered for broadcasting, and the right to separate any speaker or other persons from the radio audience, by operating a switch, at any time during any program."

"WE maintain that the broadcasting of information or instruction by the President of the United States, by a Justice of the Supreme Court, by the governor of a State, a senator, a representative, or any other public official, for the benefit of the public, is interstate commerce, in common with the broadcasting of commercial advertisements," the "platform" of the commercial broadcasters drafted by the education by radio committee continues.

"We claim and exercise the right to make an address by the President of the United States, or by any other official or person, a part of an advertising campaign for anything advertised over our facilities.

"We claim and exercise the right to attack State-owned broadcasting stations, or other stations operated primarily in the public interest, convenience and necessity, and to force them to spend, in self-defense, educational funds appropriated by States or received as contributions. We claim and exercise the right to force them to appear before the Federal Radio Commission, and in court, as often as we please, regardless of their priority on the radio channels belonging to the public and regardless of their record of public service."

"WE maintain that our business is interstate commerce but that our use of public broadcasting channels places upon us no obligations as common carriers. We maintain furthermore that neither the Interstate Commerce Commission, nor any other governmental agency has the power to limit the rates which we charge for our services," the commercial broadcasters' "platform" concludes.

"We claim and exercise the right to transmit our advertising programs into foreign countries, regardless of the wishes of their governments or people.

"We deny that the conviction of a broadcasting company or its owners or agents for violation of law constitutes a valid reason for limiting or denying the use of public radio channels to such companies or persons, the radio law to the contrary notwithstanding.

"We demand that the public radio channels be placed in our hands permanently and exclusively, as our vested property, to have and to hold forever."

LEOPOLD STOKOWSKI will conduct the Philadelphia Orchestra in a program composed entirely of modern Russian music, in the Philco concert scheduled to be broadcast through 73 stations of the Columbia network, including WMAL, from 8:15 to 10 o'clock tonight.

In the concerts so far, Stokowski has presented programs representative of the greatest music since the beginning of the seventeenth century. The broadcast will originate in the Philadelphia Academy of Music, with the entire Philadelphia Orchestra playing before a full audience.

In addition to the orchestra, Stokowski will have under his baton the Mendelssohn Club of Philadelphia, of which Bruce Carey is the conductor, in the Stravinsky work, and a group of artists from the Curtis Institute of Music, including Sylvan Levin, pianist, in the Scriabine.

This will be the last concert but one of the present series, which concludes April 2, with a full length program, devoted to American composers of the present day.

Following is the complete program:

Symphonic Poem, "The Witches' Flight" (Wassilenko).

"Mongolian Diptych"—"Funeral Retreat of Jenghiz Khan" and "The Morning of the Barking of Dogs," (Illiashenko).

Symphony of Psalms (Stravinsky).

"Prometheus, the Poem of Fire," (Scriabine).

"Pictures from an Exhibition," (Moussorgsky).

The second act of "Sadko," Rimsky-Korsakoff's opera based on the legendary adventures of the eleventh century minstrel hero, will be broadcast during its performance at the Metropolitan Opera House this afternoon (WRC, 3 o'clock). Georges Thill, French tenor, will sing Sadko.

Anna Case, former star of the Metropolitan Opera, will sing in the last of the New York Philharmonic concerts for children and young people today (WMAL, 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m.). Adapting her program to the tastes of the younger concertgoers, the soprano will be heard in the following songs: "Connais-tu le Pays?" from "Mignon;" "Song of India" from "Sadko;" "The Night Winds," by Roland Farley, and "Summer and You," Mabellane Corby.

Ernest Schelling has made up his program from the numbers most often requested by the audience, including the first movement from Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony," "Peer Gynt," Suite No. 1, Grieg, "Santa Lucia" and the overture "1812" by Tschaikovsky.

"The New Tax Bill" will be discussed by Ogden L. Mills, Secretary of the Treasury, in an address over WMAL at 10 o'clock tonight.

Jane Corbett INTERPRETS the MODE

Charming light blue linen frock with white collar and cuffs.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Something practical, at last, for a house dress! The smartest-looking one, too, and if you ever heard of or saw one that was easier to wash and iron, and easier to work in, and smarter to appear at the front door in, I'll give you a house dress!

Let me describe the dress for you. It is all in one piece, and you slip into it and button it up the front with those adorable flat mother-of-pearl buttons, because they are the most practical and can be had in so many lovely shapes.

And then, there are those smart flare insets in the skirt, both front and back, which give plenty of leg room. And the inch-wide belt which fastens with a button right in line with the buttons on the dress front.

This house dress, seen in a New York shop, was made up in several different colors, but the one that caught my eye was in a soft, light blue linen, with the scalloped collar and cuffs in white.

Not the least of its charm is the fact that it is so absolutely simple to wash and iron—you don't even have to put it on the ironing board! Just iron it out flat, or you can get it in seersucker, which doesn't have to be ironed.

The little cap sleeves are just enough of an arm covering to make the house dress perfect for your marketing, for having luncheon, for any use where a chic, well-fitting, easily laundered and comfortable summer dress could be worn. Don't forget that this makes a fine summer beach dress, too, and a splendid tennis frock that you can actually play in.

Au revoir!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

THE SIX PERIODS OF TEETH.

THE MOUTH HYGIENE QUARTERLY for January publishes a chart, prepared by Dr. F. B. Rhobotham and approved by the Society of Child Dentistry. It is called a "Survey of Dental Diagnosis During Childhood," and it suplies something of a program for children in such matters as relate to the teeth. It is arranged by periods, starting with four months before birth and extending to age 16. There are six age groups, and the advice given for each group is arranged under eight heads.

The prospective mother is advised to eat a diet that contains milk, leafy and green vegetables and eggs as fundamentals. Cod liver oil, viosterol and light are also noted as essentials. The baby's teeth are well under way at the time of birth.

The first nine months of life are important, from the tooth standpoint. In this period most of the abnormal sucking habits threaten. Cleft palate, harelip and other malformations may be in evidence. The gums may need lancing to promote the eruption of teeth. The rate of the eruption of teeth is important. Mouth hygiene is to be started. Baby must not use a pacifier. He must get the right food, either from his mother or by correct mixtures of proper ingredients from other sources.

From 9 months to 4 years is the most important time for the development of the teeth. Likewise for training in mouth hygiene. Watch for and correct all bad habits, such as lip habits and faulty speech habits. Watch the development of the jaws and note whether the occlusion is good. Select "chewy" foods. Limit sweets and pastries. Check for abnormalities of teeth, jaws and tongue. Use space retainers where teeth have been lost. Watch out for scurvy. Train in mouth hygiene. Institute early treatment of faulty enamel. Fill cavities that form.

While faults in central incisors, cuspids and first molars are likely to develop in the period preceding the 4 to 9 year period, still the bicuspids and second molars are likely to go wrong. In this period malocclusions are apt to show up. The deciduous teeth are falling out and the permanent teeth are coming in. This must not be neglected. Watch for supernumerary teeth and teeth that will not erupt. It is important that space retainers be used. This is the best age to move misplaced single teeth into position.

In the 9 to 12 year period proper diet is very important. This is the period in which to regulate malocluded teeth. Watch for decay in both sets of teeth. Fill cavities. Especially note the effects of decay in the deciduous teeth on the condition of the permanent teeth. Watch the gums. Strict mouth hygiene should be carried out.

In the 12 to 15 year age period proper diet is a matter of great importance. Correction of malocclusion should be concluded. If it has been previously neglected, it is still possible to accomplish much, but this is not the period of choice for starting this work. This is the age of decay and cavity formation and, in consequence, even more than in the preceding period, the teeth should be watched and faults repaired. Strict mouth hygiene should be carried out. In this period some permanent teeth are erupted. Watch for such eruptions. If they do not occur, examine with X-rays.

MAY BE HYSTERIA.

E. S. writes:

1. After eating I have a heavy, choking sensation in my throat down to my stomach. Sometimes it feels as though something is lodged in the throat. I am 36 years old, married and have regular habits. I sleep eight hours every night and exercise every morning by radio. Work in an office. Smoke ten or twelve cigarettes a day.

2. I notice I can not wear a gold ring in warm weather without raising a lot of small blisters on the finger.

REPLY.

1. Have a physician find out whether this symptom means anything. He may find that you watch your work too much. A lump in the throat may mean hysteria.

2. The common complaint is that the skin turns dark. That condition results from sulphur liberated by decomposing cells and secretions. The remedy is more soap and water.

But you seem to have something else. Your skin seems to be sensitized to gold, sweat or something. You appear to have what they formerly called eczema due to the causes given. Keep your skin very clean and put aside your rings in hot weather. That is the simplest cure.

IT IS CURABLE.

J. C. writes: Is consumption curable?

REPLY.

It is. However, not all cases are cured.

Culbertson on Contract

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

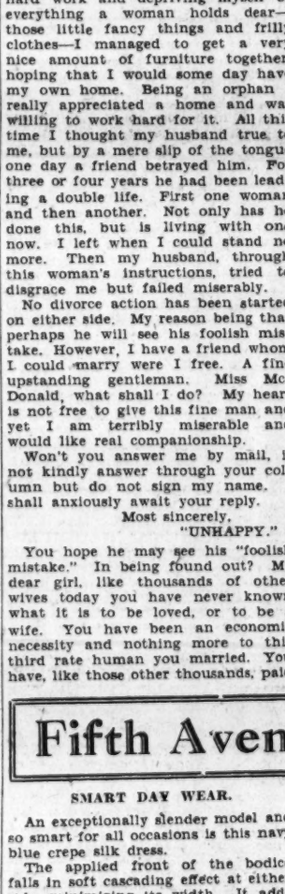
READING THE CARDS.

TIME spent in the study of the fall of the cards and the probable distribution as revealed in the bidding and play, frequently results in the making of contracts which to the superficial view appear beset with insuperable obstacles. Ability to read cards is part of the equipment of every good Bridge player. Without it, such plays as squeezes, throw-ins and the like can not be executed, because the player will not know where to apply the pressure that brings the squeeze, nor will he know where he is throwing the lead when he leads a losing card. Sometimes apparently unfavorable distribution is favorable and the hand below is a case in point.

East and West vulnerable.

North and South not vulnerable.

East—Dealer.



The Bidding:

East	South	West	North
1♡	2♣	2♡	Pass
4♡	Pass	Pass	Pass

South led the King of clubs which East won with the Ace and then led the Ace of hearts. When South's Queen fell on this trick, East could see that Dummy's spade suit would be valueless to him if the J 8 of hearts remained in the North hand and he attempted to capture the Knave through a finesse, as Dummy's trumps could not be used both to capture the adverse trump honor and to ruff losing clubs. Remembering the fall of the club 9 from the North hand, East decided that this card could not be an echo, but was North's lowest card in that suit. This placed either six or seven clubs to the K Q with either the Knave or Ten in the South hand. By negative inferences, it also placed the spade Ace in the North hand, as well as some of the high diamonds; otherwise South would have bid higher in clubs. Thus, since North could not only have more than two clubs, only one of them could be ruffed in the Dummy, leaving East facing the unpleasant prospect of five losers in the minor suits. To lead the King of trumps would be ineffective for the same reason.

Thus placing the adversely held honor cards and deducing the adverse distribution, at trick three East led a small club and discarded a diamond from Dummy. North won with the Knave and was compelled to lead a diamond, as obviously the lead of a spade or a trump would be to make things easy for the Declarer. East refused to win this trick, thus providing two entries to Dummy and permitting the making of his game which he would otherwise have lost. It is obvious that North's alternative lead of the trump would have brought the same result due to East's brilliant play in apparently illogically refusing to ruff a losing card and thus placing the lead where he desired it.

TODAY'S POINTER.

An important element in the successful play of the hand is the ability to decipher the distribution of the cards held by each of your opponents. Unless you can do this accurately, the game going trick, available to the expert, will frequently be missed.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

Incredible Weakness.

DEAR Frances McDonald: I have been a constant reader of your column for quite a long time and have finally concluded that you could help me out of my dilemma. My friends advise me to get a divorce. I can not make up my mind. Perhaps I am imagining that I still love this man, then again there's that old saying, "There's no love like the first love."

To make myself clear: Nine years ago I married a poor man and have worked in offices the entire time besides keeping a large house, cleaning, scrubbing, washing and ironing, pressing my husband's suits and keeping the roof over his mother's head, something his brothers and sisters did not offer to do. By this hard work and depriving myself of everything a woman holds dear—those little fancy things and frilly clothes—I managed to get a very nice amount of furniture together, hoping that I would some day have my own home. Being an orphan I really appreciated a home and was willing to work hard for it. All this time I thought my husband true to me, but by a mere slip of the tongue one day a friend betrayed him. For three or four years he had been leading a double life. First one woman and then another. Not only has he done this, but is living with one now. I left when I could stand no more. Then my husband, through this woman's instructions, tried to disgrace me but failed miserably.

No divorce action has been started on either side. My reason being that perhaps he will see his foolish mistake. However, I have a friend whom I could marry were I free. A fine upstanding gentleman. Miss McDonald, what shall I do? My heart is not free to give this fine man and yet I am terribly miserable and would like real companionship.

Won't you answer me by mail, if not kindly answer through your column but do not sign my name. I shall anxiously await your reply.

Most sincerely,

"UNHAPPY."

You hope he may see his "foolish mistake." In being found out? My dear girl, like thousands of other wives today you have never known what it is to be loved, or to be a wife. You have been an economic necessity and nothing more to this third rate human you married. You have, like those other thousands, paid for the privilege of being married. You have—no matter how you hate to be told it, or how you hate to admit it—been paying this man for the privilege of supporting his mother—and sharing the same roof with him. Your status has been a shameful one. When you are able to assimilate that idea, and to act accordingly, your life may take on a form more compatible with a civilized social order.

Divorce him of course. Divorce him regardless of any other man. Divorce him to rid your life of him as you would rid your house of other vermin. Marriage is a thing that can easily become the lowest form of human degradation. Your marriage was one of that type. Whatever your future plans, plan at least to be a woman who can look other women in the face without shame. You can never do that while you maintain a man who feels for you nothing but contempt. Get your divorce and begin to really live.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

SMART DAY WEAR.

An exceptionally slender model and so smart for all occasions is this navy blue crepe silk dress.

The applied front of the bodice falls in soft cascading effect at either side, minimizing its width. It adds a lovely contrast in blue and white printed crepe. The hips are smoothly fitted. The circular skirt gores the front in panel styling, which is decidedly length giving.

It's attractive, too, in sheer woven pattern woolens and in printed crepe silks.

Style No. 723 may be had in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch material, with ¾ yard of 39-inch contrasting.

Price of pattern, 15 cents. Address Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-third street, New York City.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me something about the soil which is best suited to dahlias. Also when planting in rows, how far apart should the rows be arranged and how far apart should the tubers be planted?

PEGGY S.

One of our well-known commercial growers tells us "Dahlias are not particular as to any special kind of soil, but the subsoil must be of such a nature that there will be perfect drainage. The best results are obtained in a good sandy loam with a gravel subsoil. They prefer to be planted in full sunlight, but will do fairly well in a semi-shaded situation if this is not too near trees, the roots of which will absorb all the nourishment and moisture." The rows should be 4 feet apart and you must allow 3 feet for each tuber. There must always be ample room for future development and for a free circulation of air on all sides.

Please tell me something of the pruning of hybrid tea roses.

MRS. HENRY T.

Hybrid tea varieties should be severely pruned. Cut the stronger shoots back to 6 to 10 inches from the ground. All weak or thin wood should be removed entirely.

Please tell me how deep the water should be in a pool in which I want to plant some hardy nymphaeas.

RICHARD W. K.

Hardy nymphaeas will give splendid results if only covered with 12 inches of water during the summer months.

I have some old clumps of Leopard's bane in my garden which must be divided this season. Just when should this be done and should the divisions be planted in sun or shade?

MISS ELIZABETH E.

Leopard's bane does equally well in a sunny or shady position, provided you plant it in rich soil. The clumps should be divided soon after they have finished flowering.

Please tell me if it is possible to propagate bleeding heart from root divisions or from cuttings. If I can build up a supply of this old-fashioned flower from cuttings, is there any particular time when I should remove the cuttings and thus start new plants? MRS. CLYDE F. T.

Bleeding heart is propagated by division of the roots or from seed or young shoots which start from the ground in early spring. The time to divide the roots or start cuttings is just before the plants start into full growth in April. The divisions should be planted in rich, light soil, in sun or shade.

How far apart do you plant seedlings of Japanese wind flowers?

LAVINIA F. L.

Plants of Japanese wind flowers should be 18 inches apart.

I am to have some sedums given to me as soon as the ground is workable in April. What kind of soil should I plant them in and must I select a sunny location for them?

MRS. LYSTER S. W.

Sedums prefer a sandy soil that is perfectly drained in winter. It depends on the variety whether a plant will grow in sun or shade. Stonecrops usually do best in strong sun, though some varieties can be coaxed to grow under trees. Sedums make excellent edging plants and are also well suited for rock-garden use.

HOUSEWIVES CALL RECIPES HELPFUL

New One Writes to Say She Finds Them Economical and Attractive.

The work of the Food Editor of The Washington Post is made even more interesting by the receipt of letters from housewives telling of the service given to them by this page.

Such a letter came from a reader of the Saturday Food Page yesterday who declares that she is a "new" housewife and the benefits she derives from the page in learning her new tasks of homemaking. She wrote:

"I am a new housewife, just learning the art of buying and cooking. I can't tell you how helpful I have found your Saturday Food Page as a guide. Some of the recipes have found a place among my favorites, not only because they are truly delicious, but also because they are so economical (the keynote in cookery while Mr. Depression reigns).

"I am grateful for the store of information and timely hints given by Mrs. Justa Housewife and the Meanderer. I enjoy meandering with them and my shopping is made very much easier by their hints."

The new book awards and honorable mentions for today are as follows:

STUFFED HALIBUT STEAK.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

1 dozen oysters
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons Sanitary butter, melted
1 cup bread crumbs
2 slices halibut, from middle of fish

Drain oysters. Add butter, parsley, crumbs, salt and pepper and mix well. Wipe fish with damp cloth. Place one slice on a greased piece of muslin. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and lemon juice, and spread with oyster stuffing. Cover with second slice of fish and brush with melted butter. Place in baking dish with a little water and bake 40 or 50 minutes. Baste frequently with melted fat. Remove to hot platter and garnish with parsley, slices of lemon and potato balls.

MISS M. BAGGETT.
1019 Twenty-second street northwest.

STRAWBERRY SPONGE.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

Soak one tablespoon of gelatin in four tablespoons of cold water about ten minutes. Dissolve in one-half cup boiling water. Add 1½ cups sugar and 2 tablespoons lemon juice. When cool, add 1½ cups strained strawberry pulp and whites of 2 eggs, beaten. Beat all well. Turn into a mold which has been rinsed in cold water. Set in ice box to chill. Turn out on large serving dish and garnish with sweetened whipped cream and choice berries. Ingredients bought at American.

MRS. G. H. LEEPER.
2609 Twenty-second street northeast.

CORNSTARCH PEANUT PUDDING.
(Honorable Mention.)

2 cups milk
3 tablespoons honey
4 tablespoons cornstarch
3 tablespoons peanut butter (Schindler's)
⅛ teaspoon salt (Morton's)
Chopped nuts

Scald milk, add honey, cornstarch, peanut butter and salt. Mix together. Stir until smooth, cover and cook 20 minutes in a double boiler. Turn into small molds which have been wet with cold water. When firm remove from molds and garnish with marshmallow paste and chopped nuts.

MARY ZEA DONNER.
635 Maryland avenue northeast.

BAKED BROCCOLI.
(Honorable Mention.)

1 bunch fancy broccoli (Sanitary Grocery Co.)
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup bread crumbs (Sanitary Grocery Co.)

White Sauce.

1 cup milk
½ cup water
3 tablespoons Sanico flour
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
3 tablespoons butter

Boil broccoli buds in salt water until tender and arrange in butered casserole.

Place milk on stove. Mix water, flour, salt and pepper and add to milk as soon as it boils. Cook about 3 minutes and stir in butter. Pour over broccoli, cover with bread crumbs and bake a half-hour in a medium oven.

The Homemaker

By NANCY CAREY

Requested Recipes for Noodles, Divinity and Lemon Butter Are Given After Sunday's Dishes.

TODAY I hope to find much space in the column for various requests waiting on my desk for Saturday release, so I shall be scarce with words, pausing only in passing to wish every one a pleasant and enjoyable week-end.

Tomato Juice Cocktail.

Strain the liquid portion of a can of tomatoes through a fine strainer and add to it a tablespoonful of the following sauce (or bottled cocktail sauce). Mix, chill and serve in small glasses. If preferred very highly seasoned, more sauce may be added as well as a dash of cayenne pepper.

Sauce.

Pinch of salt
Sprinkle of lemon juice
2-3 tablespoonful catsup
½ teaspoonful Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoonful horseradish
1 tablespoonful chili sauce
Dash of tabasco

Mix these ingredients together very thoroughly before adding the required amount to the tomato juice.

Breast of Veal With Green Peas.

2 pounds breast of veal
2 tablespoonfuls bacon drippings
1 onion, sliced
2 cupfuls brown stock, bullion cubes may be used
4 tablespoonfuls flour
A bunch of herbs
1 cupful fresh shelled peas
Seasoning to taste

Cut the veal into 2-inch squares, removing the skin. Melt the drippings in a heavy pot and saute the meat until well browned on all sides. Remove the meat and cook the onion in the fat until light brown. Remove the onion and blend the flour with the fat. Add 2 cupfuls of stock until smooth and boiling. Return the meat and onion to the pot, add the bunch of herbs and simmer until tender, about an hour and a quarter. Season to taste. A half hour before the stew is done add the fresh peas. Remove the herbs and skim off fat.

Noodles.
(For "L. M. R.")

1 1-3 cupfuls flour, approximately
2 eggs
½ teaspoonful salt

Beat the eggs slightly, then add the salt and enough flour to make a stiff dough. Knead well and let stand one-half hour. Roll out very thin and set aside to dry. Do not allow it to become so dry that it will break or be brittle. It must be the least bit sticky. Fold into a light roll and cut in ⅛-inch strips. Separate lightly with the fingers and spread on a board to dry.

Divinity.
(For "Lucy C.")

2½ cupfuls sugar
1 cupful corn sirup, light
½ cupful water
1 teaspoonful vanilla
1 cupful nuts
2 egg whites

Cook sugar, sirup and water until mixture spins a thread quickly. Meanwhile beat the egg whites until stiff and add the sirup to them in a thin stream, beating constantly. Fold in the nuts and add vanilla and when very stiff drop by spoonfuls on a buttered platter.

Prune Cream.

1 pound prunes
Grated rind and juice of 1 orange and 1 lemon
1 cupful granulated sugar
1 cupful chopped almonds
2 tablespoonfuls gelatin
1 cupful whipping cream
Macaroons

Wash the prunes and soak them overnight in cold water deep enough to cover. Bring to boiling point, simmer until tender and mash through a strainer. Soak the gelatin in one-quarter cupful of cold water, add boiling water to the hot liquid left in prune dish to make two cupfuls and then add to the gelatin. Add the pureed prunes, grated rind and fruit juices and the sugar and set aside to cool. Just as the mixture begins to thicken, fold in the cream, beaten until stiff, and then the nut meats. Pour the mixture into moistened molds and place in refrigerator. To serve, sprinkle with ground macaroons and top with whipped cream.

Lemon Butter
(For "Mrs. Wiegand.")

3 lemons
3 eggs
½ cupful butter
1½ cupfuls sugar
Grated rind of one lemon

Mix lemon juice and rind, beaten eggs, soft butter and sugar, and cook in double boiler, stirring constantly. When of consistency to spread, remove from fire and cool at once.

Answers to Readers.

Dear Miss Carey—Will you please tell me what advantages there are, if any, in taking lemon juice in water the first thing in the morning? Is it reducing? MARGE.

First of all, Marge, lemon juice is no more "reducing" in itself than any other food. It has a definite food value in that it shares the rich vitamin and mineral content of all citrous fruits and is for that reason a valuable addition to the diet. But don't let any one tell you that lemon juice will make you thin. Taken first thing in the morning about a half hour before breakfast, preferably, it has definite laxative properties which aid considerably in reducing. Most persons who are overweight are troubled more or less with a sluggish, lazy intestinal tract. That is why it is so necessary that they include plenty of green, leafy vegetables, fruits, salads with mineral oil dressings, &c., in their diets each day. These foods are not only low in caloric value but furnish the necessary bulk and roughage.

Most of the remedies advertised for reducing are nothing more than purgatives or laxatives of one kind or another, containing for the most part a solution of salts which, if taken under a physician's advice, need not be harmful. It is in this same way, then, that diluted lemon juice may be said to be "reducing," in so far as it helps to keep the system clear and tones up the digestive tract. I hope this information will help you and that you will not hesitate to send along any questions or difficulties about which you may be anxious or curious.

MRS. DESSIE THOMAS.

CREAM CHEESE PIE.
(Honorable Mention.)

¼ pound cream cheese
2 eggs
½ small can evaporated milk
Juice ½ lemon
Sugar to taste

Grease a pie plate and sprinkle with toasted bread crumbs all over, so every spot is covered, then fill with following mixture:

Mix cream cheese with yolks of eggs add lemon juice; sugar to taste, and evaporated milk. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake short time in moderate oven.

MRS. J. L. O'CONNELL.
934 I street northwest.

CHEESE AND PINEAPPLE FILLING.
(Honorable Mention.)

½ cup cream cheese
½ cup chopped pecans
Butter (Land o' Lakes)
½ cup crushed pineapple
Brown bread (Schneider's Purina Whole Wheat)

Work the cream cheese with a fork until it is soft. Then add the chopped pecan nuts and shredded pineapple. Mix thoroughly. Meanwhile cut slices of bread very thin and butter half of them. Spread the remaining slices with the cream mixture and form sandwiches.

Note—This filling can be used nicely for open sandwiches also.

Mrs. Reich's Pie Recipe Wins Award

MRS. JAMES E. REICH.

Awarding of this week's Post $5 recipe prize presupposes that there are homes in Washington without a formula for lemon pie.

The prize was given to Mrs. James E. Reich, of 3801 Yuma street northwest. Her entrant was ordinary lemon pie, if lemon pie can be ordinary.

It is hoped that the recipe will increase the circulation, consumption and appreciation of a delicacy which should be classed as a staple.

To be eligible for the weekly prizes recipes which are submitted must include some product advertised on The Post Saturday Food Page.

The winning formula follows:

Crust.

¾ cup Flako Pie Crust (Sanitary Grocery Co.)
2 tablespoons water.

Mix, roll on floured surface and line pie plate. Pierce bottom and sides with fork. Bake in hot oven twelve minutes.

Or, for the homemade pie crust use:

¾ cup "Gold Medal Flour" (Sanitary Grocery Co.)
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking power

Sifted. Cut in four tablespoons shortening. Add two tablespoons cold water. Mix, roll on floured surface, line pie plate, pierce sides and bottom with fork and bake in hot oven about twelve minutes.

Filling.

1½ cups water
4 level tablespoons cornstarch.
2 eggs
Grated rind and juice of 1 lemon
1 cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt

Cook in double boiler. Boil sugar and water together until sugar is dissolved. Add cornstarch which has been moistened in half cup of of cold water. Cook for three minutes, then add beaten egg yolks, salt, lemon rind and juice. Cook until thick. Cool slightly, pour into baked pastry shell and cover with meringue made by beating the whites of the eggs with two tablespoons sugar until "dry." Put in cool oven for ten minutes to set and color meringue.

For a chocolate pie substitute three tablespoons dry cocoa, instead of using the lemon. Mix dry sugar and cocoa together and proceed as for lemon pie.

Victorian Cup Cakes.

2 eggs
2 tablespoons cocoa
¼ cup flour
¼ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon vanilla
4 tablespoons boiling water

Separate the eggs, and beat the yolks thoroughly. Add sugar gradually, and then add the cocoa and boiling water which have previously been mixed to a smooth paste. Whip into this mixture the sifted flour, salt and baking powder. Fold in the whites of eggs beaten stiff, and the vanilla.

Bake in gem of patty pans in a moderate oven. They may be frosted with white or chocolate icing, and decorated with chocolate shot.

Chiffonade Dressing.

Standard French Dressing
1 canned pimiento
2 tablespoons celery
1 teaspoon parsley
2 teaspoons onion
1 hard boiled egg

Mince ingredients finely and mix with Standard French Dressing. Serve with lettuce, endive or romaine.

Market Meanderings

By MILDRED REED BUNDY

Canned Foods Offer Wonderful Array of Food Things for Hurried Meal; Cold Increases Price of Meat; Herring Roe for Lent.

Piping hot beefsteak and onions, potatoes, hot biscuits, vegetable salad with Russian or French dressing, and a choice of several desserts comprise a menu, not from a restaurant's bill of fare, not from a cook book, not from any particular housewife's offering, nor yet from any he-man's suggestions—virile though the menu sounds—but inspired by the labels on canned goods in a large, inviting grocery store in Washington's downtown district. The Meanderer found there a most surprising array of meals in cans, needing scarcely any preparation except heating. Smart women—smart in appearance and smart in their choice of food—depend on such canned supplies to solve meal problems, according to those who sell these canned meals in the big store. And the old "can-opener-cook" reproach won't fit at all if such meals as suggested above can be produced from cans.

Old-fashioned lamb stew also may be extracted from cans and needs only to be heated to make a complete main dish for dinner. Or sauer kraut and sausage in glass containers urge themselves on the canned goods shopper hunting for dinner suggestions, if she be hunting in this certain downtown grocery store. Several good brands of mixed vegetables or mixed fruits make a salad choice simple. An especially good dressing that this grocer offers is a Russian dressing, made with pure olive oil.

Gingerbread ready for baking except for addition of the liquid is another of the surprises in the canned goods department. Enough to serve six persons may be made from the "canned gingerbread" which costs but 25 cents. Many housewives are already familiar with the biscuit dough preparations in cans, which makes hot biscuits in double-quick time. The two hot breads and the steak, the lamb stew or the kraut and sausage may all be quickly cooked in the same oven. The grocer offers canned new potatoes, several servings in a can, for 15 cents. Also canned corn on the cob.

If, indeed, many housewives prefer fresh foods, the canned meals provide a noble service for the double duty woman who must be home manager and business woman every day. One suspects, too, that more bridge, more shopping, a later afternoon tea or protracted golf game on a sunny afternoon are permissible because of the canners' whole-meal-in-a-can service.

This week's return of winter lashed in with its blasts and flurries a slight increase in meat prices in Washington, according to a dealer in meats who has operated a shop in a Seventh street market for many years. The increase probably will not be felt in a retail way until next week. A return of warm weather may see a break in the rise of meat prices, though it is possible a general uptrend in the market on meat is beginning. At any rate, the housewife who can buy now undoubtedly will find meats cheaper today than they are to be next week. Lamb cuts are scheduled to advance a few cents on the pound. A good leg of lamb, found in many markets for several weeks past at less than 20 cents, probably will retail at from 20 to 25 cents a pound beginning next week, the meat marketer told the Meanderer. Other meat prices will advance on approximately the same scale, the marketer prophesied. Some of the low prices still prevailing at this market include chuck roast of beef, 12 cents a pound; hamburger, 9 cents; round steak, 25 cents and porterhouse and sirloin steaks, 30 cents. Smoked hams undoubtedly will advance in price for the Easter season. Today, in this market, smoked hams are selling at 14 cents a pound.

A powdered food used in making ice cream in electric refrigerators is new in a certain downtown grocery. This new material is guaranteed to produce a smooth consistency in the home-frozen ice cream, something difficult to achieve with the usual ingredients. A package of the new powder, costing 25 cents, will improve 2¼ quarts of ice cream, both in texture and in food value. According to the powder's label, it contains "derivatives of dairy, fruit, cereal and vegetable products."

Homemade sauer kraut at 20 cents a quart and home-cooked hominy at 15 cents a quart are specials in one market stand, and are steady, rapid sellers. At the same stand one finds excellent imported Limberger cheese at 40 cents a pound.

Every Thursday fresh pound cake is sold for 30 cents a pound at a certain baker's stand in a market out Seventh street way. The same baker offers also a loaf of bread of satisfying, homemade taste for 7 cents.

Herring roe for 18 cents a can is an interesting Lenten suggestion in a big grocery on Fourteenth street. Directions on the can suggest combining the roe with eggs and forming the mixture into cakes for luncheon or breakfast.

Canned gooseberries are difficult to find, fruit dealers say, but one grocer whom the meanderer visited this week is showing them in generous quantity, as well as canned blueberries and red and black rasberries.

Cucumbers have taken one of the few decreases in price noticeable among vegetables this week. In one downtown market plump, fresh cucumbers of medium size were selling at two for 15 cents.

Figs from Turkey, packed in their natural state, with no sugar added, are delectable and reasonable at 35 cents a pound in one of Washington's downtown markets.

SMOKE WITHOUT FIRE.

DO you believe the old adage, "Where there's smoke, there's sure to be fire?"

I believed it until last week. Then I met a man who has made a success of questioning just such statements as that. He is Harden F. Taylor, former chief technologist of the United States Bureau of Fisheries.

Mr. Taylor, who is now head of a large fisheries company, decided some time ago that smoked fish could be greatly improved. Smoked fish was a pretty unreliable product.

Smoking is one of the oldest methods of preserving food—a method used long before the dawn of history. And we have developed a liking for the smoked flavor. Whatever was done to modernize smoking must not change the traditional flavor.

Mr. Taylor discovered, first of all, that the fish lost about a quarter of their weight in smoking because the heat of the fire was driving out the natural juices. That was why the surface of smoked fish was hard and bonelike. Then, too, some of the smaller fish had been heated to the point where they started to cook—and they had fallen apart and dropped into the fire.

But another important discovery was made. The smoke was not soot or a dry black powder—it was really a dark mist, the fog from a dark brown liquid. Now if this smoke could be made, without burning the wood and heating the fish, that would be an improvement. An electric burner, very much like the heating coil in your electric toaster, was tried—and that did the trick—it turned sawdust into smoke. There you have it, smoke without fire.

Harden F. Taylor made smoke without fire, removed whatever he didn't want from the smoke, prevented the fish from drying out, and, by keeping the fish cool and dry, had made it possible to do in one hour a job that had formerly taken twenty times as long.

And in doing all this, he had always kept the housewife's interest foremost in his mind. It would have been easy to go on doing the job the way it had always been done, but there's no stopping a scientist when he gets on the trail of a new idea.

Finnan haddies are, of course, the favorite smoked fish of them all. Then there's the smoked filet—it's popular because it's practically boneless. Without finnan haddie, no British breakfast table—or I should say, sideboard—would be complete. Should the lord of the manor fail to find finnan haddie in drawn butter under one of the silver covers, I'm afraid the British Empire might fall.

I've heard it said that "A good smoked finnan haddie, boiled in milk and smothered in butter, is one of the best things on earth."

Boneless smoked herring — sold either by the pound or in packages—make an excellent appetizer or filling for sandwiches.

And then there's kippered herring—the famous smoked fish of the British Isles. It usually makes its appearance side by side with a boiled potato—the juices of the herring add personality to the potato, the Britishers claim. And for a real smoked delicacy try smoked whitefish, sometime.

ASSASSINATION TOLD HOUSE BY SIROVICH

Praises Shaw and Nathan and Raps "Mountebanks" of Present Day.

(United Press.)

Representative William I. Sirovich, radiating good health from his slicked down hair to the soles of his highly polished black shoes, announced personally in the House yesterday his assassination by dramatic critics.

Hero of a melodrama of which he is author, producer, cast and, until yesterday, almost sole audience, Mr. Sirovich at last got his campaign against New York dramatic critics into the House itself after its tryout in his patents committee room.

"These critics," Mr. Sirovich said, "have assassinated your chairman."

There was some surprise, but he continued: "They have done it with their libelous, scurrilous attacks."

From there, the New York representative praised George Jean Nathan and George Bernard Shaw, two of the most vitriolic literati, as the ace critics of their age. He went back to Aristotle, tracing the history of good criticism, and then worked gradually up to present-day craftsmen, whom he described as "mountebanks, shysters, pretenders and quacks." Interspersing his derogatory remarks with classical allusions, he continued to accuse them of "terrific abusive panning" of plays.

Primed for Moment.

The legislative Daniel, who for weeks has been inviting the critical lions into his committee room den so he can denounce them face to face, was primed for his big moment yesterday when he obtained twenty valuable minutes during debate on the sales tax to tell of his troubles. As the time for his set speech neared, he mopped his forehead frequently with a large handkerchief, and crossed and uncrossed his legs.

"I say that there is not a man on the floor of this House who is not the equal of these dramatic critics in education, scholarship and intelligence," he said.

Wants Tax on Beer.

Members seemed pleased, and he went on to reach his peroration. With the aid of a question by an interruptor he was able to end on the high note of the ever popular beer question.

"What is your alternative for a sales tax on theater tickets?" asked Representative Martin Dies, of Texas.

"As a man who never has taken a drink, I say let's have a tax on beer," said Mr. Sirovich.

He was given two more minutes, one at a time, by the Democratic floor leader, who was apportioning debating time.

"We talk about the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby," said Mr. Sirovich. "What about the authors whose intellectual genius is stolen?"

6-Hour Rail Day Inquiry Advanced

Senate Accepts Resolution for I. C. C. Probe of Feasibility.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate yesterday agreed to the House resolution authorizing the interstate commerce commission to investigate the feasibility of a six-hour day for railway employes.

The resolution accepted by the Senate was a House substitute for an earlier Senate measure and was agreed to by the House January 27.

The interstate commerce committee recommended the House proposal be adopted; it directs the interstate commerce commission to look into the effect of the six-hour day upon operation, service and expense of the railways and each class of employes.

PALACE

"ARSENE LUPIN." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of the stage play by Maurice Le Blanc and Francis de Croisset, starring Lionel and John Barrymore and featuring Karen Morley, John Miljan and Tully Marshall. Directed by Jack Conway. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

There is about this cleverly wrought drama of a supercrook the fascination that always attaches to the spectacle of a fictional criminal's inspired besting of the law and its smug representatives from detective headquarters.

Combined with the more exciting aspects of the life of the Duke of Charmerace are a deftly turned love story and a delightful vein of sprightly humor that occasionally dallies about the fringes of the risque, but never quite oversteps the bounds of what this daring age looks upon as a reasonable substitute for propriety. Thus, when "Arsene Lupin" ceases momentarily—as it does now and again—to be the thrilling narrative of the professional activities of a suave and polished thief, it becomes no less engagingly a romantic comedy reciting his amorous adventures with the enticing blonde, commissioned to lure him into the police trap sent by Guerchard.

There is, perhaps, a little too much of Charmerace's uncanny elusiveness before he is finally brought to bay, but even so the repeated triumphs of his superior craftiness add rather than detract from the final decisive climax of the play.

The roles of Charmerace and Guerchard, the former the phantom-like Arsene Lupin, signing all of his daring robberies and perpetually taunting his pursuers, and the latter the master detective, are, of course, masterfully played by John and Lionel Barrymore, respectively. While here, as in "Peter Ibbetson" on the stage, there is little to choose between the flawless portrayals offered by these two celebrated representatives of a distinguished theatrical family, it seemed to me as the play progressed that Lionel plumbed a little more effectively into the depths of his character—and Guerchard is a character of some depth—than his younger brother did into that of the playboy plunderer. It is principally John Barrymore the comedian whom we encounter in this subject. His brief essay at the character role of the flower vendor is more a tribute to the art of makeup than to the art of acting.

Karen Morley, as Sonia, the paroled convict serving as Guerchard's decoy, who falls in love with her quarry, is incisive and deft in rather the most important assignment she has had of recent months. John Miljan, as the prefect of police, and Tully Marshall, the none too scrupulous Gourney-Martin, lead the supporting cast in which Henry Armetta and George Davis are amusingly conspicuous.

"Arsene Lupin" is handsomely mounted and directed with no lack of imagination and humor by Jack Conway.

If the "Impressions of 1932" stage revue is to suffer at all in the eyes of Washington audiences it will be because in its radio "impressions" it closely parallels another stage offering that has just closed a local week at another theater.

Freddy Bernard, is a spirited master of ceremonies who largely offsets the oppressive effect of some particularly stale jokes by some lusty singing. Among those he introduces, Walter "Dare" Wahl, the gymnastic behemoth, scores the most sensational personal success, largely through the extraordinary aid afforded him by Emmett Oldfield who deserves to share equally in the billing instead of being condemned to complete and profound anonymity. Paul Small, Rita Delano and Frankie Finn contribute song impressions of Kate Smith, Bing Crosby and others, and Benny Johnson of that other sepia dancer, Bill Robinson. The Chester Hale Girls introduce several typical routines.

Mr. Borjes' orchestra is playing a medley overture of "Melodies of the Emerald Isle" for St. Patrick's week and the bill is completed by a new issue of the Hearst Metrotone News and a Fitzpatrick travel talk on "London, the City of Tradition."

FOX

"AFTER TOMORROW." Fox picturization of the John Golden and Hugh Stange play, starring Charles Farrell and featuring Marian Nixon, Minna Gombell and William Collier, sr. Directed by Frank Borzage. Reviewed Friday night by Dorothea Lewis.

Too many tomorrows and too many tears would, but for stern opposition, have made this picture and its ailing plot, overlong, tedious and, mayhap, maudlin. However, banging up against the more than expert direction of Borzage, entertaining dialogue with a sense of humor that meets sentiment in its stride before it breaks into sentimentality, and absolutely A-1 acting by every member of the cast, these faults only succeed in keeping a human and interesting little picture from being better than it is.

There are all tomorrows and apparently no todays for Peter Piper and Sidney Taylor, who have nourished a wedding fund for three years with dimes and dollars and desperation only to have the wedding grow dimmer and dimmer in the distance.

Their parents have as much to do with the postponements as their poverty—for Peter's mother giggles, and weeps and nags, while Sidney's runs up bills which cut into Sidney's share of that wedding fund. There's an amorous boarder in the Taylor home, a runaway mother, an ill father and, too, too many other complications but there's Niagara Falls at the end.

From the first glimpse of the Empire State Building at the beginning, until the Falls at the end, Borzage's directorial skill is evident, particularly in knowing—almost always—just how far to go before it's too far.

We never thought we'd dust off that adjective "deft" for the boyish and always likeable Charlie Farrell, but this week we do, and with something akin to three cheers and a wide, woolly striped tiger, record a facile and disarming performance of real merit. His best work in a long spell and utterly unselfconscious.

Dainty Marian Nixon is an appealing little, spunky Sidney, and with Farrell makes an engaging team, if teams there must be, with more vigor and reality than the Farrell-Gaynor combination has yet shown.

William Collier, sr., is a delight as the lovable Willie, Sidney's dad. In the overdrawn character of Sidney's mother, outwardly very like the Estelle Taylor part in "Street Scene," Minna Gombell reveals her talent for things other than comedy. Mrs. Josephine Hull is little short of perfect in the annoying and amusing part of Mrs. Piper, and William Pawley and Ferdinand Munier in lesser roles uphold the high standard of acting of the entire cast.

On the stage the minstrel setting is colorful and attractive with the familiar Mr. Bones, his end men and the giant drums and horns of the finale backdrop. Bruce Jordon yodels and then amazes with a complete barnyard symphony and an airdale-bulldog-fox terrier squabble.

Esther Campbell whistles nicely and the Three Page Boys do well by their taps. Tyler Mason mastered the ceremonies, which are unexciting, though pleasant enough, and sings some songs to considerable applause.

A Magic Carpet travelogue to Paris' night life looks for all the world like our own cafes at the most crowded moments and does nothing favorable for the French city's glamour. An Al St. John comedy and newsreel complete the bill.

Mellon on Way Here After Rest in Georgia

Augusta, Ga., March 11 (A.P.).—Andrew W. Mellon, Ambassador to Great Britain, who has been taking a vacation here, left today for Washington. He said he had not set the date of his sailing for England.

The former Secretary of the Treasury was accompanied by his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. David Bruce.

RIALTO

"RACING YOUTH." Universal picturization of an original story by Earle Snell, featuring Frank Albertson, June Clyde, Louise Fazenda and Slim Summerville. Directed by Vin Moore. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

It is not only youth that is here racing pell mell through seven reels of automobiling, but some of the most spontaneous and hilarious comedy that has been screened for a long while. The picture is only partially correctly named; true, there is racing and youth, and everything else that the title implies, but there is more, much more, that only a visit to the Rialto will reveal.

It seems that one Amelia Cruikshank has inherited the Lion Automobile Factory, wherein are made the "world's finest racing cars." Miss Cruikshank and her secretary arrive and the secretary is mistaken for the heiress. That she may better learn the true status quo of the business, the new boss allows the mistake to stand—for the time being. Through the machinations of the works manager, who hopes to profit by the demise of the concern, the Lion entry in the road race is dismantled. However, the mechanical genius of the company, though fired, acquires the car, rebuilds it, and enters the race. Naturally, he wins the race and, still more naturally, a wife, the true Miss Cruikshank.

It is a toss-up just who is to come in first for primary mention, the four featured players being about on a par in their several roles. Frank Albertson as the principal titular character does a very satisfactory job of convincing every one of his own and particular value both as a husband and as an automotive engineer extraordinary, his display of egotism always remaining within the bounds of reason. As the heiress, June Clyde does a smooth and mildly assertive delineation. "Slim" Summerville is the mechanic, played in the manner of Roscoe Ates, with a show of stuttering that is surprising in its perfection.

Can you imagine Louise Fazenda bearing the monicker, Daisy Joy? Neither could I, but here she is—the staid old-maid secretary of Miss Clyde, who is called upon to act as the president of Lion Motors, pro tempore. One of the best things that Miss Fazenda has done is here, when she is called upon to address her "employes" and painfully discovers that the mayor, in introducing her, has stolen her stuff.

The supporting bill presents Andy Clyde and Dorothy Granger in "Heavens, My Wife," with the comedy situation largely brought about through a radio play; Oswald Rabbit in "Mechanical Man," an interesting, though feeble, attempt to burlesque "Frankenstein;" and a release of the Universal News, with Graham McNamee slightly behind time with references to the late lamented N'Gi.

Through popular demand, "Just Pals," Babe Ruth's dissertation of how to bat, is continued for another week.

METROPOLITAN

"THE BROKEN LULLABY." Paramount picturization of the play, "The Man I Killed," by Maurice Rostand, adapted to the screen by Reginald Barkeley, featuring Lionel Barrymore, Nancy Carroll and Phillips Holmes. Directed by Ernst Lubitsch. Reviewed (second week) by Don B. Reed.

General competence of the cast and expert direction here have produced a picture which will be outstanding in the year's output. "The Broken Lullaby" is heavy drama, but it is so splendidly handled that audiences will not leave with the depressed feeling which accompanies most features of the more serious type.

Lionel Barrymore makes further strides toward top place among the male stars of Hollywood with a flawless performance as the German father of a boy killed in the war. Phillips Holmes has a distressing, but nevertheless sympathetic role as the slayer of the German boy. Seeking forgiveness for his deed, he visits the home village of his victim. In the end he marries the sweetheart of the foe he killed, but before all this happens there is plenty of action, plenty of pathos and not a few hearty chuckles. Miss Carroll as the feminine lead does mighty well with a difficult role.

Mr. Lubtisch has done some artistic camera work in creating the proper atmosphere for his story, the actual shooting going to the credit of Victor Milner.

Auxiliary subjects include a swell comedy called "Subway Symphony," which is decidedly different; a Looney tune, bearing the title, "Big-Hearted Bosko," and an issue of the Paramount Sound News.

COLUMBIA

"ARROWSMITH." Samuel Goldwyn's picturization for United Artists of the novel by Sinclair Lewis, adapted to the screen by Sidney Howard, starring Ronald Colman and Helen Hayes. Directed by John Ford.

Adhering faithfully to the major movement of the Sinclair Lewis novel and enlisting the services of several players whose reputations are more closely identified with the traditional theater of flesh and blood than with the cinema, this thoughtful and artistically executed picturization of a famous work of fiction deserves to rank high among the season's most worthy screen offerings.

The story of the rise to eminence of the young medical student, Martin Arrowsmith, is one that does not hestitate to tinge its development with bitterness and its climax with tragedy in the limning of an impressive portrait of an ardent young man successively baffled, defiant, crushed and triumphant. The contrast of its moods spans the gulf between the lighthearted gayety of youth and the disillusionment and sorrow of maturity. From it all emerges a man with a vision of service that is crystal-clear.

In the role of the struggling young scientist, Ronald Colman offers a poised, articulate and convincing bit of portraiture, intelligent, believable and human. In the opposite role of his adoring wife, whose life is sacrificed to his future greatness, Helen Hayes contributes an infinitely appealing characterization. Superb character parts are visualized with commanding effect by Richard Bennett and A. E. Anson, as scientists of a single purpose, but opposite schools. Many others, including Myrna Loy and Alec B. Francis, add to the strength of a splendidly chosen cast.

The action ranges from the small towns of the Middle West, through New York's towering skyscrapers to the jungles of the West Indies, where the ravages of an epidemic of bubonic plague are realistically pictured.

The bill is augmented by abbreviated sound subjects, including a new issue of the Paramount Sound News.

Club Host Tonight To Editorial Staffs

"City Room Night" Will Be Held in National Press Building.

Tonight will be "city room night" at the National Press Club. Members of the editorial staffs of Washington and Baltimore newspapers, and their families, have been invited as guests for the evening. The club will hold open house from 6 o'clock on.

A feature of the program will be a skit depicting a city room of the Daily Scoop. There will be music by the George Washington University Band.

By request, the motion picture which was shown at the White House correspondents' dinner last week will be shown again tonight in the club. All featured talent in this picture is from the membership of the correspondents association.

Refrigerator Dealers Are Guests at Banquet

William E. O'Connor, president of Southern Wholesalers, Inc., Leonard Electric Refrigerator distributors, was host last night at a dinner held at the Lee House to 200 dealers and salesmen handling this product in the Washington territory.

Sales plans for the coming season were outlined by R. I. Petrie, sales manager of the Leonard Refrigerator Co., who stated that the new and improved line for this year had already met with public acceptance, being proved by the fact that January sales for this year were 34 per cent ahead of the same month last year.

Crittenton Home Fund Cut by Chest Shortage

A report that because the Community Chest failed to reach its quota the amount allotted the home would be reduced 7 per cent, or $680, featured yesterday's meeting of the board of managers of the Florence Crittenton Home, on Conduit road northwest. Members made plans to raise additional money through Crittenton circles and affiliated organizations.

Miss Jean Cole, superintendent of the home, reported 49 girls and 45 babies in the home. The hospital has been closed to visitors because of a prevalence of colds and grip.

COMMITTEE FAVORS GRANATA'S OUSTING

House Elections Group Holds Kunz Is Entitled to Illinois Seat.

(Associated Press.)

Holding there were evidences of "fraud or gross irregularity and mistakes" in the tabulation of votes that sent Peter C. Granata to Congress from the Eighth Illinois District, the majority members of a House elections committee yesterday formally recommended that he be unseated.

The Democratic members of the committee that considered the election contest against the Republican also proposed in a resolution it presented to the House that Stanley H. Kunz, Democrat, be recognized as the legal representative from that district.

A minority report may be submitted as late as midnight Monday by Republican committee members.

Turned on "Straight" Votes.

The majority report dwelt on the difference between the votes Kunz received in the original canvass and the ballots that were supposed to be "straight" Democratic, meaning cast for all the Democratic candidates. In eleven wards, it said, there were 1,611 "straight" Democratic votes, while Kunz got only 316.

"The fact that the contestant did not receive the straight ticket vote in many of the precincts is conclusive evidence of fraud or gross irregularity and mistakes," the report continued.

Votes Held Best Evidence.

"This could only be corrected by resort to the ballot boxes and a recount of the vote. When this was done and the straight-ticket vote given to the contestant which he had received he overcame the contestee's apparent majority of 1,711 votes and defeated the contestee by a majority of 1,288 votes.

"These ballots were the best evidence of the intention of the electors. They were mute witnesses, yet told their story and were unimpeachable; they could not be bribed or corrupted."

The recount, the majority asserted, was conducted legally.

FILM TIME TABLES

Feature pictures are presented on the following schedules at the theaters named:

FAMOUS SEER
THE MAN WHO KNOWS

This strange man sees the way and tells it all. Just what your life has been, just what it will be. Tells you when and whom you will marry, whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false. Tells as to changes, travels, loss or absent friends, divorce, wills, deeds; whether it is best to buy or sell. He tells the good and the bad. A visit will convince you of his wonderful power. Something tells you this is the man. You feel the impulse to call. Do not delay.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IN a season that has witnessed the return to the boards of so distinguished an actress as Maude Adams, has seen Ethel Barrymore renounce the experiments that led her far afield from her proper metier and has brought to public attention again a number of brilliant plays whose revivals have been among the notable events of the theater, it is a pleasure to record the reclamation of another of the stage's brightest luminaries from a self-imposed retirement that has endured for more than a decade.

It is my privilege to quote portions of a letter just received from Mr Hamilton Holt, president of Rollins College, at Winter Park, Fla., to-wit:

Dear Mr. Bell: Annie Russell will dedicate the Annie Russell Theater at Rollins College on the evening of March 29 by returning to the stage, after twelve years, to appear as the Queen in Robert Browning's poetic drama, "In a Balcony." She will be supported by Rollo Peters and Mary Hone. The play is being produced and directed by Miss Russell.

To those of us who admired Miss Russell's art in her prime as a comedienne, her return to the stage is a joyous anticipation. Particularly are we happy with the prospect that Miss Russell will take charge of the theater by producing and directing professional performances in accordance with the high standards she so consistently maintained as an artist.

The purpose of this letter is to invite you to attend Miss Russell's performance Tuesday night, March 29.

The Annie Russell Theater, as you probably know, was given to Rollins by Mrs. Edward W. Bok, of Philadelphia, in honor of her lifelong friend, Miss Russell. Mrs. Bok will attend the dedicatory performance. Yours very truly, (Signed) HAMILTON HOLT.

To those who cherish fragrant memories of Miss Russell's many fine achievements on the stage, this announcement of her return to the footlights can appeal only as a possible basis of hope that her appearance at Rollins will inspire at least a brief professional tour in some suitable new vehicle, or perhaps a revival of some one or more of her past successes.

It will be the part of good judgment again today to consult the Film Time Tables, published elsewhere on this page, before setting out for the downtown emporia of the conversational celluloids.

At both RKO-Keith's, where Renate Muller is to make her debut before American screen audiences in "The Office Girl," an English-made picture that has literally wowed London and the continental capitals, and at Loew's Palace, where Lionel and John Barrymore are attracting multitudes of enthusiasts by their joint appearance in the film version of "Arsene Lupin," five de luxe performances are to be given today. Doors at the Palace will open at 10:30 a. m.

And don't say I didn't tell you!

There are two exact parallels in the Loew revue, "Impressions of 1932," currently at the Palace, and Gus Edwards' "Radio Understudies," one of the hits of last week's bill at the Earle.

In the Loew unit, Rita Delano does precisely the imitation of Kate Smith singing "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain" that Marie Donia did in the Edwards act, and Frankie Finn similarly duplicates the impersonation of Bing Crosby by Frank Ribbey.

Speaking of the Earle, when George White brings his "Scandals" to the Washington Auditorium the week of March 20, a comparatively recent hit act at the Thirteenth street house will be prominent in the cast of principals, and Maxine Doyle, mistress of ceremonies, will probably think it is old home week, or something.

The Gale Quadruplets are important pastimers in the "Scandals" and lifelong friends of Miss Doyle's. Unless Mr La Falce was kidding me—and it has been done—when they played the Warner ace house, they are the only bona fide quadruplets appearing on the American stage.

Charles Kurtzman, in case you are interested, in addition to going into an advertising partnership on the West coast with Edgar Waite, formerly in charge of advertising and publicity at the Fox Theater in this city, has taken over the operation of the famous restaurant known as Tait's. Tait, the founder and original owner, you will recall, is now a unit manager for Fanchon & Marco.

And if you don't remember who Charlie Kurtzman is, he is the lad who was formerly personal representative for Harry Arthur, general manager of all Fox Theaters. Not that it matters.

Having glimpsed a few of the "still" photographs picturing scenes from George Bernard Shaw's "Too True to Be Good," opening Monday night at the National, the thought suggests itself that Beatrice Lillie may not be so far away from the musical comedy atmosphere as you might think in her first "straight" comedy part.

The costumes, to say the least, are as bizarre as some of the Turkish towel effects in which the author himself has been kodaked now and again at the Lido and elsewhere—except that Miss Lillie has no red whiskers!

And you should have seen the city room of this staid old family journal last evening!

The news department of The Post was turned into a movie studio, under the direction of Mr. McNamee, of Radio Pictures, and his associates from Pathe, and some very finely acted scenes were made for the special talking picture to be exhibited at their banquet Tuesday night to the exhibitors attending the Motion Picture Theater Owners of America convention at the Mayflower, beginning Monday.

Our Mr. Taylor, managing editor, I am given to believe, will be hailed as the new Clark Gable when his work is appraised by the movie experts. And Mr. Folliard, I am told, is another "Slim" Summerville!

Or maybe it was a couple of other fellows!

SATURDAY MARCH 12, 1932 SPORTS

ST. JOHN'S UPSET BY WAR FIVE IN A. A. U. TOURNEY

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

Biloxi, Miss., March 11.

MR. CLARK GRIFFITH, who will let you know on the slightest provocation that he has spent 42 years in baseball, was talking this evening on the subject of batting orders and he not only talked, but said a great deal that was logical and of interest.

I will turn over the rostrum to Mr. Griffith, boss man of the Nats: "The batting order is the simplest thing in the world to devise if you have the material at hand. It's when you haven't got the kind of hitters you need that the batting order requires a great deal of judgment. It wouldn't take me two minutes to name a batting order if I had my pick of the players of the league, but when you've got to select from the players you happen to have on your team, then you've got to stop and think.

"There's lots to consider, but baseball men know what they want. I'm not telling them anything new. You don't have to spend 42 years in baseball to realize who your batting order ought to tack up, but perhaps the fans would like to know some of the things we must take into consideration.

"Everybody knows, of course, that a lead-off man must be a good waiter and hard to pitch to. He must be a man who can get on base frequently. But there are other requirements. He's got to be fast, and he's got to be the kind of a batter who can hit the ball a hard whack, a hit that might go for extra bases.

"Forty-two years in baseball have taught me that the lead-off man comes to bat after the catcher and pitcher, usually the slowest men on the team. If they are on when he gets a hit, he's got to hit the ball hard enough to enable them to get around the bases. Sometimes it takes extra base hits to move pitchers and catchers around the bags. The lead-off man has got to be fast when he hits a ground ball or with slow men in front of him there is great chance of a double play.

"That's why I like left-handed hitters. They have a two-step lead on the infielder when they break away from home plate on the first-base side. That helps in offsetting the chance of double plays.

"The second man in your batting order has got to be much the same kind of a hitter as a man who can hit straight away or bunt. He's got to be adept at the hit-and-run, and his average must be high because that's the best spot for the play.

"There's a division of opinion on third and fourth positions. Some managers like their best hitters in the third spot and others in the 'clean-up' place. It all depends upon the material you've got on hand. If you have two great hitters, it solves the problem for you—like Ruth and Gehrig solve for the Yankees and Cochrane and Simmons solve it for the Athletics.

"I want my high-average man in third place. When you put the best hitter on the team there, the percentage is in your favor. You'd be surprised how much oftener during the season the third batter comes to bat than the fourth man. Sometimes it is as much as four or five times every week. That's how you take advantage of getting your best hitter up to the plate most often, by putting him in the third hole rather than the fourth.

"The Yankees use that system. Look over the records and you'll find that Babe Ruth comes to the plate 50 times more during the season than Lou Gehrig. Sometimes, when they win home games and don't go to bat in the ninth, Gehrig doesn't get that extra chance to hit that Ruth got. That's where the manager gets the percentage of having his high-average man in the third position.

"The choice between Ruth and Gehrig may be very slight, but it is in Ruth's favor. The A's have much the same situation with Cochrane and Simmons. Both are long-distance clouters and both have high averages every year. Connie Mack has reason to be satisfied with placing Simmons fourth, because Cochrane is such a high-average man that he will be on base to take advantage of Simmons' home runs, whereas Cochrane's homers aren't so frequent.

"It's hard to go wrong when you have sluggers in pairs like that."

Thank you, Mr. Griffith.

Two Foes Selected For Sharkey Mar. 18

Boston, March 11 (A.P.).—Eddie Malcolm, Minneapolis heavyweight, and Pedro Lopez, of New York, one of Champion Max Schmeling's sparring partners, today were selected to face Jack Sharkey in two two-round bouts at the Boston Garden on March 18.

The ten-round feature on that night will be provided by Jack McCarthy, Sharkey's light-heavyweight stablemate, and Charley Retzlaff, Duluth slugger.

Mickey Walker K. O.'s Jim Maloney in 2d

Salt Lake City, March 11 (A.P.).—Mickey Walker, former middle and welterweight champion, won a technical knockout over Jimmy Maloney, Boston heavyweight, in the second round of a ten-round bout here tonight.

Jackie Fields, welterweight champion, stopped Izzy Kline, Philadelphia welterweight, in the first round of the ten-round semiwindup.

Club Has 'Murderer's Row' With Four Hard Hitters.

Manush, West, Reynolds and Cronin Dependables.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

BILOXI, Miss., March 11.—A "murderers' row" will grace the batting order of the Washington Ball Club for the first time in history, it is becoming increasingly evident as the Nats prepare here for the 1932 pennant campaign which is exactly one month distant.

Never before has a Washington club boasted the hitting strength that now enables Manager Walter Johnson to send to the plate such concentrated power as Heinie Manush, Carl Reynolds, Joe Cronin and Sammy West, batting in order, and all potential wreckers of ball games.

Washington's pennant victories in 1924 and 1925 were founded upon steady pitching, brilliant fielding and clever base running, neither team of these two seasons carrying the dynamite in its bats that the 1932 edition can boast as a result of the addition of Carl Reynolds.

Reynolds two seasons ago was the batting sensation of the American League, compiling a .359 average. Heinie Manush once held the batting title with a .379 mark, Sammy West last year compiled a .333 average to become the Nats' leading batter and Joe Cronin's .306 of last year represented a pronounced slump from his .346 of 1930.

Cronin and Reynolds Sluggers.

Cronin and Reynolds are established home-run clouters, with Manush and West also able to hit the ball out of the lot. Each is the type of batter who specializes in breaking up ball games, thus providing the Nats with four such valuable performers to match the Athletics' trio of Cochrane, Simmons and Foxx, and the Yankees' terrible trinity comprised of Ruth, Gehrig and Chapman.

West's .333 average of last year was compiled despite a badly swollen left arm that considerably hampered his batting style and Johnson is confident that an even better season is in store for the center fielder, who is strictly a pull hitter and needs the strength of both arms. West is a long-distance clouter and bombards the right field fence on occasions.

Of the quartet, Manush, one of the giants of baseball, gets the least distance on his drives, but he is accounted one of the most scientific batters in the game and thus earns the position of second place in the batting order where his bunting is most valuable. Manush can rattle the fences, too, if he is of the mind, but he specializes in the more certain singles and doubles that have given him a remarkable lifetime average.

Cronin has established himself as one of the most feared batters in the league and his home run proclivities are well known. Last year despite his slump, his record for extra bases was remarkably high and he doubtless will retain the "clean up" position in the battling order.

Reynolds Has Power In Bat.

The acquisition of Reynolds brings to the Nats probably the hardest hitting right-handed outfielder in the league with the exception of Al Simmons. He was renowned for his hitting with men on bases during his four-year term with the White Sox and his extra base hits will be welcome to the Nats. His presence, alongside of Cronin, gives the team two batters who will be shooting for the left field bleachers in every game with high chances for success.

Manager Johnson routed his forces out of the hotel lobby into the cold of this morning after an hour's delay in the hope that the thermometer might rise. It was the third successive day of cold weather, but the perspiration was flowing at the end of the two-hour workout.

Batting practice was reestablished on the program after a two-day lapse with Sammy West and Carl Reynolds sharing the day's hitting honors. Al Crowder was on the hill for 20 minutes and gave the hitters an assortment that curbed their style. Crowder gives indications of being in rare form.

Tomorrow's practice will be the last preceding the opening exhibition game on Sunday against the Orioles. Manager Johnson is holding to his program of pitching three rookies, Lynn Griffith, Bob Freiderich and Frank Ragland, three innings each, but virtually every member of the infield and outfield is likely to see action in the game.

The players performed for the Movietone again today with Altrock and Schacht stealing the show with a pinochle game in which Nick was greatly embarrassed when he was discovered dealing off the bottom of the deck.

The rain this afternoon divided the squad into movie goers and pinochle players, but abated early enough to assure practice tomorrow.

2d Degree Murder Charged Morris' Slayer

Brewton, Ala., March 11 (A.P.).—Joe White, filling station operator, held as the slayer of Ed Morris, Boston Red Sox pitcher, today was indicted on a charge of second-degree murder by the Escambia County grand jury.

Morris was fatally stabbed during an altercation with White while attending a fish fry the night of March 4. He died three days later in a hospital at Century, Fla.

White's trial was set for March 21. Conviction on a second-degree murder charge in Alabama carries a minimum penalty of ten years' imprisonment.

Kenwood Club May Stage P. G. A. Title Tourney Here

Pro Golf Body May Consider Assignment if Course Is Rated O. K.; Bicentennial Financial Aid to Be Asked.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

THE possibility that the annual championship of the National Professional Golfers' Association may be held in this city next September and on the course of the Kenwood Club was outlined yesterday in a letter received by the club officials from Robert S. Harlow, the tournament manager of the association. This championship is second only to the national open championship held under the auspices of the United States Golf Association.

When the Kenwood Club decided some time ago to repeat the National Capital open tournament staged successfully last year, a letter was written to Harlow asking for a repetition of the assistance so effectively given by him to the Kenwood event. His response, received yesterday, stated that he would be very much pleased to assist in the promotion of a similar tournament this year in connection with the Bicentennial activities.

Kenwood May Get Event If Course Is O. K.

Harlow, however, went further. He described in some detail the annual championship of the P. G. A., held at Providence, R. I., last year and emphasized its importance as a golfing competition. "I think," he added, "that for a national championship of this caliber, you will be able to obtain a great deal of support in Washington, and in the event that our committee considers that your course is in sufficiently good shape to hold this championship, we will be able to get together."

Whether the Kenwood organization would undertake an event of the magnitude of the P. G. A. national tournament remains a question yet to be decided. In the first place, considerable expense is involved. The national association asks a guarantee of $12,000 and 50 per cent of the receipts, in addition to which the local club must bear all the costs of operation. The Professional Golfers Association, on the other hand, pays the traveling expenses of the hundred contestants and distributes $7,300 in prizes. The gate receipts at Providence amounted to more than $23,000.

Houghton to Confer With P. G. A. Official.

The officials of the Kenwood Club naturally feel complimented by the suggested use of their course, and will designate A. L. Houghton, the club professional, to confer with Harlow in Pinehurst during the latter part of this month. They will also endeavor to interest the sports director of the Bicentennial Commission in affording financial aid toward bringing a great national golf championship to Washington this year. If the event should be held, it will take the place of the proposed National Capital open already scheduled

BATTALINO GIVES RAN BEATING

16,000 See Former Champ in Impressive Victory.

NEW YORK, March 11 (A.P.).—Christopher (Bat) Battalino, of Hartford, Conn., recent ruler of the featherweights, celebrated his debut as a welterweight tonight by spotting Eddie Ran, of Poland, eight pounds and then giving the Warsaw wasp a brutal beating before a crowd of 16,000 persons in Madison Square Garden. Had the bout gone another two rounds, Bat probably would have scored a knockout.

The decision of the two judges and Referee Johnny McAvoy was unanimous. The Associated Press score sheet credited Battalino with a clear advantage in seven rounds, with Ran taking two and one even. For the last two rounds, Ran, who substituted against Battalino on three days' notice when Billy Petrolle came down with a stiff neck, was staggering around using every bit of his ring knowledge to avert a knockout.

Battalino Repeatedly Staggers Ran.

Battalino never succeeded in putting Ran down, but he repeatedly staggered him with crushing rights to the jaw and had his heavier rival bleeding steadily from a deep cut over the right eye after the fifth round. Ran, a 7 to 5 favorite when they entered the ring, never once succeeded in hanging his poisonous right on Battalino's whiskers, so carefully did the Hartford battler stay covered up.

For the first four rounds, it was a tame affair what with Bat staying in his shell and Ran making ineffectual efforts to swipe him with a haymaker. But early in the fifth, Bat suddenly opened up and caught Ran with a wild right that sent the Pole reeling and then and there turned the tide of battle. From there on it was all Battalino.

Finland to Investigate Nurmi on Pro Charges

Paris, March 11 (A.P.).—The Finland National Federation has been ordered by J. Sigfied Edstrom, president of the International Athletic Federation, to make a new inquiry into the charges of professionalism against Paavo Nurmi, great distance runner.

It was ordered that the inquiry be completed before the Olympic games are held this summer.

Original inquiries into Nurmi's status brought the reply that he was considered to be a government employe and not to be guilty of professionalism. New evidence, however, has caused this second investigation.

Yankee Owner Off To Sign Babe Ruth

One Year at $70,000 to Be Offered, Says Col. Ruppert.

New York, March 11 (A.P.).—The cast for baseball's greatest indoor drama, "The Signing of Babe Ruth," is being assembled.

Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, and George Weiss, foreman of the club's new farm system, left for St. Petersburg, Fla., tonight.

Reaching the training camp Sunday morning, the colonel expects to go into conference with Ruth immediately and sign the big fellow to a one-year contract for $70,000, the club's original terms.

"That's right; absolutely right," he assured the Associated Press today. "He'll sign for $70,000 for one year."

"But, colonel," he was asked, "are you prepared to say that's your final offer? Isn't it possible you'll go higher if the Babe insists?"

"Seventy thousand dollars for one year," replied the colonel, distinctly. "That's right, absolutely right."

Ruth has declared himself for a two-year contract at $70,000 or possibly a one-year contract at $75,000. His old contract, which expired last fall, was for $80,000 a year for two years.

TENNIS ACES OPEN PLAY FOR TITLE

Boussus, Frenchman, Rated 'Dark Horse' of Tourney.

NEW YORK, March 11 (A.P.).—The word has gone out to watch young Christian Boussus, the left-handed Frenchman, in the national indoor tennis tournament starting tomorrow in the vast expanse of the Seventh Regiment Armory.

Boussus is not the defending champion. That distinction is held by his talented countryman, Jean Borotra. Neither is he a logical favorite to win the title. But, just the same, the southpaw's showing tomorrow and through next week is of the utmost importance to American tennis.

Boussus is France's new "heavyweight" hope, the star who will team with Henri Cochet this summer in defense of the Davis Cup. He was elevated to that position by Borotra's recent decision to resign from the singles assignment on the French team. His success in the present tournament should give a fair idea of what may be expected of him in the challenge round at Paris.

Southpaw Dangerous Player.

In a previous visit to this side, Boussus has been forced to play second fiddle to Borotra. He got no farther than the quarter-final of last year's national indoor, which Borotra won in a five-set final with Berkeley Bell. But those who have seen the southpaw in practice the last week declare he is a vastly improved player.

Frank Shields, one of America's brightest hopes, regards Boussus as the man he and George Lott and Sidney Wood and Bell and the others must beat to win the indoor crown. Shields sides with the experts who believe Borotra, at 34, has slowed and doesn't have the pep and ambition necessary to win his fifth American championship.

The task of weeding out the big field of 80 entrants starts before noon tomorrow and is expected to continue well into the evening. Practically all first and second round matches must be completed in order to bring the singles down to a focus early next week and make way for the doubles.

CAMPBELL AT HOME.

Southampton, England, March 11 (A.P.).—Sir Malcolm Campbell, who set a new automobile speed record in Florida recently, came back today to a civic welcome here.

"It was a lucky break," he said, speaking of his success, "but I hope to do still better."

1932 Macks Strong in Reserves

Champions Are Better Fortified Than During Last Season.

Club Retains Punch and Pitching; Stars Again Ready.

Note—This is another of a series of first-hand Associated Press stories on major league club prospects.

By ALAN GOULD.

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 11 (A. P.).—Reserve strength clinched the Athletics' third straight pennant in 1931. The "shock troops" are ready again, if needed, to help the House of Mack make it four in a row, for a new American League record.

After scrutinizing the A's in action for the better part of a week, it is this correspondent's conviction the club is in better condition than a year ago and even better equipped with secondary power. It manifests no signs whatever of the disintegration so eagerly hoped for by the rest of the league and anticipated by a full battalion of experts, following the club's downfall in the last world series.

In short, the "ayes" still have it. The infield, which sagged a year ago, has been definitely plugged at short by Dib Williams. Now, for utility purposes Connie Mack has one of the spring's sensations in Oscar Roettger, hard hitting understudy to Jimmie Foxx at first. With Roettger playing great ball, Mack can use either Foxx or Dykes at third. Max Bishop remains a fixture at second.

Macks Retain Punch.

The "big punch" is still there, provided by Mickey Cochrane, Al Simmons and Foxx, and so far there is no reason for suspecting the "big three" of the pitching staff—Grove, Earnshaw and Walberg—will fail to continue their remarkable mastery.

"If these old reliables come through for me the way they did last year, we will have a wonderful chance to win again," admits the conservative Mr Mack.

This pitching trio accounted for 72 victories in 1931, the peak of their performance. They won 62 games in 1929 and 63 in 1930. Over a three years' stretch Grove, Walberg and Earnshaw have therefore contributed 197 victories to the big winning march of the Athletics. This is one of the most astonishing pitching records of all time. It can hardly be any better.

Even if this combination cracks somewhere along the line, Mack is not entirely destitute of reinforcements. He has Roy (Speed) Mahaffey, who won fifteen games last year. He has a great right-handed prospect in Lew Krausse, 19 years old, and another star recruit in Joe Bowman, side-arm flinger from Portland. No one, rookie or veteran, has looked better this spring than 34-year-old Ed Rommel. Mack considered himself well enough fortified to let Waite Hoyt depart.

Krausse Seen as Coming Star.

Bowman, Roettger and Ed Coleman, slugging outfielder from Portland, are the outstanding additions. Krausse had a sufficient trial late last season to convince Mack he is a coming star. Edward Majeske, from Harrisburg, will stick as third string backstop, but when this department is discussed there is only one answer—Gordon Stanley (Mickey) Cochrane.

Cochrane was in ill health at the close of the 1931 season, but he seems again in first-rate condition, barring a sprained left wrist which won't trouble him long.

Foxx and George Haas, who broke a wrist in 1931, also look to be "in the pink." If it is true that Bald Bing Miller is a trifle aged for another full season in right field, it is also a fact that either Roger Cramer or Ed Coleman will be quite willing and able to step in and keep up the pace.

Voigt Reaches Finals In Bermuda Tourney

Hamilton, Bermuda, March 11 (A.P.).—George Voigt, of New York, and Nicol Thompson, jr., of Toronto, Ontario, won their semifinal round matches in the Bermuda amateur golf championship today. They will play 36 holes for the title tomorrow.

Voigt eliminated Clive Alvord, of Greenwich, Conn., 6 and 5, while Thompson surprised with a 3 and 2 victory over Leonard Martin.

Grobmeier Among Matmen In Strand Show Tonight

Scissors Star Will Tackle Middekauf; Wilson Meets Snyder in Cofeature; Steinborn to See Action.

THE third wrestling show this week will be held tonight at the Strand Theater when Matchmaker Joe Turner unleashes a group of bargain rate matmen at bargain prices, ranging from 50 cents to $2. The show has a double feature. Fred Grobmeier, an intense local favorite, meets Bill Middlekauf in one-half of feature, while the rest is taken up by Doc Wilson and Henry Snyder.

Earl McCready, one of the best of the Curley wrestlers, appears in a preliminary spot, meeting George McLeod, a recent toughie imported from the Bowsers. In other bouts the veteran strong man, Milo Steinborn, who has been inactive of late, returns against Frank Spear, former Florida gridder, while Nick Nestor, veteran fall guy of the circuit, meets Steve Kasha.

McCready is young, weighs 220, and is what is known as a wrestler's wrestler. While a bunch of the boys were summering at Ocean City last year, including Rudy Dusek, Ray Steele and a couple of others, McCready threw Dusek and Steele in succession, in informal tussles on the beach. Ed White, manager of Jim Londos and a power in Eastern wrestling, gives out alternate statements each week, now picking Fred Grobmeier as the "coming champ" and now McCready.

Tonight's show marks a new high for rassling in the District. What was once an extra-added attraction at burlesque houses has developed into the leading winter sport. Including next Monday night's show at Bolling Field, it will make four matches in eight days for the good burghers to consume.

Leading A. A. U. Ring Stars Clash Tonight at Coliseum

TEDDY SHARIGAN,
New York State bantam champion, who meets Leon Luckman, Baltimore Olympic prospect, at Ritchie Coliseum tonight.

Pyne, C. U., Afforded Olympic Chance; Ten Matches.

DANNY PYNE, clever Catholic University boxer, will be "sitting pretty" as an Olympic aspirant if he can come out winner in his fight with Ray Jefferis, of Philadelphia, in the semifinal of the Eastern A. A. U. championship tourney to be held in Ritchie Coliseum at College Park tonight. Action in the ten-bout program will start at 8 o'clock.

Pyne, who attended Gonzaga School before going to the Brookland institution, has made a fine record as a light-heavyweight in the collegiate ranks, being unbeaten over a stretch of two seasons, in which he has met many high-class opponents. However, there is no doubt but that Pyne will be facing his toughest assignment when he enters the ring tonight against Jefferis.

Here is what a Philadelphia boxing expert has to say about Pyne's foeman:

"Ray Jefferis, 19-year-old West Philadelphia High School senior, is

BLAZING THE BASEBALL TRAIL

Clearwater, Fla., March 11 (A.P.).—Max Carey, manager of the Brooklyn Baseball Club, said today he had no word from Outfielder Babe Herman, the lone holdout of the Dodgers.

Herman's time was up today, but Carey said he was not worried by his failure to report.

Should Herman decide to hold out for $19,000, his salary last season, rather than accept the $15,000 offered him this year, Carey said he can do nothing about it.

"The team will not suffer as much as supposed, even if Herman should decide not to play at all this year, for we still have Ike Boone to take his place.

"Boone has always hit well over .300 in both major and minor leagues. He is not as fast as Herman, but he is a good player.

"I also have Al Cohen and Murray Howell, both stars in the making, as well as the veteran, Johnny Frederick, ready for action.

"The next move is certainly up to Herman."

At the end of this morning's workout Manager Max Carey announced the line-up of the team that will start against the Cincinnati Reds at Tampa on Sunday as follows: Finn, second base; O'Doul, left field; Boone, right field; Wilson, center field; Howell, first base; Reis, third base; Slade, shortstop; Lopez, catcher; Vance, Moore and Jones, pitchers.

Carey's naming of Reis, a recruit, to play third in place of the veteran, Wally Gilbert, strengthened the belief that he is soon to trade Gilbert to the Reds.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 11 (A. P.).—President Emil Fuchs of the Boston Braves admitted today he was having trouble with holdouts. While watching his team polish off the rough spots in preparation for the opening of their exhibition series tomorrow, Fuchs said Wally Berger, Bruce Cunningham and Wee Willie Sherdel were still outside the fold.

Savannah, Ga., March 11 (A.P.).—Syver Slaalien, rookie right-hander from Butterfield, Minn., took the Red Sox regulars down a peg today, turning them back in order for four innings except for one mighty clout by Van Camp. The yanigans beat the regulars, 4 to 3, in the seven-inning contest.

Van Camp's smash was the longest of the day, hitting the left field stand for two bases. Rhyne connected for a pair of sizzling doubles.

New Orleans, March 11 (A.P.).—Cold weather forced a cancellation of the Cleveland Indians-Toledo Mud Hens exhibition game here today at the training camp, the third cancellation of four games scheduled so far.

The Indians will play the New Orleans Pelicans tomorrow if the weather permits.

Tampa, Fla., March 11 (A.P.).—Winter blasts and trade winds continued to hover over the Cincinnati Reds' camp today.

Manager Dan Howley, who has termed his players "100 per cent improved over 1931," sent them through a two-hour workout despite the cold.

Trade talk involved two of the Reds' hardest hitters, Joe Stripp and Tony Cuccinello, holdout infielders, and one of Brooklyn's slugging outfielders and a catcher.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 11 (A.P.). Cold weather caused postponement of the Philadelphia Nationals' game with St. Louis today, but the Phils made up for it with an intramural tilt which the rookies captured, 1 to 0.

Reg Grabowski and Phil Collins, doing mound duty for the B Team, held the regulars to three hits, all of which were made off Collins. Bob Adams and Homer Dudley, young right-handers, did the twirling for the A outfit, Dudley allowing five hits. Adams walked two batters.

Leads All the Way in Thriller; Bugg Is Hero.

Griffs, Highlanders, Eastern Reserves Other Victors.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

IN a startling upset, confidently delivered by the upsetters, the St. John's Victors 145-pound team was swept out of The Post District A. A. U. tournament last night by a hot-handed bunch of unsung basket ball players representing the Adjutant General's office of the War Department.

The major devastating force was one Cecil Bugg (spell that with two g's, bud), who had he been of the malaria carrying species could not have wrought more ruin among the St. John's Victors. Bugg gave a thrilling demonstration of how to shoot baskets from any possible angle, an exhibition that kept a large crowd intact until the final second of the game, whereas it is a tried and trusted A. A. U. tradition to walk out on the last game as though it were an acrobat act.

Consumers Prove Selves Threats.

The game stood out wherein good basket ball abounded. The Griffith Consumers gave notice that although they lost in the final round of the Community Center League to another A. A. U. team, the Delaware and Hudson Five, they must still be considered as one of the two or three outstanding clubs in the unlimited section. Last night they trounced the Naval Reserves, 41 to 21.

The Eastern Reserves had trouble in putting out the Athliso A. C. 130-pound team, 39-27, and the other game played resulted in a victory for the Highlanders, a junior girls club, over the Bethesda-Chevy Chase Girls, 29-22.

The War Department team never was behind in creating the downfall of the favored Victors. Surprisingly enough, it showed a much keener perception of team play than the Saints, although it did not form its team until the middle of January. St. John's played disappointingly, refusing to work the ball in close to the baskets, and failing on the majority of the long and hazardous shots attempted. The Saints were hampered by a natural lack of posture, and the total absence of a center.

Mike Scanlon, the only member of the team who played with the prep school champion St. John's team, gave a worthwhile exhibition of basket ball, but the majority of his teammates were too busy shooting to notice that he was frequently uncovered and rarin' to receive a pass.

St. John's overstepped themselves in a vain effort to stop the flow of baskets from the inspired hands of Bugg. Althens and Ertel, and consequently drew many fouls. The win-

ERNIE DUSEK BANNED.

Philadelphia, March 11 (A.P.).—The State Athletic Commission today suspended four boxers and two wrestlers for failure to honor contracts and other infractions of the rules. On this suspended list is Ernie Dusek, wrestler, of Omaha, Nebr.

MY PURCHASE WINS BLANKET FINISH AT TROPICAL PARK

Montgomery Gives Victor Fine Ride

Jambalaya Is Second Over Prince Fox by a Nose.

Don Romiro, Odds-on Choice, Is Victim of Poor Ride.

TROPICAL PARK, Fla., March 11 (A.P.).—Mrs. M. Colford's useful sprinter, My Purchase, a close second in his last two attempts at Hialeah, made the grade here today under a perfect ride by Apprentice Bobby Montgomery, capturing the feature Del Prado Claiming Purse in a blanket finish. Jambalaya was beaten a half length for the purse and only saved the place by a nose from Prince Fox. The winner paid $8.20 for $2 and covered the 5½ furlongs in 1:06 1-5.

Don Romiro was an odds-on favorite, but was a victim of bad judgment by Hanks Mills. Breaking the gelding last, Mills rushed his mount right up to take the lead. The choice had to race head and head with Anthony Wayne and as a result, they both stopped approaching the stretch.

My Purchase, Always Close Up, Takes Lead.

My Purchase, always near by, moved into command, while Jambalaya and Prince Fox provided keen contention. In the drive to the wire, My Purchase stuck tenaciously to his task under extreme pressure. Prince Fox barely missed annexing secondary honors in the tight finish.

Mills atoned for his poor performance astride Don Romiro when he won the sixth event with the $11 for $2 shot Lapidary in a nose finish, thus earning another double, for he scored on Orkin in the third. Home Work was second largely because Mills outrode Montgomery at the end. Afridi was third, six lengths behind. Lapidary and Home Work had the race between them practically all the way, racing closely aligned to the judges. Afridi wore down Bo Ballot in the last sixteenth for show honors. Single Kay, the choice, was steered into several pockets and wound up sixth.

Third Straight Victory for Sun Worship.

Havana, March 11 (A.P.).—Sun Worship, a 6-year-old son of Sun Briar, kept his winter record clean when he won third successive race at Oriental Park today.

Over a heavy track, the chestnut gelding carried C. Troutt's silks to victory in the six-furlong feature. He was clocked in the slow time of 1:17 3-5, but defeated George Collins' Thistle Telee, a 3-year-old filly, by two lengths. C. A. Marone's Donday was third.

With Jockey Roderick in the saddle, the winner was made the favorite, paying 2 to 1.

New Orleans Feature to Song Hit.

New Orleans, March 11 (A.P.).—Song Hit, which campaigned successfully over the Florida turf before moving to New Orleans, won the Pearl River Purse over 6 furlongs at the Fair Grounds today.

The three-year-old son of Dress Parade, from J. Madonia's Stable, ran the distance in 1:13 1-5 to beat Joseph Leiter's Princess Camelia by a length. Robert A. Fairbairn's Sarietta was third.

With the Leiter entry, which also included Prince Hotspur, the favorite, Song Hit, returned his backers $7.80 for $2.

Navy-American Fives Play Again Next Year

American University and the Naval Academy will continue relations in basket ball next year, it was learned yesterday. The Eagles and Tars are scheduled to meet on the Naval Academy court next January 11. American, which enjoyed the most successful season in its history this winter, counted Navy among its victims by a score of 22-20. It was the first victory ever registered by American over the Annapolis institution.

MESMER FACES OPERATION.

Freddy Mesmer, Georgetown University basket ball coach, will today undergo an operation for the removal of his appendix in Georgetown Hospital. He has been ailing for several weeks.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GOLDEN PRINCESS, $18.10, $7.20, $5.40; TOY TOWN, $4.50, 13.40; LAURA CLAY, $3.50.

GOLDEN PRINCESS raced like a fair filly, moved up in resolute fashion rounding the far turn and easily disposing of opposition, drew away without effort last furlong. TOY TOWN wore down the tiring LAURA CLAY and outgamed her in final drive. Latter broke rapidly and drew away first furlong, but tired when put to a drive. DANGER ZONE reared while at the barrier and unseated her rider. JESTING broke very slow.

SECOND RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 3:10. Off at 3:11½. Winner, Mrs. W. E. Martin's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BLACK WATCH, $5.80, $3.40, $3.60; DIODORO, $14.00, $8.70; DUNNELLEN, $6.70.

BLACK WATCH went to the front with a rush and was never bothered. DIODORO moved up rounding the far turn and easily disposed of the others. DUNNELLEN was stopping and driving to the limit to stall off NARDO. TUSKEGEE kept dropping out of it. He showed no speed at any stages and his effort was far below his true form.

THIRD RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:38½. Off at 3:40. Winner, Miss L. Hall's br. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ORKIN, $5.90, $3.00, $2.30; STRETCHER, $7.70, $6.00; BIG BO, $4.50.

ORKIN, outrun first quarter, worked his way up rounding the far turn, came through in between TIGER PRINCE and STRETCHER at top of home stretch and responded gamely to a drive. STRETCHER bore out some entering home stretch, but came again when straightened out. BIG BO closed a big gap and finished fast out in middle of the track. JILLION moved up on the inside rounding the far turn. He was closing stoutly when he was blocked just before making turn for home.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:11. Off at 4:12. Winner, Mrs. M. Colford's ch. c. (3), by Purchase—Whim. Value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23, 0:47, 1:06 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MY PURCHASE, $8.20, $3.80, $3.60; JAMBALAYA, $5.00, $4.30; PRINCE FOX, $7.30.

MY PURCHASE moved up on the outside of leaders rounding the far turn and, responding with a game effort, assumed command at top of home stretch, but had to be hard ridden at end to stall off JAMBALAYA and PRINCE FOX. JAMBALAYA hung after making a determined effort at top of home stretch. PRINCE FOX closed in resolute fashion. He would have been second in another stride. ANTHONY WAYNE showed lot of early speed, but tired. DON ROMIRO, fractious at the post, broke slow.

FIFTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start poor. Won ridden out; place, easily. Went to post at 4:38. Off at 4:39. Winner, M. Lowenstein's b. g. (4), by Dodge—Pompano Girl. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:49, 1:15 3-5, 1:27 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ENRO, $15.60, $6.50, $5.00; OBSERVATION, $64.10, $42.50; WAVE TOP, $7.80.

ENRO, outrun from the break, gradually improved his position rounding the far turn, responded full of courage to a drive and drew away last sixteenth. OBSERVATION closed in big gap after working his way up on the outside. He finished on the outside half of track. WAVE TOP easily disposed of the tiring MISS IDA in stretch run. JIMMIE L. and MISS IDA raced each other into submission making the pace. CELTIC PRINCE broke very slowly.

SIXTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $800; claiming. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 5:08. Off at 5:08. Winner, Mrs. R. Sullivan's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LAPIDARY, $11.00, $4.20, $3.20; HOME WORK, $4.10, $2.80; AFRIDI, $5.20.

LAPIDARY moved up on the outside rounding the first turn and, after taking the lead, was rated in front under slight restraint, stalled off couple of challenges from HOME WORK and won easily. Latter took the lead in the last stride. HOME WORK worked his way up on inside. He hung after taking the lead. AFRIDI wore down the tiring BO BALLOT. Latter broke slowly.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:31½. Off at 5:34. Winner, Mrs. H. M. Fairbanks' b. f. ULTRAMARINE raced close to pace, assumed command with ease when called upon after five furlongs and, continuing smoothly, was not extended. WINNIE C. was outrun early, made up ground fast in last quarter of mile and closed stoutly. HARUM SCARUM showed good speed but tired in final furlong. SANCROFT dropped out of contention after start, was outrun, but closed some ground in stretch. BLANKET BAY had early speed. MONTGOMERY MAID ran out at first turn.

—Tropical Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

TROPICAL PARK, Miami, Fla., March 11.—The Gables Racing Association has honored the memory of John McEntee Bowman, by naming the feature on a well-balanced program after the prominent sportsman, who died here recently. The John McEntee Bowman Memorial Handicap, fourth event, has attracted a well representative field in the main attraction. With a select group of six milers scheduled to perform, a spirited and thrilling battle is anticipated.

The remainder of the card, with the exception of the fifth event, a claiming handicap, has been arranged for the cheaper grade of platers. In this secondary feature, seven speedsters have been named to contest the purse over the 7 furlongs distance.

JAMES RIVER, consistent St. James gelding from the stable of Mrs. A. Carfano, which scored impressively in recent efforts, is selected to annex the honors in the mile of the Memorial Handicap. BAY ANGON showed a dull effort last outing but is capable of better performance and figures to offer stern opposition. CHATFORD raced JAMES RIVER to a nose in their last meeting. With an additional three pounds to carry, CHATFORD should gain a share of the purse.

FIRST RACE—DONNY JOHNNY is favored over his rivals. LAWYER raced with better company than he meets here and should prove a dangerous contender. PASS IN REVIEW, on his recent splendid effort, must be accorded a chance for the minor award.

SECOND RACE—MORDEN, fast-stepping daughter of Morvich, scored easily over a better field last start and appears well placed. PRINCETON is favored for the place, with GAN LEE the show possibility.

THIRD RACE—MEANY and NEWS REEL the latter a recent arrival from Havana, should stage a bitter battle for the honors. SWAGGER STICK holds an edge over the others for the show end.

FIFTH RACE—GENERAL A. is favored over SOUTHCO. The latter, however, under the light impost of 90 pounds, may prove a formidable rival. FERVID and POLYGAMOUS are closely rated for the minor award.

SIXTH RACE—CRYSTAL DOMINO displayed plenty of speed in his season's debut the other day, and off that effort will be hard to beat. MARABOU aissed gamely in his last and is the one to fear. HAZEL GUMBERTS is meeting her own class and also rates a chance on her best form.

SEVENTH RACE—WAR SAINT, a consistent router from the B. B. Stable and a recent winner at this course, is in prime condition and is accorded the honor. DRUGGIST showed a return to his best form last start and at the route may prove troublesome. GOLD MINT is favored over the remaining starters for the show.

GODWIN AND LAWSON IN FEATURE

Rivals to Top Show for Day Nursery on Tuesday.

By JACK ESPEY.

THE Jackie Portney-Stumpy Jacobs match is off, but in its place the Day Nursery matchmaker yesterday arranged a bout that seems as good, if not better, on paper, at least, as the feature of next Tuesday's card in Portner Arena, Alexandria. Bob Godwin, Southern light-heavyweight champion, and Eric Lawson, Newport News star, were signed for the substitute battle, which will be fought over the eight-round route.

Officials of the Nursery athletic committe expressed great satisfaction over what they termed their "luck" in securing two high-class principals such as Godwin and Lawson on short notice. Neither fighter had been considered as a probable performer at Portner's in the near future until Jacobs announced Thursday afternoon that a cut lip made it impossible for him to meet Portney.

Godwin and Lawson Eager for Bout.

Godwin was located in this city, where he is stopping temporarily with his father-manager, "Pa" Godwin. Lawson was reached at Newport News through his manager, Jim Campbell. After a brief conference with the Nursery matchmaker, Godwin consented to go through with the match for less remuneration than he received for boxing Reds Barry last Tuesday night, while Lawson fairly jumped at the offer, which gives him a chance to reverse a decision gained by Godwin last summer at Norfolk.

Efforts had been made to secure Phil Raymond, of Baltimore, as a substitute for Jacobs, but these negotiations fell through on account of a feud existing between the rival managers. Thus Portney again was forced to postpone his appearance at Alexandria, where he has repeatedly sought engagements since boxing was established there in November of last year.

Both Godwin and Lawson are popular with Capital and Alexandria fistic followers. Neither has been defeated in this vicinity and all of their bouts have proved pleasing to the cash customers.

Godwin May Hit At Alexandria.

Godwin gained many supporters in conquering "Reds" Barry and before that scored victories over Sammy Weiss and Billy Schwartz. Lawson, whose handsome appearance contributes to his earning powers, has defeated Vince Forglone, Schwartz and Billy Strickler.

At Norfolk last year Godwin captured the decision on a 2-to-1 vote of the officials after a fast, hotly contested scrap, and in agreeing to the match yesterday he readily admitted his respect for the blond Newport News youth.

Though both are ranked as light-heavyweights, they weigh several pounds under the limit for their classification, Godwin tipping the indicator at 164 and Lawson scaling 4 pounds more. They are experienced and durable and capable of tossing gloves at a dizzy speed. Godwin, however, probably rates the selection of favorite in this bout.

The remainder of the program is set, with Joe Finazzo, Baltimore light-heavy, opposing Billy Schwartz in the semifinal of eight rounds. A quartet of four-rounders list George Esrick, Baltimore lightweight, vs. Marino Marini, Uniontown, Pa.; Jesse Belt, Washington welterweight, vs. Bob Golsby, Third Corps Area champion; Bob Portna, Naval Air Station featherweight, vs. Young Groves, Washington, and Patsy Lewis, Baltimore lightweight, vs. Jack Quigley, Washington.

Blue Coal Nine Again Under Glascoe's Wing

"Wee Willie" Glascoe, dean of the sandlot managers, has been reappointed manager of the Griffith-Blue Coal baseball team for the 1932 season. A. B. Nicholson was also named to business manager for his second successive term. The team will meet at the Phoenix Club, 8 Fourth street northeast, Saturday night, at 8 o'clock to discuss plans for the coming season. All candidates for the team are invited to attend. Plans for the annual banquet will also be formulated at this time.

Skinkers and French's Fives to Clash Tonight

The Skinker Eagles and French A. C. will meet tonight in a game to be played at the George Washington University Gym, starting at 7:30 o'clock. The Eagles hold two decisions over their opponents tonight, although both were by small margins and gained only after thrilling battles.

The Delaware and Hudson Jewish Community Center quintets, contenders for the unlimited title in the A. A. U. tournament being sponsored by The Post, will meet in a preliminary game at 7:30. The Coalmen recently won the Community Center League championship, while the Center five has met defeat only once this season.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

JOHN McKEE, an Irishman, sets Jewish type for a Jewish newspaper. Employed by the Jewish World for more than seventeen years, he is at present foreman of the stereotype room. With his brother Jimmy and seven other Irishmen he started the team that for eighteen years has been composed entirely of Irish players. Jewish players have never been excluded from the team. It just happened that none ever tried out for it.

The team has sent no less than 30 men to the minor and major leagues, and John, now approaching 48, remains active as coach.

Harry ("Pop") Price, Philadelphia sportsman, is the only man of Jewish extraction to ever be connected with the team, having been business manager.

Patrolman August (Eagle-Eye Gus) Schalkham has a hobby. Eagle-Eye collects stolen autos. To date he has collected, or rather recovered, almost 200 cars.

Gus has at all times a list of at least 1,000 stolen cars in his pocket, with which he confirms his memory before an arrest. He memorizes the numbers, and if one of the autos passes him he immediately recognizes it and begins a chase that results in its recovery.

Only once did Eagle-Eye really get on the wrong track. He had the number right; but when he finally stopped the car the detective who was driving said, "Sorry, Gus, but I beat you to it this time."

Griffith Consumers Beat Naval Reserves

The Griffs scored a commendable victory over Herbie Young, who was virtually the entire Naval Reserve team. Young received valuable assistance from Paul Clifford, whose smart floor work was outstanding, but the pair of them were helpless before the potent attack of the Coalmen.

The Consumers commanded a 23-9 advantage at the half, chiefly through the scoring ability of Bob Lilly. He was responsible for sixteen of his team's points. Young equaled this for the Reserves, but as stated before, his efforts were wasted. Young rarely missed a shot, and it is not too far-fetched to presume that he could have doubled his score had the team offered any support.

Eastern Reserves 39-27 Victors Over Athlisos

A rally in the latter stages of the third quarter carried the Eastern Reserves to a 39-to-27 victory over the Athliso five in the 130-pound class. It was a bitterly contested game, and until the Lincoln Parkers staged their fruitful rally, it seemed that they surely would be defeated.

Eastern led at the half, 13 to 11, but by dint of perserverance and well coordinated team play, Athliso, (Athletic, literary and social) knotted the count at 16 to 16. The Reserves, however, pulled out of the rut and with all cylinders functioning perfectly raced home to victory.

Bassin, Edelin and Daly were important cogs in the Eastern machine. Edelin was particularly impressive with his fine floor work. The value of the other two is reflected in the number of points they scored. Gellman, and Al Scheinerman, aside from leading their team in scoring, performed brilliantly for the Athlisos.

Highlander Sextet Beats Bethesda-C. C.

Running true to form, the Highlanders eliminated Bethesda-Chevy Chase in the junior girls division with a well-earned 29-to-22 victory. The game was roughly played, and Miss Neal, the referee, was forced to penalize both teams on numerous occasions.

The Highlanders led at the intermission 13-to-11, but it taxed their strength and resources to the utmost to retain this slim margin as the game progressed. Bethesda staged a rally midway in the final half that threatened to overtake its opponent, but the determined defense of the eventual winners halted this uprising.

Virginia Jones, Highlander forward, came through in spectacular fashion for her team, scoring all but two of its 29 points. She received good support from Upson, Knox and Miller. Winkler and Roche played well for the losers.

Bethesda-C. C. Five Triumphs in Tourney

Winning over Damascus High School, 26-17, in the final round, Bethesda-Chevy Chase won the Sportsmanship Trophy offered annually by Rockville High School, in a tourney conducted on the latter's court last night. Damascus had previously defeated Poolesville, 20-2, and Bethesda had trounced Rockville, 21-13, to gain the final round.

L. F. Schott, principal of Rockville High School, presented the winners with a silver trophy immediately after the contest. A large crowd turned out for the miniature tournament.

Hitting The Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

SOME semblance of order may be restored among the doubles teams of the duckpin world through the medium of the South Atlantic Doubles Sweepstakes, which will be rolled in this city today. Several crack combinations have appeared on the horizon this season to challenge for the crown held by Eddie Espey and Paul Harrison.

Selecting the ranking duo, even in our own city, is a task worthy of the consideration of a Solomon. Thus, it would seem that choosing a representative team from the entire Eastern seaboard is well nigh impossible. The winners of today's stakes will improve their rating at least 50 per cent.

The first block will be rolled at 2:30 p. m. at Lucky Strike, and the second at 6 p. m. at Columbia. A third block will be rolled at 8 p. m. for the convenience of those who will be unable to compete at one of the first-named hours. Entries will be received up until starting time.

Bill Wood's dub sweepstakes rolled away to a grand start at Lucky Strike yesterday. One hundred and sixty of the lesser lights toed the mark. Results will be found elsewhere on this page. Another block will be rolled tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Lucky Strike for the accommodation of those unable to bowl last night.

Six new records have been approved by the National Duckpin Congress. Of this number, five are the handiwork of women. The lone score charged to the men is Joe Pricci's 497 three-game set, made at the Recreation allays last week.

The King Pin's 621 game, rolled in the District League at Lucky Strike allays last week, heads the list of new marks for the women. Billie Butler, Helen Sullivan, Katherine Federline, Marie Whalen and Lorraine Gulli share in the glory. The Misses Gulli and Butler come in for additional honors by virtue of a three-game set score of 720, compiled in a match at Lucky Strike February 27. Another new doubles mark, this time for five games, is credited to Mary Galloway and Helen Spencer, of Baltimore. The new score, 1,164, was rolled at the Regent alleys in their home town.

Billie Butler gains the spotlight for the third time with her nine-game set of 1,106, rolled at Lucky Strike on February 27. Miss Spencer accounted for the last of the new records with a five-game mark of 615, scored at the Regent alleys last week.

Rolling games of 591, 609 and 587, for a 1,787 set, King Pin defeated the Fountain Hams, 2-1, at King Pin No. 2 last night. The Hams rolled 525, 591 and 604. Freddy Moore was high with a game of 189 and set of 376.

Joe Diegleman's 380 set and "Whitey" Rader's 156 game captured the individual prizes in the Building Contractors League at Arcadia. Rosslyn Steel's 1,050 and 555 captured the team honors.

A 1,542 set enabled Power to sweep its set with Supply in the Quartermaster Men's League at Columbia. Transportation bagged high game with its 545. Kennedy's 348 set, which included a game of 128, was helpful to the Power cause.

In the Women's division of the same league, rolling at the same alleys, Mrs. Lillard and Mrs. Hamm tied for the set honors, with 297 each, but the latter won out in the contest for the game laurels, with a score of 297. Construction rolled 495 and 1,341 but lost two to Extension. Supply won all three from Engineers.

Lucky Strike odd-gamed a victory out of Takoma Park in a National Capital League match on its home drives. Earl McPhilomy's 162 and 396 scores were best for the winners, while McDonald's 141 and James' 387 topped Takoma Park.

Frank Mischou's 157 and 367 were high in the Typothetae League at Lucky Strike. Big Print Shop had high team game, 605, and American Electrotype scored 1,697 for set.

Myers and Pearson shared the game honors in the Interstate Commerce loop at Arcadia, each rolling 138. Myers also figured in a tie with Dunn for the set honors, with 346. Land Section's 557 and Directors' 1,597 bagged the team prizes.

Herbie McProuty scorched the boards at Arcadia with a score of 143 for game and 370 for set to aid the Water Department cause in the District Government League. Fire Department's 571 and Highway's 1,635 set accounted for the team laurels. McProuty's work is the best recorded in this league for some time.

Y. M. C. A. Matmen Win From Gallaudet, 8-0

The Y. M. C. A. wrestling team invaded Kendall Green last night and came away with an 8-0 victory over Gallaudet's mat performers dangling from its belt. The Blue was completely outclassed by the G-streeters. The final score was 29-0. Eddie Paul's victory over Ellis in the 175-pound class, achieved in 1.31 minutes of wrestling, featured the match.

115-pound class—Anderson defeated O'Brien, 7 minutes 37 seconds, time advantage.

125-pound class—Shockley defeated Buzzelli, fall, 4 minutes.

135-pound class—Payne defeated Greenmum, fall, 4 minutes 4 seconds.

145-pound class—Sargent defeated Patne, fall, 6 minutes.

155-pound class—Wisooker defeated Manty, 6 minutes 7 seconds, time advantage.

175-pound class—Paul defeated Ellis, fall, 1 minute 31 seconds.

Representatives of all teams which held franchises last season are requested to attend. Plans for the impending season will be drawn up.

ALEXANDRIA LISTS TITLE SCHEDULE

Three Games to Open Tourney Play Tonight.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., March 11.—Three basket ball games will feature in the two local leagues at Armory Hall on Saturday night, it was announced today by Director Bob McDonald.

Twenty-four games have been listed on the schedule just made public. In Saturday's contest the Boy Scouts and the Eagles will play at 7:15 o'clock. This will be followed by tilts featuring the Mount Ida and Southern Methodist Boys Club and the Temples and Scholastics.

The loop is conducted on the Community Center plan. All players and spectators are required to pay 10 cents for admission. This money is used to defray all expenses of the loop.

Baseball Glove for High Scorer.

It was announced today that Herbert Knight, local sportsman, will give a handsome baseball glove to the player with the greatest number of points in the tourney.

This is the first time junior and senior basket ball leagues have featured in this city for the championship.

Director Bob McDonald, of the two leagues, announced the schedule of games:

Tomorrow—Boy Scouts vs. Eagles, junior game; Mount Ida vs. S. M. B. C., and Temples vs. Scholastics, two senior games.

March 16—Boy Scouts vs. Friends, junior game; Columbias vs. Centrals, Fraters vs. Temples, two senior games.

March 18—Mount Ida vs. Scholastics, Temples vs. S. M. B. C., Fraters vs. Centrals, all senior games.

March 19—Centrals vs. Scholastics, Columbias vs. Temples, Mount Ida vs. Fraters, all senior games.

March 23—Friends vs. Eagles, junior game; Fraters vs. S. M. B. C., Columbias vs. Scholastics, two senior games.

March 25—Eagles vs. Boy Scouts, junior game; Mount Ida vs. Centrals, Fraters vs. Scholastics, senior games.

March 28—Boy Scouts vs. Friends, junior game; Temple vs. Mount Ida, Centrals vs. S. M. B. C., two senior games.

March 30—Centrals vs. Temple, Columbias vs. S. M. B. C., Mount Ida vs. Columbias, all senior games.

Dub Pin Sweepstake Event Led by Maley

Tom Maley, anchor man on the Holy Rosary team of the Holy Name League, assumed the lead in the dub sweepstakes by virtue of his 646 score rolled in the first block at the Lucky Strike last night. He was 46 pins ahead of his closest rival, "Reb" Rebholtz. L. Swain was third with 596, Frank McNey fourth with 583 and Paul West fifth with 580.

They call 'em dubs—but those boys handled themselves like major leaguers last night. The three leaders inaugurated a dog-fight for top honors in the very first game, Maley rolling 145, Rebholtz 144 and Swain 140. With the second game, however, Maley began to display his superiority. He shot games of 135, 137, 138 and then wobbled, dropping back to 101. A weak 98 score in his third game cost Rebholtz his chance of taking the lead.

The second section will roll tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Lucky Strike. The second block will be rolled a week hence at Columbia.

Vic and Eagle Fives Play Again Tomorrow

Determined to gain at least one victory over the Skinker Eagles before the close of the current basket ball season, Vic's Sport Shop will muster its full strength tomorrow for the third and final game between the two to be played at Silver Spring Armory at 3 p. m.

Wally Hays, elongated center, who was absent from the line-up in the last game because of an attack of the grip, is expected to be ready for duty tomorrow. His return to action will be a boon to the Sport Shop cause. Joe Sweeney, who has been held in check in recent games, to the dismay of his ardent supporters, is itching for one more chance at the champions, and he should make merry at their expense if he starts the game. "Tubba" Farrell, Dick Streeks, Jake Goldblatt and Bill Banta, together with those already mentioned, will start for Vic's.

The old reliables, Julie Radice, "Moon" Evans, Pete Nee, Al Heagy and Ralph Bennie will defend the Eagles' honor.

Intercity Ping Pong Play Here Today

Famous Veal Brothers Head Philly Team in Event at Shoreham.

Washington's first intercity ping pong match will be promulgated this afternoon and night at the Shoreham Hotel, in the gold room, with seats enough for nearly 1,000 expected patrons. The Washington team will play host to a Philadelphia combination, headed by Frank Veal, Eastern States champion of the strange game of paddles and celluloid balls.

Play will start this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and will consist of a singles elimination tournament wherein the players of both teams will compete. Tonight at 8:30 o'clock, the boys will band into cliques and the intercity matches will start. There will be eight singles matches and two doubles affairs.

The Philadelphia team is made up of Frank and Corrington Veal, Tom Bradley and Carl Zelsberg. The locals will be represented by Eddie Black, G. A. Brodie, E. K. Morris and W. R. Willoughby. Frank Veal and Black are seeded one and two in the afternoon singles.

SORROW EXPRESSED AT BISHOP'S DEATH

Messages on Passing of Dr. Shahan Arrive Here in Great Numbers.

Messages have come from all over the United States and Europe expressing esteem for Bishop Thomas J. Shahan, rector emeritus of the Catholic University, who died at his home early Tuesday.

Among those who have expressed their sorrow are Cardinals Dougherty, Hayes and Bisletti and the apostolic delegate, the Most Rev. Pietro Fumasoni-Biondi. In many schools throughout the country memorial services were held for Bishop Shahan. At least three archbishops will be present for the funeral service on Monday.

The Italian Ambassador, Nobile Giacomo de Martino, stated in a message to the rector of the Catholic University that Bishop Shahan was held in great respect "both for his profound piety and his intellectual attainments. We lose in him not only a scholarly spiritual leader, but a true friend of Italy." Mayor James Curley of Boston, and Leo S. Rowe, of the Pan-American Union, sent their condolences.

Mgr. Bernard A. McKenna, director of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, has announced that the officers for the funeral services for Bishop Shahan will be as follows: Assistant priest, the Very Rev. John A. Ryan; deacon of mass, the Rev. William A. Fitzgerald; subdeacon, the Rev. Dr. John O'Grady. Other assistants at the mass will be Mgr. James H. Ryan and Mgr. Pace, rector and vice rector, respectively, of the university; Mgr. McGolrick, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mgr. McKenna. The pallbearers are all members of the faculty of Catholic University. The funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Monday.

4-Month Term Given Driver of Death Car

Convicted of using an auto without permission of the owner, Joseph McPherson, driver of the car in which Oscar Wilde was killed, was sentenced to four months in the Marland House of Correction yesterday in Marlboro Police Court. Harry Harvey Johnson, owner of the car, was freed on charges of permitting it to be operated by an unlicensed person when he testified that McPherson took it without his consent.

The dead man lived near La Plata, Md., The other two men also live near La Plata. Wilde was killed last Sunday when the car driven by McPherson blew out a tire and hit a pole. McPherson was also fined $25 yesterday for failing to report an accident, and $10 for driving without a license. He was comitted to jail in default of the fine.

Tippet School Attains Record in Attendance

Tippet, a one-room school, had the highest attendance average in Prince Georges County last month, with a rating of 97.9, according to the report just issued by the county attendance officer. Bladensburg, a junior high school, was second with an average of 97 per cent.

CAPT. JOHN CLANCY TO BE BURIED TODAY

Former Artillery Officer Who Fell Dead in New York to Rest in Arlington.

The remains of Capt. John T. Clancy, late of Battery E, Field Artillery, U. S. A., were brought to Washington yesterday afternoon from New York. Interment will take place this morning at Arlington Cemetery.

Capt. Clancy fell dead Wednesday evening at the Engineers Club, in New York, immediately after the conclusion of an address before the American Society of Mechanical Engineers on the subject of "Diesel Engines," upon which he was regarded as one of the foremost authorities in the country.

He was widely known in military and engineering circles in Washington and elsewhere. Born in New Brunswick, N. J., 40 years ago, he entered Bowdoin College and later took his degree in law at Catholic University, in Washington. He was admitted to the bar of the District of Columbia, but never practiced. For a time he was instructor in mathematics at the Army and Navy Preparatory School in Washingotn and shortly before the United States entered the World War he was commissioned a lieutenant in the Regular Army and detailed to Fort Sill. His command was soon ordered to France, where he was promoted to captain. His battery participated in some of the principal engagements in which American troops were involved.

Returning to the United States after the close of the war, he was for a time stationed at Fort Grant. He resigned his commission to enter the employ of the Worthington Pump & Machinery Corporation, of which he was sales manager at the time of his death. He made his home at East Orange, N. J.

The funeral of Capt. Clancy was held yesterday morning at St. Malachi's Church in New York. Brief services, conducted by Father Moran, of Sacred Heart Church, will be held at 9:15 o'clock today at Hines' undertaking rooms.

Besides his widow, who was Miss Mary Sheridan, of 2033 Park road, Capt. Clancy is survived by two brothers, Andrew J. and James Clancy, and two sisters, Mrs. M. F. Walsh and Mrs. Van Sickle Leigh, all of New York.

Dr. Harvey M. Hall Dead; Carnegie Institute Member

Resident of Palo Alto, Calif., Came to Washington Last December to Enter Garfield Hospital for Treatment of Intestinal Trouble.

Dr. Harvey M. Hall, a member of the Carnegie Institute of Washington, died at Garfield Hospital yesterday after an illness of three months.

He was a resident of Palo Alto, Calif. He came to Washington last December to enter the hospital for treatment for complications of the intestines.

Dr. Hall was 58 years old.

Dr. Harvey Monroe Hall was born March 29, 1874, in Lee County, Ill., son of Reuben and Martha Hall. He took the degree of bachelor of science at the University of California in 1901 and the following year was awarded the degree of master of science. In 1902 he was made a doctor of philosophy.

In 1910 he married Carlotta Case, a native of Ohio, then living in Oakland, Calif.

He was a professor on the faculty of the University of California from 1903 until he became connected with the Carnegie Institution of Washington, as botanist in the division of plant biology.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed early today.

Elm Forest Being Moved In Lincoln Memorial Area

The "Moving Forest" that Shakespeare wrote about in "Macbeth" has a counterpart in the miniature forest of some 200 American elms that is being "lifted" and replanted to balance the verdant surroundings of the Lincoln Memorial.

It is the largest tree-moving undertaking ever attempted in the Capital, and will be finished before spring.

When the Lincoln Memorial was completed ten years ago, 400 trees, twice as many as were needed for the space alloted, were set out in the eastern half of the memorial grounds The space in the vicinity of the already planned Arlington Memorial Bridge was left free of planting.

Now that the bridge is completed and the trees have grown to the point where the branches of neighboring trees intertwine, alternate trees are being picked up and moved to the barren area west of the Lincoln Memorial. The result will be a complete area around the memorial planted with trees uniform in size and kind and obtained at a great saving to the taxpayer.

It will cost approximately $100 to move each tree, but the quoted price on new ones of the same size is about $400. In addition, guarantee backed by bond is given by the moving contractors that each tree will live for two years.

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant III, as director of the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, makes a point of maintaining natural beautification in this city.

One of the exceptions to the above cost was the recent moving of a massive 200-year-old magnolia tree to get it out of the way of a new road in the Mall. This tree cost $5,000 to move, but the expense was justified since a duplicate could not be procured at any cost for many years.

WINNING MEMORIAL DESIGN IS SELECTED

Likeness of Lee and Grant to Be on Appomattox Courthouse Marker.

(Associated Press.)

The award of the jury in the competition for the design of the Appomattox Courthouse Memorial to commemorate the ending of the war between the States, was announced yesterday by the War Department.

The winning design was submitted by Harry Sternfeld and J. Roy Carroll, jr., architects, and Gaetano Cecere, sculptor, all of Philadelphia, in a competition that attracted 186 entries.

The winning design was of a central shaft with engaged pylons in either granite or marble. The designers explained it as "to symbolize an undivided Nation and a lasting peace."

Inscription for Lee.

On one side would be a likeness of Lee, and on the other, one of Grant. The inscription for Grant's likeness was not given, but that for Lee read:

"Robert E. Lee,

"Duty—the most sublime word in our language."

The great seal of the United States, to symbolize an "undivided country," would be placed on the front.

The design contemplated erection of the monument on the site of the old courthouse and the renovation of the brick tavern in back of the site.

The total cost, including sidewalks, paths and other parts of the setting, was estimated at $92,000. Eight other designs were given honorable mention.

To Mark Surrender.

The stone monument will arise above the tops of a grove of trees in whose midst it will be placed on the old courthouse square.

There it will mark the place where Gen. Lee surrendered the Army of Northern Virginia to Lieut. Gen. Grant, the Union commander in chief.

The Philadelphia group will receive $2,300 as a prize.

A total of $100,000 was authorized by Congress last session for the memorial, but only $2,500 was actually appropriated. With the award of the prize, all funds appropriated so far will be consumed.

Sponsors of the monument, Senator Swanson and Representative Tucker, in whose district it will be built, are not

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

TAX BILL CONSOLATIONS.

I.

THEY'VE taxed me when I telephone
And when I send a wire;
Oh, central, listen to my moan
As all my bills mount higher!
They've put a tax on what I wear
And on the things I do—
But cheese they have seen fit to spare,
And all those cheese holes, too!

II.

I'll pay a tax on movie plays
And on the big revues;
'Twill cost me more each time I gaze
On all the news reel views;
There'll be an impost on my shaves,
And when I cut my hair—
But give a cheer, oh, fellow slaves—
We still can get free air!

III.

To grease my car will cost me more—
Oh, crank case, do not leak!
And my expenses they will soar
With every body squeak;
There'll be a tax on tires and
On inner tubes as well,
But not a cent on eggs (how grand!)
If they are "in the shell!"

IV.

They've taxed me for my undershirt
And for my shoes and socks,
They've levied on milady's skirt—
I'm high upon the rocks;
They taxed me for my stick and hat,
And kitchen crockery,
But I am very grateful that
The table salt is free!

V.

THE baby's bottle bears a tax
As does its rattle, too;
Those porous plasters for our backs
Now bear a levy new;
My medicines will cost me more,
Likewise the pills I need—
But I should be quite happy, for They've not taxed chicken feed!

VI.

The bed in which I sleep at night
Will cost some extra dough;
My nightshirt (heavy stuff or light)
Will now be taxed, I know;
There'll be an impost on my knife
And also on my fork—
But how it brightens up my life
To know there's none on pork!

VII.

They've taxed the plaster for my corn—
The tonic for my hair;
Of happiness I'm largely shorn,
But still I do not care;
For bills that congressmen enact
I now show fierce contempt—
I'm buoyed up by the cheering fact
"Pig jowls" are now exempt!

VIII.

Oh, let them pile the duties high
And tax me head to foot;
They'll get my money when I die
And when I live to boot;
This is the thing that cheers me up—
(At times a stanch abstainer)—
The country's water will be free
"If not in a container!"

DIVIDEND PLAN IS AID TO NORTH AMERICAN

Payment In Stock Saves Cash Reserve and Net Earnings for Year.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

That the dividend payment policy of the North American Co., holding company of Washington Railway & Electric and Potomac Electric Power Companies, has proved of value is shown in the forty-second annual report of that company, made public yesterday.

In it President Frank L. Dane of the company states: "Under the company's policy of paying dividends on its common stock in common stock at the quarterly rate of 2½ per cent, our earnings have been conserved and, together with liberal provision for reserves, have provided a substantial part of the funds necessary for the development of plant facilities of subsidiaries." From inauguration of the stock dividend policy, April 1, 1923, to December 31, 1931, outstanding common stock increased 202 per cent while net earnings gained 232 per cent.

During the same period, book value of common stock, after deduction of all reserves, including $12,000,000 appropriated for contingencies in 1931, increased from $18.14 to $31.29 per share. In addition, depreciation and other reserves were equivalent to $16.79 per share.

Net From Electricity.

According to the report of Vice President and General Manager Edwin Bruhl, electric business contributed 86 per cent of the company's net operating revenues. Output of present subsidiaries which operate in territories centering in Cleveland, Milwaukee, St. Louis and Washington, D. C., was 4,829,448,204 kilowatt-hours in 1931, a decrease of 4.49 per cent, and customers numbered 1,074,448 at the close of the year, a slight increase over 1930.

Although industrial use of electricity in 1931 declined 10.67 per cent and commercial use 3.51 per cent, residential use increased 7.55 per cent. Total plant capacity at the end of 1931 was 1,848,944 kilowatts, a net increase of 77,000 kilowatts after retirement of obsolete generating units. Construction of new facilities during 1931 required expenditure of $42,060,196, of which 80 per cent was for electric facilities.

Total consolidated assets of the company were $870,868,558. Investments were carried at $140,044,484. Total reserves on December 31, 1931, were $117,462,915, an increase of $13,812,846. Total surplus was $148,916,796, including capital surplus of $30,892,600 and undivided profits of $118,524,195, the latter showing an increase of $977,081 for the year after appropriation of $12,000,000 to reserve for contingencies.

Number of Stockholders.

At the end of 1931 there were 9,508 holders of preferred stock and 53,854 holders of common stock, the latter an increase of 21 per cent over 1930. At the end of February, 1932, common stockholders numbered 55,799, of whom 87 per cent held less than 100 shares each.

The operating statement of Capital Traction Co. for February reveals a net income of $5,200.29, a decrease of $25,321.21 from that of the month last year. Net income for the two months of the present year totals $9,892.33, or $58,554.84 under that for the corresponding period in 1931.

When it is considered that a railroad train has run more than 5,000,000 miles in nine years and has been "on time" 95.6 per cent, that seems like a good record for "punctuality" and "attendance."

This is what the Capitol Limited of the Baltimore & Ohio has done since it was first put in service on May 13, 1923, between Washington and Chicago, a distance of 786 miles in each direction, or 1,572 miles round trip.

Similarly, the National Limited has an "on time" record of 97.2 per cent in more than 4,250,000 miles run since it was inaugurated seven years ago on April 26, 1925, between Washington and St. Louis, a distance of 890 miles, or 1,780 miles round trip.

Bank Acceptance Rate Cut Hailed

Dealers See Credit Aid in Cheaper Discounts; Further Drop Looms.

New York, March 11 (A.P.).—Further evidence of the cheapening of credit appeared today in a reduction in rates on bankers' acceptances. Dealers reduced the yield rates ⅛ of 1 per cent for acceptances of 30 to 90 day maturities, making the new rates 2⅛ per cent bid, 2¼ asked. Reductions in these rates are equivalent to increases in prices.

Rates on bankers' acceptances, a form of commercial credit widely used in international trade, have frequently foreshadowed changes in the Federal Reserve Banks' discount rate.

Coming on the heels of the weekly Federal Reserve statement, showing further evidence of efforts to expand credit, the cheapening of the acceptances rates was regarded in some quarters as possibly foreshadowing a further reduction in the Federal Reserve rediscount rate.

TRADE'S QUOTAS HIT BY WORLD CHAMBER

Paris Session Asks Removal of Restrictions as Aid to Business.

Paris, March 11 (A.P.).—The International Chamber of Commerce adopted a resolution today appealing to public opinion for abolition of quotas and other restrictive measures against trade and commerce as soon as possible.

The resolution recognized that such measures were necessary "in many cases," but declared that they had aggravated the crisis.

The chamber also issued an appeal for settlement of war debts on a definite basis at the coming Lausanne reparations conference. In an interview Silas Strawn, president of the American chamber, said there was great confidence among business men at the international meeting here that the Lausanne meeting would achieve a solution of the reparations problem.

In an address Mr. Strawn denounced the French quota system of handling imports as a violation in many cases of the spirit and perhaps the letter of commercial treaties. Speaking before the international chamber, he called recent legislation reducing permissible American imports of several commodities "an irritating step in economic warfare."

"It is an unwarranted invasion by the government into the field of private business and in many cases it amounts to violation of the spirit, perhaps the letter of commercial treaties," he said.

"This step will tend to destroy friendly international relations. It destroys the existing machinery of production and transportation which was established at a great expense."

The international chamber, quoted a recent speech by Mr. Strawn that "the American people would be ready to give serious consideration to existing conditions in the readjustment of inter-governmental debt settlements," in issuing its appeal to the forthcoming Lausanne debt conference.

Four "requirements necessary for full economic recovery" were listed. They were an effective disarmament policy; definite settlement of war debts and reparations; normal operation of the machinery of international credits; and reversal of the growing policies of national isolation by the introduction of policies leading to freer international movement of goods, capital, persons and services.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

STOCKS react, resulting in one to two points losses in a dull market.

BONDS continue upward trend, with Federal issues leading advance again. Practically all Government loans close higher.

CURB market sags, with bond and share issues bearing brunt of decline.

WHEAT values decline on news of heavy shipments from the Southern Hemisphere, which matched the curtailment of North American exports.

COTTON fluctuates narrowly, reacting moderately after small opening advance.

WAR DEBT PROGRESS REPORTED IN EUROPE

News Regarded as Omen of Accord and Aid to World Business.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Private advices to influential New York bankers from Paris yesterday told of "important and encouraging progress" in Europe during the last ten days on the knotty problem of war debts and reparations, and at the same time diplomatic circles in Washington discussed with lively interest informal advices from both Paris and Berlin that the long stalemate between France and Germany was being worked out in direct conversations.

Following as they do the frank statement of the American delegation to the meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce at Paris on Thursday, these reports were welcomed by the financial and diplomatic communities as a most promising omen that Europe would have an acceptable plan of debt management worked out before the Hoover moratorium expires next July 1.

These reports were the more welcomed for the fact that United States opinion has come to look upon the international debt and reparations problems during the last three months as the one basic and fundamental obstacle now in the path of solid world-wide economic recovery.

At home and abroad, budgets have been balanced or are being sharply trimmed. Everywhere the disturbing political tremors which imparted a note of hesitancy to business and finance during the last half of 1931 have subsided notably. Finally, the bitter political pressure which has been waged against foreign currencies by European powers during the past year now are generally recognized as having come to naught.

And since these drives profit no one, there is a new feeling of security in the tacit promise that they will be abandoned.

All of these factors have conspired to create for the first time since the depression begun an atmosphere in which the vexatious debt probe problem can be discussed rationally.

Convincing evidence of this change in the political setting in Europe was marked in the statement presented at Paris by the American delegation. This group is headed by Silas Strawn, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, who is understood to have conferred at length with President Hoover before his departure early this month for France.

Federal Credit Bonds Are Oversubscribed

New York, March 11 (A.P.).—The fiscal agent for the Federal Intermediate Credit Banks announced today that the new offering of $25,000,000 of 4½ per cent bonds for the banks has been oversubscribed, all of the bonds having been sold within a week.

As a result of their complete sale, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which had announced it would take up any portion of the issue not sold publicly, has been relieved from this obligation. This, it was stated, will in effect free just that much more money for use in making loans by the corporation.

The Intermediate Credit Banks bonds were offered at par.

GOLD MOVEMENT.

New York, March 11 (A.P.).—A further improvement in the country's gold position resulted from today's transactions in the metal.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank disclosed imports of $103,600 from Canada and $71,300 from India. These, together with a $450,500 decrease in earmark account, raised the Nation's monetary stock by $1,524,800.

STOCK PRICES REACT IN DULLER MARKETS

Bonds Continue Advancing With Federals Leading; Curb Declines.

What the Stock Market Did

	Fri.	Thu.
Number of advances	70	128
Number of declines	390	306
Stocks unchanged	107	134
Total issues traded	567	568

New York, March 11 (A.P.).—Stocks appeared tired today and sold off 1 to 3 points in trading which turned dull on the reaction. Except for a light flurry of selling which came into the market around midday, there was little breadth to activity. This absence of any material liquidation was interpreted favorably by some market observers who have taken a fresh grip on optimism as a result of recent changes showing marked improvement in credit conditions. Sales on the stock exchange totaled 1,331,240 shares.

Bond prices also turned reactionary after many issues had advanced into new high ground for the year in early trading.

The most important financial development of the day was a cut in the yield rate on bankers' acceptances. The rate was reduced ½ point for 30-to-90 day maturities to 2⅛ per cent bid and 2¼ per cent asked.

Move Is Important.

Bankers attached considerable importance to the move as a further reflection of credit improvement and also as an indication of the concerted effort to pump more credit into the Nation's business and financial structures.

The three key agencies of the Federal Reserve Banks have now been brought into play to produce easier money; namely, increased acceptance buying and bond buying by the reserve banks, coupled with the New York Bank's recent reduction in the rediscount rate.

Relatively heavy selling appeared in utility stocks today reflecting some concern over the recent decline in electric power production. One year ago, it was recalled, the utilities had been widely regarded as "depression proof" stocks, but investment beliefs have been substantially revised in the past six months. Except for isolated cases, however, in which some doubt was apparent as to future dividend action, this liquidation was of little more than nominal proportions.

Federals Lead Again.

The steady feature of the bond market today again proved to be the United States Government list and the majority of Liberties and Treasuries closed higher despite some fairly heavy realizing.

While the market exhibited an irregular trend during most of the session, trading turned extremely dull on the decline as offerings narrowed. The total sales were only $9,731,000, the smallest since February 29. The average for 60 corporate loans was 2-10 under that of yesterday. It was the first average decline this month.

Profit-taking in the railway department continued more or less actively to the end. While the utilities and industrials generally gained fractionally, the average for 20 leading carriers dropped 8-10 of a point. Nickel Plate 6s, after making a new high of 74⅜ for the year, fell back for a 1½ point loss.

Losers Among Rails.

Conspicuous losers included some liens of Baltimore & Ohio, Boston & Maine, Canadian Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Chicago & Northwestern, Erie, Great Northern, Illinois Central, New York Central, New Haven, Southern Pacific, Southern and Missouri Pacific.

The Missouri Pacific issues were especially weak, sagging from ¾ to 4 points. It was reported that this road is seeking further help from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The Argentines were again the feature of the foreign group. All 10 of this country's bonds reached new highs for the year. Substantial advances were made by some loans of Brazil, Poland, Norway and Peru. There were even some gains among the low-priced Chileans. Obligations of Britain and Germany were heavy and those of Japan barely steady.

Curb Market Sags.

The curb market sagged in a somewhat dull session today with Electric Bond & Share bearing the brunt of the selling. The turnover was approximately 200,000 shares.

The attack on Electric Bond carried this stock to a new low at 8, it closed at 8⅛, off 1¼. The weakness of this stock was attributed to the recent omission of preferred dividends by American & Foreign Power and the uneasiness over other omissions on Bond & Share investments.

Other utilities were unable to hold their ground and lost from fractions to 1 or more points. American Gas & Electric dropped 1⅜, Associated Gas & Electric common ¾, and United Light A 1½. Commonwealth Edison was firm, rising ½.

The industrials were inclined to be dull on the decline and losses were mostly confined to fractions. Atlantic & Pacific lost 3 points in light trading. Aluminum Co. gave up 1 point.

GENERAL FOOD NET TOTALS $18,153,719

Profits Drop for Year 4.88 Per Cent Below Yield of 1930.

New York, March 11 (A.P.).—Earnings of the General Foods Corporation for 1931 declined only 4.88 per cent below those of 1930, the concern's annual report showed today. Net profits were $18,153,719, equivalent to 3.44 a share on 5,275,667 shares, against $19,085,595, or $3.63 a share on 5,256,843 outstanding shares in 1930.

The balance sheet reveals an improved liquid position. Current assets at the end of 1931 totaled $35,787,730 compared with $34,063,948 at the end of 1930. Current liabilities aggregated $5,405,543 against $6,386,073.

The report shows that, despite lower prices, accounts receivable from customers were higher than at the end of 1930, standing at $4,742,265 against $4,416,991. This was attributed to slower collections due to business conditions. There was a decrease in inventories from $17,702,875 in 1930 to $15,820,292 in 1931. This, it was said, reflected lower commodity prices.

Net earnings of $5,004,793 for 1931, equal to $2.03 a share, were reported today by the Beneficial Industrial Loan Corporation. This compares with $5,331,294, or $2.43 a share, in 1930.

The American Commercial Alcohol Co. reports a loss of $597,651 for 1931, compared with a loss of $476,022 in 1930.

Wheeling Steel Co. in 1931 netted a loss of $3,339,139 compared with net profit of $2,650,887 in 1930, equal to $9.63 a share on the preferred "A" and preferred "B" stocks.

Reflecting the almost complete stagnation of the railroad equipment business during 1931, the American Locomotive Co. reported today a net loss after depreciation of $3,929,384 which contrasts with a net profit of $3,778,558 the year before. The company shipped only 77 locomotives during the year, although it received its full share of business of this character.

Gross revenues of the Milwaukee Railroad for February, according to a preliminary estimate issued today will be about $6,800,000, as compared with $8,556,910 in February, 1931. Net operating income, if any, will be small. In February, 1931, net operating income was $345,355.

American Zinc, Lead & Smelting Co. reports net income for 1931 of $212,445, equal to $2.64 a share on the $6 preferred stock, compared with $190,622, or $2.37 a share on the preferred in 1930.

Dunhill International, Inc., reports a 1931 net loss of $277,268, compared with a net profit of $21,257, or 14 cents a share in 1930.

Norwalk, Conn., March 11 (A.P.).—Directors of the Norwalk Tire & Rubber Co. today declared a quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on all outstanding preferred stock as of March 22. The dividend, the first the company has declared since April, 1927, is payable April 1.

Canadian Baking Issue Records Unusual Sale

New York, March 11 (A.P.).—An unusual transaction in the New York Stock Exchange today was a sale of 2,420 shares of Christie Brown & Co., Canadian Baking issue, at $56.50 a share.

This was the first transaction in this issue in this market since 1930. It was inactive all through 1931. It was quoted in the inactive list at $100 bid yesterday. In 1930 there were some transactions at $126.50 a share and $125.50 a share. Almost all of the stock is held by the National Biscuit Co., and brokerage quarters wondered where as large a block as 2,420 shares might have come from.

WHEAT PRICES YIELD ON SOUTH'S EXPORTS

Lower Hemisphere Cargoes Match Letup in North's. Shipments Abroad.

Chicago, March 11 (A.P.).—Big shipments of Southern Hemisphere wheat matching a letup in North American wheat export demand did much to give grain values a setback today. Disconcerting reports indicative of damage to domestic winter wheat, however, were numerous enough to be effective toward checking declines in prices.

Wheat closed unsettled, ¼-⅝ under yesterday's finish, corn ¼-⅝ off, oats ¾-1 down and provisions unchanged to 7 cents lower.

Argentine export shipments of wheat were the largest so far this season, totaling 7,093,000 bushels in the last week.

New York, March 11 (A.P.).—Municipal financing scheduled for next week tops that of recent weeks by a wide margin, and suggests some reawakening of interest on the part of municipal buyers. Proposed offerings total $64,203,000, according to the Daily Bond Buyer, against $10,185,788 in the week just past and a weekly average for the year to date of $16,148,350.

New York City today arranged for another short term loan of $20,000,000 at 3¼ per cent out of the $151,000,000 revolving credit extended by banks early this year.

The National Steel Corporation charged to maintenance last year $4,224,694, or only about $200,000 less than the year's profits, the annual report reveals. Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the board, in a statement to stockholders, said he was confident business would begin to mend some time prior to July, as a result of the constructive legislation passed in Washington.

Dow, Jones & Co., in an analysis of American Telephone & Telegraph Co., says that no consideration is being given to reduction in the $9 annual dividend rate, although indications are that earnings for the current quarter will be somewhat under dividend requirements, as they were in the final months of 1931.

It is expected that the company will draw upon its large cash surplus to maintain the dividend rate. Telephone connections of the Bell system in January, however, declined about 96,000—probably the largest decline in any month in the history of the system.

The Cities Service Co. has advised holders of the $3,125,000 outstanding notes, due March 28, 1932, that the notes will be paid on March 14. The notes are the last of a series of $16,000,000 issued in part payment for some properties acquired in 1930.

Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric Co., announced today that the emergency clause of the company's unemployment insurance plan will continue after termination of the employment guarantee on April 30. The company will make every effort, the statement said, to spread the available work as far as possible among its apparatus works' employes, and to grant relief to those for whom little or no work is available.

For the first two months of this year general consumption of metals in this country and abroad was at its lowest ebb, stockholders of the American Metal Co. were told at the annual meeting by Ludwig Vogelstein, chairman of the board.

New bond offerings in this district in the past week totaled $11,282,000, compared with $40,506,000 in the preceding week, and $262,573,000 in the corresponding week last year.

Wall street expects the annual report of American Tobacco Co. for 1931 due in about a week, to show profits of slightly better than $9 a share, compared with $8.56 a share in 1930.

Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. sales for the four weeks ended February 27, totaled $69,860,876, compared with $82,441,142 in the same period of 1931, a decrease of 15.2 per cent. Tonnage sales for the period showed a decrease of 6.1 per cent.

Pacific Coast advices say that Southern California Edison Co., plans to issue and sell $10,000,000 mortgage 5 per cent bonds, the proceeds to be used to retire short term notes and in the refunding of other issues.

Wall street's disappointment at the unexpectedly large decrease in the February 29 unfilled tonnage of the U. S. Steel Corporation is somewhat tempered by reports of improving sentiment in some of the leading steel markets. In Chicago, for instance, it is said that a much better feeling prevails with regard to second quarter prospects.

Railroad statements for February are awaited with more than ordinary interest because they will be the first to reflect the economies in operating costs in consequence of the 10 per cent wage reduction.

COTTON PRICES DROP AFTER EARLY RALLY

May Contracts Sell Off From 7.06 to 6.99; Buying at Liverpool.

New York, March 11 (A.P.).—Cotton fluctuated narrowly today, reacting moderately after a small opening advance. There was some liquidation and local selling on the easier tone of the stock market. May contracts sold off from 7.06 to 6.99 and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 1 to 3 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 1 to 4 points on covering and a moderate demand from the trade, partly continental and Far Eastern. Liverpool was credited with selling here at the start, but later was said to be buying on the differences.

After the initial demand had been supplied, prices sagged off gradually, with the selling a little more active in the late trading. More hedging was reported on the decline toward the close, while the action of the stock market probably brought out some scattering liquidation. Last prices were the lowest of the day on all the active positions.

Cold Damages Planting.

A continuance of cold weather in the South was accompanied by reiterated reports of damage to early planted cotton in the Southwest, which appeared without much influence on the market.

The New York Cotton Exchange Service estimates domestic consumption for February at 447,000 bales, compared with 435,000 in January and 434,000 in February a year ago.

Liverpool cables reported local and foreign buying on the further decline in sterling and said the demand for cotton cloths from India and China was sustained. Private advices were said to have been received in the trade here predicting that Shanghai cotton mills would resume operations in about a month or six weeks. Exports today, 21,067, making 6,267,201 so far this season. Port receipts, 36,770. U. S. port stocks, 4,654,544.

Pound Sterling Gains; French Franc Reacts

New York, March 11 (A.P.).—Foreign exchange rates fluctuated unevenly today.

The pound sterling, after yesterday's setback, recovered 1 cent, net, closing at $3.63 for cables. The French franc, on the other hand, reacted from its upturn of the past two days, closing ½ point lower at 3.93½ cents.

The Canadian dollar weakened, despite the upturn in sterling, closing at 89¾ cents, off nearly ½ cent. The Mexican peso lost ⅛ cent, and the Japanese yen, ⅛.

Business Outlook Aided by Sentiment

Trade Reviews See Hoarding Break to Relieve Credit.

New York, March 11 (A.P.).—The weekly mercantile reviews continue to stress the factor of improved sentiment in business and trade, but are conservative in appraising the actual gains. "Developments of a tangible nature," says Dun's Review, "have given a distinctly more cheerful tinge to the general business situation. Already confidence is spreading, and there has been a lifting of pressure by banks in the sales of their investment assets, and a decline in currency in circulation.

"Hoarding, which threatened to become a bogey, is fast fading into the background. It is becoming increasingly evident that the major portion of the evils feared for the winter did not appear; most merchants doubtless were suffering more from an oversupply of fears than from an undersupply of income."

Bradstreet's says: "Reports from 55 cities of the country bear testimony to the unsettling effect upon early spring trade of one of the most widely spread storms of the winter. Beneficial effects of the recent low temperatures are evident in the sharply increased retail buying of household coal. Also, a few cities note the flip given to clearance sales of heavyweight goods, shoes, and rubber footwear, but a number of reports from Middle and Southern centers indicate interference with early spring buying."

City Loans Revive On Tax Collections

Wall Street Investors Again Renew Interest in Municipals.

New York, March 11 (A.P.).—Mr. Taxpayer, most cities find, seems to show a fairly gratifying readiness to toss his bit into the municipal till. Municipal financing circles in Wall street, which have been somewhat worried over city finances in various parts of the country, find some encouragement in statistics on tax collections for 1931.

America's local governments owe about $7,500,000,000 on which interest must be paid and maturities taken up annually with tax money. Much debt was contracted in boom times to finance improvements. Then the dollar was "cheap." The charges on this debt must now be met when the dollar is expensive.

It will be some months before figures for tax collections for 1931 are complete, but statistics gathered by Moody's from 110 cities indicate total delinquencies should run between 12 and 13 per cent, as against 10 per cent for 1930. Delinquencies on dates when the taxes are due are apt to be high, but taxes are collected for several months after the delinquent dates, and the figures show tax collectors are having fair success in prying the dollars loose. Moody's reports, collected from cities of 50,000 population or over, show that relatively the best showings are being made by New England and the Middle West, but the figures are far from complete.

Boies Penrose to Teach At St. John's College

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 11.—The appointment of Boies Penrose, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Penrose, of Philadelphia, and nephew of the late United States Senator Boies Penrose, of Pennsylvania, as assistant professor in history in St. John's College, Annapolis, was announced today by Dr. D. Huntley Gordon, president of the college.

Mr. Penrose, who received his A. B. degree from Harvard in 1925, and has been assistant curator of the Pennsylvania Museum, at the same time pursuing additional studies, will not take his post until the next collegiate term.

AUCTION SALES

THURSDAY, MARCH 31, 1932—
THOMAS J. OWEN & SONS, Auctioneers,
1431 Eye Street Northwest,
Washington, D. C.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF THE VALUABLE EIGHT-STORY AND BASEMENT BRICK AND LIMESTONE APARTMENT - HOTEL PROPERTY KNOWN AS "THE NEW AMSTERDAM" LOCATED AT THE NORTHEAST CORNER OF FOURTEENTH AND FAIRMONT STREETS NORTHWEST.

Because of default in the terms and condition of and by virtue of a certain deed of trust executed by New Amsterdam Company, a Delaware Corporation, dated September 1, 1926, recorded among the land records of the District of Columbia in Liber 6223 at folio 477 et seq., and at the request of over twenty-five per centum of the holders of the bonds secured thereby, the undersigned substituted trustees, by appointment of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, in Equity Cause No. 51386, will offer for sale at public auction, in front of the premises, on THURSDAY, THE 31ST DAY OF MARCH, A. D. 1932, AT FOUR O'CLOCK P. M., the following described land and premises, situate in the District of Columbia:

Part of Lot 9 in Block 32, in John Sherman, Trustee's, Subdivision of land now known as "Columbia Heights," as per plat recorded in Liber Governor Shepherd folio 137 of the Records of the office of the Surveyor of the District of Columbia; said part of lot being the south 40 feet front on 14th Street, running back between parallel lines along the south line of the lot, the full depth of the lot:

Also Lots 21, 22 and 23 in Cyrus Mason's Subdivision of part of said Block 32, "Columbia Heights," as per plat recorded in Liber County No. 8 folio 129 of the aforesaid surveyor's office records.

Said lots and part of lot being subject to the covenants that when a building is erected upon any of said lots it shall not be within 30 feet of the street line, nor shall it be used for manufacturing or mechanical purposes, nor shall spirituous liquors be sold therein; together with the improvements, consisting of the "New Amsterdam" and all furnishing and fittings and chattels therein which the said trustee under said deed of trust is authorised to sell and convey.

TERMS OF SALE: One-third of the purchase price to be paid in cash on or before the 30th day of April, 1932, balance in two equal installments, payable on or before one and two years from date of sale, respectively, with interest thereon at the rate of six per centum per annum from day of sale, said interest payable semiannually, and to be secured by first deed of trust on the property sold; or cash, at the option of the purchaser. The said trustee will receive bids from anybody before the hour of sale, or any adjournment thereof, deposit with said trustee as a pledge that such bidder will make good in case of its acceptance a deposit of $5,000, either in cash or a certified check on a bank or trust company, made or endorsed payable to the undersigned trustee, or in lieu thereof, bonds at par value of $30,000 in form transferrable by delivery, secured by said deed of trust, said bonds to have all unpaid coupons attached thereto. The deposit of any unsuccessful bidder will be returned to him immediately after the sale. In case any successful bidder shall fail to complete his purchase by April 30, 1932, in accordance with the said terms of sale, said deposit may be forfeited at the option of the said trustee. Said trustee reserves the right to reject any and all bids and withdraw the property from sale.

Adjustments with respect to taxes, assessments, insurance, rentals, income from operation of property, interest, and all other adjustments shall be made as of the date of sale, the trustee, however, to continue to manage and operate said property and collect the income therefrom from date of sale to date of transfer upon existing terms as set forth in said deed of trust. After settlement of sale said trustee will not be responsible for any bills or expenses incurred in the management or operation of said property.

Terms of sale to be complied with by the 30th day of April, 1932; otherwise, the trustee reserves the right to resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser upon the foregoing terms after advertisement of such resale to be published three times a week for two successive weeks in two newspapers published in Washington, D. C.

National Photo.

THE above picture was taken on February 12, 1908, and shows ceremonies on Maine Memorial in Arlington National Cemetery. The anchor was one of the original ones on the battleship Maine.

The Maine was blown up in the Harbor of Havana, Cuba, on February 15, 1898, and 260 lives were lost. Diplomatic relations between Spain and the United States were broken on April 21 and the Cuban blockade was declared on April 22. Spain declared war on April 24 and the United States on April 25.

The main mast of the Maine is also standing at the above memorial and the names of the men that lost their lives in the sinking of the ship are inscribed on a tablet at the shrine.

CITY HEADS SETTLE LONG CONTROVERSY ON STREET CLOSING

Commissioners and Planning Group Find Compromise Plan at Hearing.

LATTER ALLOWED RIGHT OF RECOMMENDATIONS

Personal Differences Over Issues Denied; Action on Pay Is Delayed.

Differences between District Commissioners and the National Capital Park and Planning Commission over jurisdiction in the closing of Capital thoroughfares were ironed out yesterday at hearings before the Senate District committee.

The Commissioners, who had opposed a bill authorizing them to close streets, because the Park and Planning Commission could review their decisions, urged enactment of the measure when a compromise was reached on the issue. Under the agreement the commission could only make recommendations.

Senator Warren R. Austin (Republican), Vermont, was appointed a committee of one to further consider the measure in light of the suggested amendments.

Action on Pay Delayed.

The committee delayed action on a bill to reimburse directors of colored schools for alleged pay inequities between 1906 and 1924. Superintendent of Schools Frank W. Ballou and Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor, took the stand to deny charges of discrimination in pay of white and colored directors during the year's mentioned.

Appearing for the colored employes, Isaiah Lisenby and the Rev. J. C. Olden argued that colored directors were given the title of assistant directors and paid less than white employes doing the same work until reclassification remedied the difference in pay in 1924.

Maj. D. A. Davison represented the District Commissioners on the street closing bill, while Frederic A. Delano, Charles W. Eliot 3d and Col. U. S. Grant 3d appeared for the Planning Commissioners.

Deny Personal Differences.

Denying "personal differences" with the Commissioners, Mr. Delano and Col. Grant said they desired the right to approve acts of the Commissioners in closing streets in the interest of preserving the beauty of the city and preventing "arbitrary" action. Mr. Delano declared Washington's street program "too rigid;" that hills were sometimes cut through and valleys filled, when there was no need.

Dr. George C. Havenner, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, opposed granting the Park and Planning Commission "veto power" over the Commissioners. Others appearing in support of the bill included Dr. Llewellyn Jordan and George C. Shinn, of the Washington Board of Trade, and Grover W. Ayers.

Snow Is Forecast In City Tomorrow

Weather Bureau Predicts Continued Cold for Capital Also.

Overshoes and skid chains will be in order again tomorrow if the Weather Bureau's prediction of snow is correct.

Continued cold today and tomorrow was the forecast late last night. A light snow is expected tomorrow. Both days will be cloudy, according to the forecast.

A disturbance over the Gulf of Mexico is said by the weather officials to carry the promise of snow if it follows the usual route.

The present Gulf situation is scheduled to bring rain to the South Atlantic States and snow north to Lake Erie and New England in the next 24 hours.

Effects of the blizzard of Sunday have been mitigated. The American Automobile Association reports that 98 per cent of the roads are passable, and railroad facilities have succeeded in establishing an almost normal state of service.

Hucksters to Lose Sidewalk Stands

Seventh Street Area, Used for 20 Years, Must Be Vacated.

The District Commissioners yesterday took steps to break up a sidewalk hucksters' rendezvous, which has been winked at for the past twenty years. The sidewalk in question is on Seventh street, between O and P streets northwest.

While the Police Department was instructed to warn the "tenants" that their occupation is illegal, and that warrants will be issued if they do not withdraw, the Commissioners advised the police to get in touch with Corporation Counsel William W. Bride before obtaining any warrants.

The trouble arose from a complaint filed by Fred J. Rice, an attorney. Mr. Bride wrote a lengthy opinion, in which he advised that as a matter of policy the hucksters might be divided into two classes, and that those occupying stands immediately adjacent to the market be allowed to remain because of their long occupancy.

2 Face Rum Possession Counts Following Chase

Two colored men were arrested yesterday following a liquor chase which ended at Thirteenth street and Columbia road, where police overtook the car. Arthur Shelton, 29 years old, colored, who gave his address as 1780 Willard street northwest, and Walter Lucas, 42 years old, colored, who said he lived at 1816 Fifteenth street northwest, were charged with illegal possession of alleged liquor.

The arrests were made by K. O. Speiss and R. Schleichert. A small quantity of alleged liquor was confiscated.

Officials at the opening of the Northeast Public Branch Library at Seventh and Maryland avenue northeast last night. Left to right—Cecil J. McHale, branch librarian; Maurice Otterback, trustee; Dr. George Havenner, chairman of the committee on branch libraries, receiving the key from Commissioner Herbert Crosby; George F. Bowerman, chief librarian, and Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools.

DEDICATION IS HELD AT BRANCH LIBRARY

$180,000 Northeastern Unit Opened With Ceremonies Attended by Leaders.

Dedicatory ceremonies with municipal and governmental leaders in attendance last night officially opened the $180,000 Northeastern Branch Library at Seventh street and Maryland avenue northeast.

Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby officially turned the library over to its trustees when he presented the key to Dr. George C. Havenner.

After music by the Eastern High School Orchestra, invocation was delivered by Dr. Alfred E. Barrows, pastor of the Eastern Presbyterian Church.

After greetings from Representative William P. Holaday, brief remarks were heard from the head of several civic groups whose work was responsible for the securing of the branch in the section.

Evan H. Tucker, of the Northeast Citizens' Association; A. H. Gregory, of the Stanton Park Citizens Association; James L. Gammel, of the Lincoln Park Citizens Association; George Cleary, of the Trinidad Citizens Association; H. R. King, of the Northeast Business Men's Association; Mrs Florence Rogers, of the public schools, and Mrs. J. N. Saunders, of the Parent-Teacher Congress, spoke.

After remarks by Dr. George E. Bowerman, chief librarian of the Public Library, and Cecil J. McHale, branch librarian, the exercises closed with a benediction by the Rev. Paul J. Dougherty, assistant rector of Holy Name Church.

2 Acquitted Policemen Are Restored to Duty

Policemen L. E. Hazard and E. D. Lambert, who were acquitted this week of charges of assault on Frederick Smith, colored athletic instructor, after a trial in District Supreme Court, have been restored to duty by order of the District Commissioners.

The men, who were suspended on October 16, 1831, will receive full back pay, under regulations of the Police Department.

Capper to Receive Mapes Data Today

H. D. Brown to Report on Recommendations for District Taxes.

Herbert D. Brown, director of the Bureau of Efficiency, today will turn over to Senator Arthur Capper's Senate District committee his recommendations on three of the Mapes taxation measures designed to swell local taxes by $4,000,000.

The bills, providing for automobile weight and estate taxes, and an increase of 2 cents in the gasoline tax, will be submitted to the committee together with the bureau's report. Senator Capper will open hearings on the measures within the next ten days.

Director Brown is not yet prepared to report on the District income tax bill nor the bill to abolish the 60-40 Federal lump sum plan, which, together with the other measures, have passed the House. Senator Capper will open hearings on the first three bills and hopes to have the last two reports before him before they are through.

Cost of Commerce Building Defended

Attacks on Expenditure for Structure Bring Reply From Snell.

Attacks on the cost of the new Commerce Department Building, and charges that it "is as magnificent as any palace in Europe" were countered yesterday by Representative Bertrand H. Snell (Republican), of New York, who compared it with purely commercial structures.

Its cost of 62½ cents a cubic foot compares favorably, he said, with the Empire State Building in New York, which cost from 70 to 80 cents; the Chrysler Building, which cost 80 cents, and the Sterrit Building in Memphis, which cost 75 cents per cubic foot.

"The cost of the House Office Building, now under construction, is 70 cents per cubic foot," he said. "If the Commerce Building had cost as much as the House Office Building it would have required an additional expenditure of approximately $5,000,000. Its cost compares favorably also with $1.06 per cubic foot for the Supreme Court Building."

Delegates at Interseminary Movement Parley to Hear Duke Dean Today.

The ninth annual conference of the interseminary movement, comprising 150 delegates, held a public session last night at Howard University, when the danger, the possibilities and the interests of the church in politics were discussed by Kirby Page, of New York; by James B. Matthews, of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, and by Col. James E. Yates, chief of chaplains of the United States Army.

Dean Elbert Russell, of Duke University, will address the conference at 9 o'clock this morning on "Missions and International Relations," while Dr. Charles H. Wesley will give the closing address on "Christianity and Nationalism."

A banquet held last night in the university dining hall was addressed by Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, university president, and Clarence E. Pickett, of Philadelphia, secretary of the American Friends Society, both discussing the ministry and politics.

Members of the conference are guests of Howard University, and were conducted on a sightseeing tour of the city yesterday under university auspices.

Five Sewer Contracts Awarded by City Heads

Five sewer contracts were awarded yesterday by the District Commissioners upon recommendation of A. D. Black, engineer of sewers. They are as followws:

Roy D. Schlegel, construction of the Dahlia street storm water sewer, between Seventh and Eighth streets, $1,833.80, and the Forty-fifth and Davenport streets service sewer, $1,721.35; Robert G. Lassiter & Co., Twenty-fifth street replacement sewer, between I and K streets, $3,456.74; Warren F. Brenizer Co., portions of Michigan avenue valley and East Brookland storm water sewer contracts, $52,123.99, and Second street service sewer, Second and Kennedy streets, $1,472.66.

BROODING, SICK MAN ENDS LIFE BY SHOTS

Waters A. Phelps Is Suicide, Says Coroner, After Three Bullets Are Fired.

Waters A. Phelps, 51, committed suicide last night at the home of his brother-in-law, George T. Webster, 732 Fourth street southeast. Three shots were fired by Phelps, two taking effect.

The dead man, a bachelor, had been despondent for various reasons over a long period, relatives and friends told police. He had often said that "some day" he was going to kill himself. After an autopsy at the District Morgue and receipt of police reports of the death, Deputy Coroner Christopher Murphy issued a certificate of suicide.

John W. Phelps, brother of the dead man, discovered the tragedy when he went to investigate his brother's nonappearance for supper. The dead man was lying, fully clothed, on his bed, with one shot above his heart and another through his forehead.

The unusual circumstance of three shots being fired—a third bullet was found imbedded in the wall—caused police to be at first suspicious about the death. However, reconstructing the event and the general agreement of friends and kin that the man had suicidal ideas, allayed their doubts.

Phelps had been unemployed for about two years and was not in good health.

Patient Is Convicted Of Assaulting Doctor

On the strength of testimony given by Dr. James Bowman, of Casualty Hospital, Lawrence Pettit, in Police Court, yesterday was convicted of assaulting the physician when he responded to an emergency call last month.

Dr. Bowman testified that as a result of a blow he received he was forced to have five stitches taken in his lip. Sentence was deferred pending arguments for a new trial on behalf of Pettit.

Food Exposition Will End Today

Two More Baby Contests and 'Carnival Night' to Be Features.

The closing program of the United Food Stores Exposition in the Washington Auditorium today will be marked by two popular baby contests in the afternoon, and a gala "carnival night" tonight, featured by presentation of the several prizes, including a 1932 automobile. The baby popularity competitions will include a twins contest and a final contest in which winners of the six daily contests will participate.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Zupnick, of 5217 Connecticut avenue northwest, married two months, were declared winners in the "youngest married couple" contest last night, while Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Miner, of 2142 O street northwest, married 46 years, won the contest for "oldest married couple."

The winner of last night's major prize, a Majestic Radio, was Miss Ethel Smith, of 1345 F street northeast. The baby popularity contest for infants between 2 and 3 years old, resulted yesterday afternoon in a victory for Roy Velde, 2½-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Velde, of 609 Irving street northwest.

Slayer Sentenced to 25 Years.

Robert Ford, convicted of second degree murder in connection with the slaying on November 15 of James Turner, yesterday was sentenced to 25 years in the penitentiary.

SENATE WILL ORDER INQUIRY ON POTOMAC SEWAGE CONDITIONS

Investigation Will Be Made on Health of River Communities.

FISH LIFE EFFECT ALSO IS INCLUDED IN PROBE

Bill on Credit Unions and 3 Others Are Passed Over at Session.

The Senate yesterday voted to order the Public Health Service to make a thorough investigation of sewage conditions in the Potomac River and report its findings to Congress.

A resolution by Senator Claude A. Swanson (Democrat), Virginia, asking inquiry into the effect of Potomac sewage on the health of the river communities and fish life in the stream was adopted by the body.

Methods of sewage disposal would be studied by the surgeon general of the Public Health Service, who would recommend changes to improve river conditions.

4 Other Bills Passed Over.

Four other District bills were passed over by the Senate, one, to authorize incorporation of credit unions in the District, precipitating a caustic debate between Senator John J. Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, and Senator L. J. Dickinson (Republican), Iowa.

The measure, which was opposed by the District Bankers Association at Senate District committee hearings, would permit groups of people to incorporate for the purpose of loaning one another money at low rates of interest.

Declared "Too Complicated."

Senator Blaine's "blue sky" securities bill, and his bill to regulate real estate activities in the District, were blocked by Senator David A. Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, who declared they were "too long and complicated" to be considered on the consent calendar.

Senator Royal S. Copeland's bill to appropriate $50,000 for alterations to Casualty Hospital, and to defray indebtedness, was also passed over by the Senate.

Man's Clothing Ablaze, Co-Workers Save Him

Quick action by fellow workers probably saved the life of Stanley Warr 1, 28 years old, of 2228 Nicholas avenue southeast, when his clothing caught fire yesterday afternoon as he was attempting to warm his hands over a blaze in front of a house at 1514 Nineteenth street northwest.

Warren, working with a construction crew making repairs on the house, was standing near a fire they had kindled in the front yard. As he edged close to the blaze his clothing suddenly burst into flames. Companions rushed to his aid and succeeded in extinguishing his burning garments. At Emergency Hospital it was found he suffered first and second degree burns to his hands and arms. His condition is not serious.

Woman Victim's Scream Foils Robbery Attempt

The startled scream of Bessie Corbin, of 35 Constitution avenue northwest, last night frightened off a Negro, who attempted to rob her at the point of a pistol as she walked on Indiana avenue northwest, near Second street.

Th woman told police, who responded to a telephoned alarm, that the man demanded her pocketbook when he appeared from an areaway. When she made outcry, he ran to the corner and disappeared down Third street.

Lone Bandit Robs Office of Laundry

Jumps Counter and Takes About $10 Then Flees Down L Street.

A lone white bandit early last night walked briskly into the Palace Laundry branch at 1725 L street northwest, leaped over the counter, rifled the cash register of about $10 and ran into the street.

The only attendant, Miss Marie Archer, said the man apparently had a gun in his hip pocket and kept his hand on it. This dissuaded her from making any outcry, she said. A white cotton glove was worn on the right hand of the robber, evidently in the fear of leaving fingerprints.

Police hurried to the scene and shortly afterward a description of the thief was broadcast over the radio system. The man was about 28 years old, Miss Archer said, had on a gray sweater and hat and was tall and slender.

3 IN CITY ARCHITECT OFFICE FURLOUGHED

More Will Be Released Because of Diminishing Appropriations.

Three employes in the municipal architect's office were furloughed for an indefinite period by the District Commissioners yesterday in order that the office may come within the $50,000 deficiency appropriation granted by Congress for the remainder of the fiscal year. At least two other employes will be released shortly, according to Maj. D. A. Davison, Acting Engineer Commissioner.

Maj. Davison also revealed that the 31 architects and engineers engaged in work on the municipal center in the Ford Building will be discharged about April 30, whether or not Congress appropriates the money asked in the 1933 estimates to place the first unit under contract. Unless Congress at the same time authorizes the Commissioners to draft plans for the second unit, which is not at all likely, there will be no more need for the special architect force, he explained.

Because the District's building program for the fiscal year 1933 is only about two-thirds as great as the 1932 construction, Maj. Davison said there will be even more lay-offs in the municipal architect's office during the next fiscal year. The reason for this, he explained, is that the inspectors and designers are paid from 3 per cent of the fund appropriated for each construction project. Thus, when the building work decreases, the amount available for salaries falls off proportionally.

The three men released yesterday are William B. Decker, a junior clerk; Donald A. Kilmer, an apprentice engineering field aid, and Ralph L. Whitcomb, an assistant engineer.

One of the men, Mr. Decker, was threatened with discharge last fall, but the municipal architect reconsidered and retained him after Senator Copeland, of New York, and Representative Fred Britten, of Illinois, had interceded in his behalf.

Plea of 'Unloaded' Gun Fails to Save 'Collector'

The fact that John Fisher, colored, convicted last week of robbery, held an unloaded gun "on his man" when he took $7.50 from him, yesterday failed to move Justice F. D. Letts, in the District Supreme Court.

Fisher was given a seven-year sentence, despite his protestations that he felt that he had been cheated of the money in a game.

BLACK MAY DELAY REPORT ON MERGER

Alleged Pressure Brought for Street Car Plan May Halt Action.

Representative Loring M. Black, jr., chairman of the utilities subcommittee of the House District committee, who had planned to report the local traction merger bill next week, yesterday indicated he may hold up action due to alleged "pressure" to bring about consolidation.

He said his suspicions have been aroused by activity in behalf of the bill now pending before his subcommittee. Recently, he said, his telephones have been kept busy with inquiries on the status of the measure.

The Senate District committee plans to take up the merger question next Friday. Hearings on the bills have been printed and today will be distributed to members of the Senate committee for their information.

Lawyer for Pitts Is Judged Insane

Sidney Roche, 60, Will Be Given Treatment at St. Elizabeths.

Sidney Roche, 60 years old, a member of the local bar, and one of the many attorneys who have represented G. Bryan Pitts in his legal battles, yesterday was sent to the St. Elizabeths Hospital, following a finding by a lunacy jury that he was of unsound mind.

Drs. D. Percy Hickling and Fred A. Moss testified that in their professional opinion, Roche was suffering from a depressive type of mental instability.

Roche entered his appearance for Pitts several weeks ago, and withdrew it shortly afterwards. It took the jury half an hour to decide on an opinion that he should be sent to the hospital. Roche was admitted to the bar here in 1910.

Capitol Candy School Files Bankruptcy Writ

The Capitol Candy School, Inc., of 631 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, yesterday filed in the District Supreme Court a petition in voluntary bankruptcy.

The company, through its president, Carl C. Mueller, and its attorney, Charles W. Claggett, filed a schedule showing assets of $36,209.38 and liabilities of $46,115.58.

INSPECTION BATTLE MAKES OPEN BREAK IN DISTRICT REGIME

Commissioners Ignore Oehmann's Report Favoring Building Changes.

ORAM RECOMMENDATION IS SUSTAINED BY ACTION

Requests on Window Alter and Signs Permission Are Refused.

The friction between the building inspector's office and the newly-appointed director of inspection, which has existed beneath the surface since the recent reorganization of the District engineer department, yesterday came out in the open when five sign applications and one request for remodelling show windows were disapproved by the District Commissioners despite favorable reports by John W. Oehmann, veteran building inspector.

In denying the application, the Commissioners were sustaining Capt. Hugh P. Oram, director of inspection, and the Fine Arts Commission.

Attractions of Windows Sought.

One of the applications involved the alterations of show windows in the Saks building, recently acquired by S. Kann Sons Co., on Market place.

The applicant desired permission to construct new show windows to replace those that have stood for 47 years, but the commissioners denied the request on the ground that the windows would project into public space, as the present ones do.

The four requests for permission to erect signs were as follows: Canton Pagoda Restaurant, 1343 E street northwest; the Occidental Hotel, 1411 Pennsylvania avenue; the Federal Drug Co., 1419 Pennsylvania avenue, and Norman W. Oyster Co., Inc., Kellogg Building, for permission to clean and repaint signs at Fifteenth and F streets.

Investigations Were Made.

In all five instances inspectors from the building inspector's office made investigations before recommending favorable action.

Prior to the engineer department shakeup the building inspector had more direct contact with the engineer commissioner and actually more authority than under the present set-up.

Man Surprised in Store By Police Held as Thief

Surprised by a policeman as he allegedly was ransacking a grocery store at 1201 Fifth street northwest, early yesterday, Frank Thomas, colored, 27 years old, of 123 Eighth street northwest, was arrested and held at the Second Precinct Station for investigation. Five dollars he is alleged to have taken from a cash register was found in his possession.

Policeman R. D. Chenault, walking his beat, noticed the front window of the store had been smashed. With the aid of his flashlight he discovered Thomas crouching behind a counter. Julius Weiman, proprietor of the store, said that $5 was missing from the till.

Fight to Save N'Gi May Aid In Keeping Other Apes Alive

Much Learned About Effects of Diseases on Gorillas During Attempt to Prevent Death of Pet at Zoo; Only Few Others in Captivity.

Science may have learned enough in its fight to save the life of N'Gi to save other gorillas in captivity in this country, according to Dr. William M. Mann, director of the Zoo here. Although the effort to save N'Gi was futile, a great deal was learned about the effects of pulmonary diseases on gorillas.

Gorillas, Dr. Mann said, are more like man than any of the other apes. Scientists have sought to learn why by watching the growth of the young animals, but so far their efforts have been frustrated by disease. It is thought possible that they are liable to pneumonia in their native surroundings, for they are always kept in captivity in jungle temperatures maintained artificially. Nevertheless, they are exceedingly subject to pneumonia and allied diseases.

The death of N'Gi leaves only eight young gorillas in captivity in this country. The Zoo here has another one, O'Kero, African for "Snowball," who caught N'Gi's cold, but seems to be recovering. There are two in a zoo in San Diego, Calif., and one each in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Cincinnati, and St. Louis. About six are in European zoos, it is estimated.

Gorillas have a brain capacity of about 600 cubic centimeters, while the skull of primitive man had a capacity of about 900 cubic centimeters. Furthermore, the huge apes are not skillful tree climbers, and prefer to travel on the ground. They sleep in rough nests built on the ground or in low trees. Gorillas usually form clans of from 5 to 12 members, and move about constantly. Young bamboo shoots, fruits, and vegetables form the staple of their diet. There are about 2,000 to 3,000 gorillas in Africa, many of them living in a special sanctuary in the Belgian Congo, established by King Leopold at the request of Carl Akeley, American explorer.

Old Prejudices and Habits Kept by Many Moroccans

National Geographic Society Hears Capt. Carl von Hoffman Tell of Progress French Have Made in Modernizing African Country.

A favorite Moroccan proverb, "Only madmen and fools act in a hurry," is demonstrated today in the lives of the people of Morocco. Capt. Carl von Hoffman told members of the National Geographic Society last night in an address at the Washington Auditorium. The French have made many physical changes in certain governmental practices, he said, but behind it all the Moors still cling to their way of life. Christians are still looked upon in many parts of the country as infidels, large harems are maintained, and women go about veiled when away from their quarters.

Capt. von Hoffman found it difficult to use a camera freely because of the religious prejudice of Moslems against "images." Many striking photographs were taken by him from roofs while the subjects remained in ignorance of his presence. On one occasion he got excellent results by hiring a snake charmer to go about with him attracting crowds and holding their attention while they were photographed.

Moroccan meals, according to Capt. von Hoffman, are elaborate affairs. Motion pictures showed numerous Moroccan industries and street scenes.

Taxi Driver Fined $25 In Second Speeding Case

Convicted of second offense speeding, George D. Kline, a taxicab driver, yesterday was sentenced to pay a $25 fine in Police Court. His personal bond was taken on a charge of driving on the wrong side of the street.

Policeman H. O. Tutt, of the Traffic Bureau, said that he paced Kline at 40 miles an hour on Sherman avenue. Kline denied that he had been speeding.
